FOE SWARMS OVER BRITAIN

FIGHT FEDERAL SNOOPING INTO INSURANCE MAIL

SEC Sleuths Balked in Chicago.

Agents for the Federal Securities and Exchange commission, it was learned last night, have in the last few days demanded that they be allowed to inspect and copy the private letter files of executives of a national insurance trade association with headquarters in Chicago.

The investigators have evinced particular interest in messages passing between these executives and members of congress. Charles Burton Robbins, manager and general counsel for the association, the American Life convention, said that he was threatened with a subpena when he declined Monday to hand over his private letter files.

Denied Access to Files.

"An agent named Blomquist," Robbins said, "came to our office at 230 North Michigan avenue on Monday. He said he was in charge of gathering information which the SEC would present to the congressional committee investigating monopolies.

"When he asked to see my files I said he could not, that I had letters there from members of congress, addressed to their constituents, and that they were private. Blomquist said he wanted to see them anyway, and that he would obtain a subpena if necessary to get them."

Robbins would not say what he would do if the subpena were issued, but other insurance executives said the matter would be fought in court on the ground that letters were confidential and could not be seized without violation of constitutional rights.

Fight Federal Control.

The American Life convention, which has a membership of more than 140 large, medium, and small American insurance companies, has undertaken a campaign to keep the insurance business under state rather than federal control, and has made charges that the SEC is conducting its present investigation with a view to building up a case against state supervision.

Isaac Miller Hamilton, chairman and former president of the Federal Life Insurance company, declared last night that the real object of the SEC was to use the investigation as a springboard from which "to launch a drive to win federal control of the entire insurance business in the country for itself."

"SEC presents all insurance information to the temporary national economic [monopoly] committee," Hamilton said. "Its underlings have been discourteous to witnesses. They ask tricky questions and demand yes or no as answers. Trying to make out a case for one side, they ignore all fair rules of evidence."

Recall Black Seizure.

Other insurance men asserted that the effort to obtain letters containing the views of congressmen and senators was comparable to the acts of agents for the Black lobby investigating committee in 1936. That committee, headed by Senator Hugo L. Black, now a Supreme court justice, seized telegrams sent out by an investors' association and aroused storms of criticism.

Less than three weeks ago Senator Edward R. Burke [D., Neb.] warned a group of insurance men in Omaha that one probable result of the monopoly committee investigation would be a proposal for the SEC or "perhaps a brand new burocratic body" to take charge of elections of directors of insurance companies.

"If these proposals are made effective," he said, "it will mean a new impetus is given to the movement toward socialization of business and industry."

Last Free Capital in Country.

The American Life convention, in its annual meeting in Chicago last October, reiterated its stand for state supervision. The general attitude of the delegates was that the 30 billion dollars of investment capital in the insurance company treasuries, the last pool of free capital in the United States, should not be placed under federal control.

In December the convention issued a brochure expressing its views. It excoriated the monopoly committee investigation so far as it relates to insurance. One quotation was:

"The tenor of the investigation is that of a prosecution rather than an impartial inquiry, and anything of a

SOLDIERS DON SKATES TO GUARD FRONTIER AS BORDER LAKE FREEZES

NEUCHATEL, Switzerland, Jan. 11 (AP).—The French and Swiss armies put small detachments of soldiers on skates today to guard the boundary line between their two nations where it crosses a frozen lake. Les Brenets lake in the Jura mountains froze over last night, and today was filled with several hundred French and Swiss skaters who merrily ignored the mid-lake frontier. Officers marked the boundary line with barrels. Skating patrols of 20 armed soldiers then were created on each side to keep all skaters on their own side of the barrel frontier and to break up all attempts at conversation.

AIRLINER FORCED TO LAND ON ICE; 8 ARE INJURED

Moline, Ill., Jan. 12, Friday.—Five passengers and three crew members were slightly injured early today when a huge Douglas Mainliner of the United Air Lines made a forced landing on the icebound Rock river two miles south of here.

The injured were taken to a hospital. Except for Capt. Charles Wheeler, the pilot, they were found to be suffering only from bruises or lacerations. Wheeler suffered a possible leg fracture. The others were Mrs. James O'Keefer, 6231 Eberhart avenue, Chicago, a school teacher; Walter R. Ransom of the Philippine Islands; Robert E. Forman of Brooklyn, N. Y., a broker; Walter R. Kuhlman of Stockton, Cal., and Sato F. Lum of Nagasaki, Japan, passengers, and Co-Pilot J. H. Pennoyer and Stewardess Mary Ann McCleary.

The ship, which was a sleeper section bound from New York for the west coast, encountered trouble over Iowa City, Ia., when one of its motors became disabled. Pilot Wheeler turned back toward the Moline airport. With only one motor running, he overshot the field. The under part of his ship brushed the tops of some trees, but he made a skidding landing on the ice river. The right wing was sheered off and the motor thrown on a river bank.

983,000 Tons of German Goods Halted by Blockade

PARIS, Jan. 11 (AP).—The French blockade ministry today announced that France and Britain have intercepted nearly 1,000,000 tons of merchandise bound to or from Germany since the war started. Of this, 544,000 tons were credited to the British and 439,000 to the French. The ministry said French patrols had halted six ships during the first week in January, intercepting 12,000 tons of merchandise.

American Yule Gifts Seized by Britain's Navy

BY E. R. NODERER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BASEL, Switzerland, Jan. 11.—Americans in Basel received their Christmas cards from home today. They had been held up at Gibraltar while the British searched the mails for contraband, authorities said.

At the same time Basel residents learned that the British navy had seized Christmas presents which were sent to them by friends and relatives in America. Addressees were notified by shipping agencies that their presents will be released from custody in Gibraltar only if they are able to satisfy the British consul in Basel that the ultimate destination of the goods is not Germany.

Americans Foot the Bill.

If the consul's requirements can be met clearance papers for the gifts will be issued. The papers will travel in a roundabout way. They will go from Gibraltar to Genoa, Italy, and thence to Basel and London. After inspection by the contraband control agency in London the documents will be forwarded to Gibraltar for release of the packages.

Despite the fact that the British are seizing American goods from American ships they are making Americans and other recipients foot the bill. Every one here who wants his Christmas gift is required to come across with 8 Swiss francs [$1.79] to pay for the privilege of getting it.

Most of this merchandise is aboard the American export vessel Exeter which, according to shipping agencies, has been held at Gibraltar since Jan. 3. Shippers said they have been informed by the British that the vessel will be held there until the clearance papers arrive.

May Take Gifts as Contraband.

Since several hundred packages are involved, it was said there probably will be a number of persons who will not pay the eight francs either as a matter of principle or because they think the gifts are not worth it. It was assumed that in these cases the gifts will be taken off the vessel and disposed of by the British as contraband. This procedure also will be followed with presents addressed to persons unable to satisfy the British consul as to their ultimate destination.

Since most Americans have been evacuated from this area, the majority of the gifts are addressed to Swiss or German residents in Basel who formerly lived in the United States or who have friends or relatives there. German citizens, of whom there are 50,000 in Basel, have no hope of getting their shipment from the clutches of the blockade even tho they have lived in Switzerland for years.

Small parcel post packages came thru the blockade without any more than the usual delay, but shipments large enough to require the services of a shipping agency were held up.

Money Orders Missing.

Several Americans here reported that postal money orders sent from the United States failed to arrive. Two were notified by letter that on Nov. 30 each was sent a Christmas money order by relatives.

Business men have protested to American consular authorities about interference with their mail and a number of reports have been sent to Washington, D. C., on the subject. The Swiss said that the British have no right to read their business correspondence from another neutral country. They also complained that the long delay in mail service hurts business.

FIND A WAY TO GROW AN ADEQUATE SUPPLY OF TYPHUS VACCINE

New York, Jan. 11.—Discovery at Harvard Medical school of a new method to produce enough typhus fever vaccine to protect an entire nation and probably the whole world, was announced today in the publication Science.

Typhus is one of the principal medical worries in the present European war, as it was in the last when delousing of clothing was universal in armies. Lice carry the disease.

It is endemic in Russia and parts of the Balkans. Wars always have spread it to civilian populations. Food shortages render people more susceptible, so that historically it is known as the famine disease. There are two main types, European and American. The American has been far less destructive of life.

How to make typhus vaccine has been known, but the method produced only enough vaccine to innoculate 20,000 persons a year. The Harvard discovery is how to grow enough typhus germs to get quantity production. They have found the germs flourish if first placed in fertilized hens' eggs and then in agar.

Kisses Man's Wife; Must Spend 8 Months in Prison

BARI, Italy, Jan. 11 (AP).—Because he kissed another man's wife, Giovacchino Palladino must serve eight months in prison. Visiting at a friend's home, he kissed Signora Pinto, whereupon Pinto smashed a wine bottle on his head. A court absolved Pinto and fined Palladino $50. Palladino appealed to a higher court, which imposed the prison sentence. It ruled Pinto had acted legitimately.

BORAH OPPOSES ANY NEW POWER FOR ROOSEVELT

Calls Edison Request Threat to Rights.

BY CHESLY MANLY.

Sen. Wm. E. Borah.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 11.—Secretary of the Navy Charles Edison's proposal to confer upon President Roosevelt dictatorial war powers, to be exercised in peacetime in the name of a national emergency, was condemned by Senator William E. Borah [R., Idaho] today as a violation of the most fundamental principles of constitutional government and of democratic processes.

In a speech on the floor of the senate blasting the Edison proposal, Senator Borah declared that the theory under which it was submitted would permit the suspension of the bill of rights—the prohibition of free speech, free press, and the right of trial by jury—in the name of a national emergency.

The proposed bill, he said, is only a sample of the many measures introduced and urged to set up a totalitarian dictatorship in wartime and of efforts being made to undermine and break down faith in the democratic processes.

Senate Confirms Edison.

Senator Borah spoke just before the senate considered and unanimously confirmed Mr. Edison's nomination as secretary of the navy. He said he had no objection to the appointment, but was unwilling to have it appear, even by implication, that he indorsed any such proposed legislation.

Mr. Edison on Dec. 14 sent a draft bill to Speaker of the House William B. Bankhead, urging its passage in order to "vest with the President, during a national emergency, those powers which he has in time of war by the terms" of the emergency naval appropriation act of March 4, 1917.

The act of 1917, Mr. Edison's letter explained, "contains several paragraphs vesting extraordinary powers in the President with reference to the procurement of ships and materials, commandeering factories, and the like." The powers, he said, were limited to be exercised only "in time of actual war or of national emergency arising prior to March 1, 1918, to be determined by the President by proclamation."

Proposed Bill Tucked Away.

The proposed bill was referred to the committee on naval affairs, whose chairman, Representative Carl Vinson [D., Ga.], consigned it to a basket where he said it would rest indefinitely.

"The measure, if enacted," said Senator Borah, "would confer power, or seek to confer power, to seize and confiscate property, such as factories, ships, and other materials, to cancel or modify contracts and agreements, to interfere with the personal rights of the citizen and his personal liberty—and all this to be done in time of peace before any declaration of war upon the part of the government.

"The theory seems to be that, in what is called a so-called emergency, those arbitrary powers are to be called into existence and exercised. So far, I am unable to find any explanation, or reason, or argument accompanying the request of the proposed measure. The bill also provides that, in case any factory operated refused or failed to comply with its terms, the President might fix a reasonable price, all of which in contemplation of law would be an act of confiscation.

Raps Emergency Claims.

"I am not going to discuss, because it has no relevancy now, the question of what could be done 'in time of war.' I think there are a great many things that cannot be done 'in time of war,' but there is no need of going into that question. I am dealing now with a question of a mere claim of emergency. May all these powers be granted, most of which are in plain violation of the constitution, on a claim of emergency?

"We are proceeding to enact such legislation, not in an emergency connected with war, but in an emergency isolated and alone. I venture to

Tribune Man Tells of Prison Camp for Reds

BY DONALD DAY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

AT A FINNISH PRISON CAMP, Jan. 11.—I visited a Finnish prison camp today and spent the day talking with a number of Russian captives.

This camp, a five hour drive from Helsingfors, formerly was used for a house of correction for Finns. It now confines a large number of Russian officers and noncoms, most of whom are from the aviation and tank corps of the Red army.

I questioned a number of prisoners separately in the presence of Finnish officials. I had prepared a list of 26 questions which I asked each man. Their answers were almost the same.

All said the Russian people did not want to fight a war, even against Finland. When asked if they thought the Stalin régime would last, they shrugged their shoulders. They blamed Stalin and certain military circles in Moscow for the war.

Afraid to Write Home.

The men wished to write home to their wives and relatives, but were afraid that the news of their captivity might result in their families being persecuted. Only one said he would like to be returned to Russia if an exchange of prisoners were made. I asked if he were not afraid.

"I haven't done anything," he said. "Of course, they might arrest me, and then there would be an investigation. I would take the chance."

Others were not so sure. They pleaded that their names not be published. They said they would like to remain in Finland—anyway until the war was over. Not one wished to reenter the service of the Red army, altho the pay they had been receiving was larger than the pay they got in civil life.

Their civil pay had averaged from the 175 rubles [nominally $35] a month for a chauffeur to 325 rubles [$65] for a mechanic. In the army the mechanic who was a senior lieutenant in the air corps was receiving 850 rubles [$170] per month—of which he sent 500 rubles to his family. None of the men, even the pilots, had the equivalent of an American high school education.

Malcontents Punished.

This question I asked the tank officers:

"Who were those men who advanced before the tanks, prodding the ground with crowbars, searching for land mines, and why were they being sent to certain death?"

The officers said the men usually were discontented infantrymen who had been given the job as punishment by the political commissars with the army.

Finland had prepared for the Russian invasion, but had not prepared to accommodate a large number of prisoners. The clothing and feeding of the several thousand already captured has provided quite a problem.

The Russian captives are receiving more butter than persons do in England under the new British rationing system. Each prisoner receives 60 grams [about 2.1 ounces] of butter daily. In England ration card holders receive 4 ounces per week.

Better Than Former Food.

The food served the prisoners—both in quantity and quality—is better than the meals being served the officers' mess at the soviet aviation bases, captured flyers said.

Here the prisoners were being served warm breakfast and lunch and a cold supper with a pint and a half of milk each day. The Russians have been gaining weight, averaging two pounds per week.

The Finns have not yet organized any large scale work for the prisoners, but have them chopping wood. They have saws driven by electricity to cut down the saplings, which other men chop into kindling. Later they will be employed on the farm which now supplies their food.

HOW TO BUILD A BARGAIN MENU

Lamb shoulder, beef roast, smoked butt, plus broccoli, cabbage, celery, sweet or Irish potatoes—these are just a few of the week-end food bargains available, reports Mary Meade, Tribune Home Economics editor.

HITLER FLYERS BATTLED ON 500 MILES OF COAST

Nazis Pierce English Defense Centers.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 11.—Adolf Hitler's bombers kept the east coast of Britain on edge all day today. In the biggest burst of activity in the war they penetrated shore defenses at six points along more than 500 miles of coastline from northeast Scotland to the English channel and struck at British shipping in the North Sea.

Fighter planes and antiaircraft batteries swung into action against the raiders over the busy naval centers on the Firth of Forth in East Scotland; at the industrial zones of Newcastle, and South Shields on the Tyne river; over Norfolk county, and the Thames and Humber river estuaries.

Crowds swarmed into the streets to trace the progress of the sky battles from blazing guns and white puffs of bursting shells.

Altho no land objectives were reported attacked, dramatic radio SOS's trickling in thruout the day revealed that eight British ships were bombed and machine gunned by the German raiders. Three were reported damaged.

Crowds See Ship Attacked.

Crowds at an east coast resort saw a bomber attack a small steamer several miles from shore. The steamer burst into flames and a lifeboat took off the crew. British fighters drove off the attacking plane.

The fiercest battle of the day was waged off the Norfolk coast when a Heinkel machine bombed and machine gunned three British cargo boats. Three Spitfire fighters dashed to the rescue and drove off the raider after a running fight. The Heinkel disappeared at sea with smoke pouring from one wing and a disabled port engine, the British pilots said.

The presence of the enemy raiders first was announced by the air ministry shortly after 10 a. m. A communique said German planes crossed the coast near Newcastle-on-Tyne. It was the Tyne's first experience with an air raid in this war. No warning sirens were sounded and hundreds of persons ignored air raid shelters and swarmed into the streets, braving the dangerous falling shrapnel which they snapped up as souvenirs.

School Goes on Despite Raids.

There were no reports of civilian casualties in today's raids, but many windows were smashed and houses damaged by shell splinters. One woman's spectacles were smashed. A shower of shell splinters fell in South Shields when a German plane was driven off by heavy antiaircraft fire. Schools, however, held their classes as usual despite the raids.

People in the towns on the east coast of Scotland had a hectic time. In one raid they saw three big black planes cross the coast and disappear seaward, pursued by a squadron of British fighters.

Two German Dornier planes flew over the southeast coast inland as far as Barham, about six miles from Canterbury, which is approximately 50 miles southeast of London. Then they were reported over Dover and Folkstone. Reports that the German planes reached the London area were denied by the air ministry.

Bombs Hit Sandbank.

Crowds on the cliff tops on the Norfolk coast got a taste of both sea and air warfare. While they were watching the Italian steamer, Traviata, 5,123 tons, sink in flames after hitting a mine, a German plane flew over the lifeboat carrying the crew of 30. However, it was reported that the German plane did not attack the rescue ship but veered off to bomb a trawler about a mile away. Four explosions were heard. One of the groups of planes harmlessly dumped its bombs near a sandbank off Norfolk.

One German squadron attacked a trawler off the Scottish coast, damaging it with bomb splinters and machine gun bullets. Royal Air Force planes drove off the invaders.

Intensive Raid Feared.

The main objectives of the German raiders, it was believed, was reconnaissance, perhaps as a prelude to an intensive raid on docks and shipyards.

Several marine losses were reported during the day. The British tanker El Oso, 7,267 tons, was sunk by a mine in the Irish sea off the west coast of Britain. Three men were believed drowned and eight were injured out of her crew of 30. The survivors were landed at a British port.

An unidentified craft went down after a collision off the west coast. Later advices said the 17 man crew of the 1,571 ton British ship Leonard Pearce had been rescued after a collision.

Two Aberdeen trawlers, fishing off Scotland, fled back to port after being bombed and machine gunned eight times within half an hour.

Officers and men from the 7,834 ton German steamship Ussukuma were landed at Cape Town today from a British warship, reports from there stated. They will be interned in South Africa. Naval sources said the Ussukuma was scuttled by her crew after being intercepted by British warships off the African coast Dec. 6.

German Plane Lands in Denmark.

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Jan. 11 (AP).—The second German bomber to make a forced landing on Danish soil in two days came down today near Toender, just across the border. The bi-motored machine was burned by the four members of its crew, who were interned with the crew of the plane forced down yesterday.

Danish authorities, following an investigation, said three bombs dropped on the Danish island of Roem Tuesday night were of British manufacture. The bombs, dropped during an attack on the German island air base of Sylt, did little damage. Britain promised full restitution if the bombs were found to be British.

SHARE IN BRITISH WAR WORK ASKED BY SMALL FIRMS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 11.—Fearing development along totalitarian lines in England, small manufacturers today complained that the big industrialists are getting all the business in government war orders. At a meeting in London 1,200 small firms formed a group known as Manufacturers and Producers of Britain to bring before the ministry of supply its claims for a share of government orders.

Many firms, with fully equipped factories and workshops, complained that since the war began their machinery has been standing idle because of the inability to obtain government contracts and the smallness of subcontracts they have been able to secure.

The new organization will take a census of productive capacity and compile details of the number of persons employed and the export trade carried on in peace time and now.

BRITON SEES THAT HIS VIEWS ON WAR DEBT GET AROUND

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 11.— The Beaverbrook press in London is giving extensive publicity to an article written last week by Lord Beaverbrook advancing the idea that England does not owe the United States any war debt and that the money America advanced merely went to hire British soldiers to fight for the United States.

The article has been printed in pamphlet form and is being circulated both here and in the United States and Canada. This morning's Daily Express said that an unnamed American editor called up Lord Beaverbrook on the trans-Atlantic telephone and told him the article exposing the allegedly unjust American claims for debt settlement was doing a lot of good in America.

Both the Express and the Evening Standard tonight said that there was a big demand for the pamphlet and that it may be obtained free of charge by writing the Daily Express office.

Planes Over Britain

German planes conducted flights over the English coast from the Firth of Forth (1) to the Thames estuary (6) yesterday. At these points and at Newcastle on Tyne (2), South Shields (3) and the Humber estuary (4) antiaircraft batteries were in action. Fragments fell in the streets at South Shields. A German plane attacked three boats off Norfolk coast (5).

SURPRISE FRENCH ATTACK BREAKS GERMANS' LINES

Drove Foe Back, Took Prisoners: Nazis.

BERLIN, Jan. 11 (AP).—A French company in a surprise attack was reported by the German official news agency today to have broken the German line at Kreuzberg, east of Forbach, but was driven back by a counterattack. The sector is near Saarbruecken.

The official news agency, DNB, said the French left dead and wounded when driven back. It also said a few French prisoners were taken by surprise German flank action.

The high command's daily communique reported that two planes which DNB identified as French were brought down in air battles yesterday with the loss of one German plane.

Air Encounters Reported.

"In the border region south of Saarbruecken," the communique said, "the advance of an enemy company was repulsed immediately by a counterthrust. The opponent sustained losses by death and capture. Repeated air encounters took place on the western front in connection with border patrol and reconnaissance flights, in the course of which two enemy planes were shot down.

"A plane was destroyed by crashing to the ground during pursuit of the enemy in the Colmar sector."

Shoot Down German Plane.

PARIS, Jan. 11 (AP).—French and British guns bagged one German reconnaissance plane today during intensified aerial fighting and brisk artillery exchanges on both sides, the French high command reported.

The increased tempo on the western front followed pre-dawn scouting raids in which military sources said French advance guards penetrated German lines in search of prisoners and information.

"The day was marked by increased artillery activity on both sides and also fairly strong activity of both air forces," the general staff's night communique said. "An enemy reconnaissance plane was brought down within our lines." The allied high command's morning communique on yesterday's activity was limited to air operations. It said: "Nothing to report during the night. Two enemy planes were brought down within our lines Jan. 10."

It was reported that a body of 50 French troops on a scouting expedition were set upon by a heavy detachment of Germans, but managed to fight their way to their own lines.

FINNS HURL BACK RED ATTACKS ON 2 ARCTIC FRONTS

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Jan. 11 (AP).—Smashing of Russian attacks on the Salla and Petsamo fronts was reported in the Finnish army's daily communique today.

Salla is above the arctic circle, on Finland's eastern front, and Petsamo is on the extreme northern corridor to the Arctic sea. The Russians were thrown back, it was said, after an attack for which they had prepared by artillery fire.

Text of Communique.

The communique said:

"LAND: On the isthmus [of Karelia] and on the eastern frontier [north of Lake Ladoga] there was nothing new. In Lapland the enemy launched attacks preceded by artillery fire on Jan. 10 in the direction of Salla and in Petsamo, but was repulsed.

"SEA: On the naval front there was nothing important.

"AIR: On Jan. 10 enemy aircraft dropped a few bombs in the Tammisaari and Ruotsinpyhtaa districts. In the latter locality six women were wounded. So far no loss of human life has been reported."

Tammisaari is a port in southwestern Finland and Ruotsinpyhtaa is a town in south central Finland near the coast.

Fight on Russian Soil.

MOSCOW, Jan. 11 (AP).—The Moscow radio, describing activities on the Finnish war front, tonight reported fighting in the vicinity of three Russian border towns—one of which is on the strategically important Leningrad-Murmansk railway, 75 miles inside the soviet frontier.

The broadcast, which quoted tonight's communique of the Leningrad military headquarters, also told of an artillery duel on the Karelian isthmus, but made no specific mention of fighting elsewhere on Finnish soil.

The three Russian towns mentioned by the broadcast, in locating sectors where "reconnoitering activity" and "infantry engagements" took place were Repola, Ukhta, and Petrozavodsk.

Opposite Central Front.

Repola is about 20 miles inside the Russian frontier, east of the Kuhmo sector of central eastern Finland; Ukhta is about 100 miles farther north.

Petrozavodsk is on the isthmus between Lakes Ladoga and Onega and is about 75 miles from the Finnish frontier.

[Finnish sources have reported several attempts to cut the Murmansk railway, on which the Russian forces in the far north depend for supplies. Success of the efforts never has been officially confirmed.]

Red Army Shakeup Reported.

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Jan. 11 (AP).—A sharp shakeup in the soviet army and the recall of more than 100 Red army officers for failure to achieve greater success in Finland were described today in reports reaching Norwegian and Finnish quarters from numerous sources. The reports, which lacked confirmation, said some of the recalled officers would face summary trial before courts consisting of people's commissars.

The reports said also that the soviet supply commissariat was under a scrutiny which already has led to some executions.

Displacement of Mikhail M. Kaganovich from his key post as head of the aviation industry commissariat was linked by Scandinavian observers with reports that the Red army and supporting services were being reorganized as a result of weaknesses discovered in the Finnish campaign. Russia announced last night that Kaganovich had been transferred to another post.

MILITARY COSTS COMPEL SWEDEN TO GO INTO HOLE

King Warns Nation It Faces Sacrifices.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Jan. 11 (AP).—The Swedish finance ministry today informed members of the riksdag [parliament] that the nation's record budget of $200,000,000 for military defense in the next fiscal year would cause a deficit for the first time in many years. The riksdag met to hear King Gustav V. deliver a speech from the throne.

The budget for ordinary expenses was placed at $366,000,000, with an estimated income of $423,000,000, but the military budget was set up as a special item outside this.

King Urges Sacrifices.

The finance ministry reported it believed that civil and military needs could not both be covered from taxes or current income and that slightly less revenue was expected from income levies which this year produced $111,900,000.

King Gustav told the legislators that a period of sacrifice faced Sweden and that defense necessities would oblige reduction of other activities, including social and building programs.

The king said the Swedish people's desire to help Finland was "manifested unmistakably" in humanitarian aid, but he gave no suggestion of possible military assistance in the war against soviet Russia.

"Finland's involvement in armed conflict touches the Swedish people in the deepest way," he asserted.

Alludes to Neutrality.

"The willingness to hurry assistance to a brother people is manifested unmistakably. Sweden feels an obligation to give Finland's brave people every material humanitarian help which is possible while heeding its own position."

This last phrase was regarded as an allusion to Sweden's official attitude of neutrality.

Sweden is determined to defend her own independence under all circumstances, the king said, a sentiment voiced also by Prime Minister Per Albin Hansson, who spoke later.

ROBBED OF CASH AND JEWELS.

ARMS PROGRAM UNDER FIRE IN HOUSE DEBATE

Roosevelt Budget Called Thing of Mystery.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 11.—President Roosevelt's 8 billion 400 million dollar budget and his multibillion dollar armaments program were under fire today as the house took up the first appropriation measure of the 1940 session. This was the chief executive's request for $267,000,000 to pay for army and navy expenses incurred under the "emergency proclamation" of last fall.

Representative Taber.

Representative John Taber [R., N. Y.], ranking minority member of the appropriations committee, told the house that the President's budget was a thing of mystery which none could understand. As an example he noted that the estimated receipts in social security taxes were 632 million dollars, but that only 225 millions were scheduled to be transferred to trust funds to care for payments under the act.

"In other words," he remarked, "there remain 407 million dollars that should go into trust funds that are not provided to be set-up in that way. That is something I don't understand and I doubt that any one else understands."

Doubtful About Reduction.

Both Taber and Representative Clifton A. Woodrum [D., Va.], chairman of the subcommittee handling the appropriation measure, confessed doubt concerning Roosevelt's contention that the deficit would be reduced in the next fiscal year by an item of 700 million dollars in surplus funds which would be obtained from government corporations.

"I do not know how that is to be done, but it is the headache of the executive branch," Woodrum told the house.

"I pray God that it may be done, but I don't know how," Taber said.

Taber said he doubted that the increases in the army and navy enlisted strength were necessary. The President in his proclamation ordered the strength of the army increased from 210,000 to 227,000 and the navy from 116,000 to 145,000.

The President's so-called neutrality patrol in Atlantic waters was also criticized by the New Yorker.

'No Reason' For It.

"I can see no reason for elaborate patrol of the territory outside our coasts," he told members. "I do not anticipate at the present time any attack by a foreign country against us. Of course, you can never tell when some country might feel that she wanted us in the hostilities on one side or the other."

The neutrality patrol is costing the taxpayers approximately $83,000,000, it was disclosed by the committee. The commissioning of 64 old destroyers and the procurement and operation of planes make up this total, which does not take into account the $20,000,000 cost of an increase in naval personnel.

Woodrum asked members to forget politics, to stay within the budget and to indorse whatever tax program may be drafted by the ways and means committee of the house to raise $460,000,000 to meet the augmented cost of the military program. If this is done, he said, the national debt limit of 45 billions will not be exceeded, altho the debt will miss touching the legal maximum by only $61,000,000.

Sets Debt at 60 Billions.

Taber asserted that the total national debt at present is actually about 60 billion dollars, 15 billions beyond the debt limit.

"The acknowledged public debt is 42 billions," he said. "But there is another direct positive debt of one billion, 300 million on account of gratuities that have been contracted to be made by the United States Housing Authority under the housing act. There is approximately six billions of contingent liabilities where we have guaranteed the bonds of different organizations. There are enormous sums of contracts entered into by local housing authorities which the federal government has guaranteed.

"There is also an obligation of 15 billion dollars beyond what can be figured out as possible receipts under the social security act. There is an obligation of several billions under the employés retirement fund beyond present receipts.

"Long on Promises."

Woodrum told members that congress, as well as the President, had been "long on promises but short on execution," in regard to balancing the budget.

"It takes deliberate, calm, courageous action to balance the budget," he said. "It is a simple, fundamental fact that no individual and no nation can continue to go ahead spending more than is taken in. You cannot balance the budget in one year or in two years without almost causing a revolution in this country, but an approach must be made to the problem."

Puts New Restrictions on Sale of Meat.

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Jan. 11.—New meat restrictions, to be effective Jan. 15, were published today by the ministry of agriculture. Under the decree the sale of beef, veal, and mutton is prohibited on Mondays and Tuesdays.

On Fridays no sale of beef, veal, mutton, goat, pork, horse meat, or tripe is to be permitted, not even in restaurants. On days when meat may be served hotels, restaurants, or saloons may not serve more than one plate of meat to any customer at the same meal. This will limit the hors d'oeuvres. The portion of meat which may be served is limited to 3½ ounces without bones, and 5¼ ounces with bones.

All butcher shops, except those selling horse meat, must be closed on Mondays, Tuesdays, and Fridays.

RATIONS IN OTHER COUNTRIES.

France's action in further restricting the amounts of meat available to individuals was but another indication of the sacrifices which the governments of both warring and neutral nations have demanded of their peoples.

Germany has restrictions on virtually all basic necessities of life. Ration cards are even necessary to obtain food for horses, cows, and pigs.

Germans experience two meatless days a week. Spread out over the other five days they are permitted to consume approximately one and one-tenth pounds of meat. The German seafood supply virtually has been cut off by the British blockade of ships in the North sea.

Germans do not drink coffee because there isn't any. But they have developed a grain coffee made from barley, to which is added a dash of coffee "scent." It tastes somewhat like real coffee.

The flow of beer in Germany continues, but it's not the beer that it used to be.

Britain Rations 4 Staples.

Great Britain, latest of the warring powers to go on a ration basis, now has restrictions on butter, bacon, ham and sugar. Everybody is limited to four ounces of bacon and four ounces of ham if they are raw, four ounces of butter and 12 ounces of sugar. If the bacon and ham are cooked, then the ration is reduced to 3½ ounces. For children under 6 years of age the allowance is cut in half.

On Jan. 15 the British will begin rationing other meats and there will be only two meat tickets a week. Like Germany, Britain has rationed gasoline sharply. Italy, largest European neutral, has been able to lift the ban on gasoline sales clamped on at the war's start. The price, however, is beyond the reach of the average motorist.

Not Much Coffee.

Italians will be able to drink coffee after Feb. 1, but in infinitesimal quantities. The allotment for each person will be 1¼ ounces a month.

Russian-invaded Finland has rationed gasoline, placed coffee sales under supervision and abolished the traditional smorgasbord. Belgium is distributing 8,000,000 ration cards, in case they are needed, and in the Netherlands, sugar is being rationed.

Coffee and tea are limited in Denmark. Danes were handed ration cards soon after the outbreak of war but thus far those are the only two commodities affected. In Hungary's famed coffee houses prices are quadrupled and the coffee isn't so good, at that.

LYA LYS.

John Marshall Gunnerson, Chicago vending machine manufacturer, and Lya Lys, 26 years old, Russian born movie actress, were married yesterday at Las Vegas, Nev., according to dispatches from that city. They made a brief trip to Boulder dam after the ceremony, and returned to Hollywood last night.

It was Gunnerson's third marriage and the second for Miss Lys. One of Gunnerson's former wives was Anna Q. Nilsson, a star of the silent movies.

Gunnerson and Miss Lys met in Chicago last April. When she departed by train for Hollywood, the manufacturer, who is 39 years old, leaped aboard the train at the last minute, shouting to a friend to wire him money to Kansas City.

FRENCH CALL ON WOMAN LABOR TO HELP IN WAR

Stress Economic Aspect of Conflict Anew.

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Jan. 11.—Edouard Herriot, president of the chamber of deputies, today added another chapter to the now clearly defined government war book—namely: that the war will be won on the economic front.

Enormous production is necessary, he said, and to accomplish this labor was essential, especially woman labor. Women already are taking men's jobs in industrial plants and in extension of this he suggested that "every one must contribute to the common end under the system of equality which in France has its place beside liberty."

Denounces Communists.

Herriot warned of the danger of internal troubles and denounced the refusal of the communists to stand and applaud when the army was praised last Tuesday. "Those who deny this homage thereby exclude themselves from France," he said.

Herriot also attacked Russia for its invasion of Finland, calling the soviet régime one that "was seeking to crush the weak." He declared France should give the Finns all the help it possibly could, because, he said, such a policy would best serve the interest of France.

After Herriot spoke the government offered a bill designed to exclude from elective office members of the outlawed communist party unless they publicly disclaim any connection with the Moscow government and its policies.

Socialists Back Proposals.

Support which the Socialist party gave the measure made it almost certain of passage after debate next Tuesday.

The measure applies not only to members of parliament but to former communists holding mayoral, departmental, or municipal council posts thruout France.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Jan. 11.—Life in Berlin was paralyzed today by a cold wave which sent the temperature to 13 degrees below zero, Fahrenheit. Officials struggled to hasten the delivery of coal to big cities. There is a lack of coal because of transportation difficulties.

There was no heat in a number of apartment houses. Tenants were informed they could set up small stoves to heat at least one room. Shopkeepers had difficulty in keeping their premises warm. Many bottles and jars of foodstuffs were broken after their contents were frozen. Beer and milk bottles burst.

Cold weather, storms, and heavy snowfall took many lives in southeastern Europe. Temperatures as low as 40 degrees below zero were reported in the Rumanian provinces of Bukovina and Transylvania.

Heat Kills 12 in Buenos Aires.

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Jan. 11 (AP).—Police guarded ice plants from angry consumers, and the heat wave toll rose to 15 today as the thermometer touched 98 degrees on the sixth day of a heat wave. Twelve more persons died and 90 suffered heat prostrations as a result of the high temperatures.

More than 20 persons stormed an ice plant in protest against the raising of the price of 50 pounds of ice from 20 cents to $1.25. Thereafter police posted guards at the plants.

FATE OF 87 MEN TRAPPED IN MINE STILL DOUBTFUL

Four Bodies Removed by Mine Rescue Crews.

Bartley, W. Va., Jan. 11 (AP).—Grimy rescue workers crawled slowly thru a débris clogged, gas filled mine toward 87 entombed miners today. Their leaders expressed hope and fear for the safety of the men trapped 600 feet underground by an explosion.

Four bodies have been taken from the wrecked corridor in the Bartley No. 1 mine of the Pond Creek Pocahontas Coal corporation thru which the blast roared yesterday.

The company reported at the time of the explosion 138 men had been at work in the mine in the heart of the rich southern West Virginia coal fields. Forty-seven in another part of the mine did not hear about the explosion until they had finished their day's work and came to the surface.

Break Thru Fallen Rock.

At 5:30 p. m. the crew broke thru a heavy rock fall near the section where the blast occurred. About 60 men had been working in nearby passageways. Raymond Salvati, vice president of the company, said there seemed to be no reason for those men not being alive, altho it might take hours to reach them.

Veteran miners who have witnessed many of these disasters feared all or most of the men had perished.

"It looks bad," said Carl J. Dickeson, one of the rescue workers, on a trip from the shaft. "I don't think there's much chance."

L. C. Collins, a member of the first rescue team to enter the mine after an explosion, told the story of the crew's work a mile and a quarter back from the main shaft.

"We went down the shaft," he said. "We went to the second overshaft where it was blown out. There was planks and slate and wreckage all over the main entry. We built a brattice and moved rocks, and there was plenty of it in that entry.

Find Two Bodies.

"In the same entry, close to a quarter of a mile from the shaft, we found two men. Both were on their backs, side by side. We picked them up and wrapped them in canvass and carried them back about 300 feet. We left them at the overshaft.

"That is as far as we got. We came back out and another shift relieved us. We had to go slowly because of dead air. We were in there from 3 o'clock until 9:30, about six and a half hours."

Two more bodies had been found yesterday afternoon, a few hours after the explosion.

The bodies recovered were identified as Roy Hyatt, 32, motorman, married, four children; Roy Evans, 41, motorman, married, four children; Charley Moffitt, 42, Negro, married, four children. One man is unidentified.

Snow fell during the night. Then sleet followed, covering the Dry Fork valley and the hillsides with ice. The weather added to the misery of the scene where scores of miners and relatives of the entombed men were assembled near the shaft opening and stood in a cold drizzle, watching gloomily as the eight rescue crews changed shifts every 30 minutes.

Bartley is in McDowell county in the southernmost part of West Virginia, five miles north of the Virginia border and 30 miles east of the Kentucky line. Welch, the county seat, is 20 miles to the northeast and the nearest city. The Dry Fork river, a branch line of the Norfolk and Western railroad, and state Route 83 run thru the community.

URGES A NAVY BIG AS ANY POSSIBLE FOES MIGHT HAVE

Stark Warns Against an Enemy Coalition.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 11 (AP).—Admiral Harold R. Stark, chief of naval operations, told the house naval committee today the proposed $1,300,000,000 fleet expansion would provide "some degree of protection against any probable enemy coalition" but might not guarantee defense of the Monroe Doctrine.

Stark asserted that the program, designed to give the navy 77 new combatant ships, would not be sufficient to "defend our home waters, the Monroe Doctrine, our possessions, and trade routes against a coalition of Japan, Russia, Germany, and Italy."

Fearful of Empires' Defeat.

The navy's top rank admiral told the committee that in considering the need for the proposed 24 per cent increase, "we must face the possibility of a defeat of Britain and France and then measure the strength of the powers which might combine for action against the Americas."

"If our navy is weaker than the combined strengths of potential enemies," he said, "then our navy is too small. It is too small viewed from that angle, so there is just one answer: An increase is necessary."

Admiral Stark vigorously challenged statements that the country was getting a paper navy because ships authorized two years ago have not been started. Chairman David I. Walsh [D., Mass.] of the senate naval affairs committee had contended those ships should be built before authority for others is sought.

Immediate Construction Sought.

Stark declared the navy proposed to proceed at once with construction of all authorized tonnage, including replacements, in addition to asking for the 24 per cent expansion.

Chairman Carl Vinson [D., Ga.], of the house naval affairs committee read into the record figures to show that only two light cruisers and seven destroyers of the 46 new ships authorized in 1938 remain unappropriated for.

"The error comes with regard to replacements," Vinson said, "and confuses the minds of a great many people who have not kept track of replacements and new construction."

Seeks Change in Policy.

In order to end such confusion, Vinson said he intended to propose a change in policy whereby replacement ships would have to be authorized by his committee as is the case with new construction.

Stark said the proposed increases in the navy could be accomplished by 1945 with existing facilities and at reasonable cost.

"A postponement might well be a cause for serious regret," he added.

The workers were demanding higher wages and dismissal of six officials whom they charged with trying to create a split in their union. The number of men involved was not announced.

JUAREZ, Chihuahua, Mexico, Jan. 11 (AP).—Juarez telephones were silent today as employés of the Ericsson company struck for higher wages and "improved working conditions."

El Paso, Tex., just across the Rio Grande, was without telephone communication with Juarez, Chihuahua City, or Nogales and Hermosilla in the state of Sonora.

Sponsors on Way

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Jan. 11.—The route of a proposed transocean air route linking the Scandinavian countries with the United States was disclosed today as sponsors of the project sailed for New York to discuss it with Pan-American Airways officials.

The route, it was learned, would be via Newfoundland to Bergen on the Norwegian coast, from where branch lines would extend to Oslo, Stockholm and Copenhagen.

Among the Danish representatives was Bernt Balchen, who flew the Atlantic with Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd in 1927. Swedish and Norwegian air line officials, as well as postal representatives, also were in the party.

JAPAN ATTACKS AMERICAN NAVY EXPANSION PLAN

Assails Move to Build Guam Defenses.

BULLETIN.

TOKIO, Jan. 12, Friday (AP).—Premier General Nobuyuki Abe was reported today by Domei, Japanese news agency, to have announced his decision to resign at a special cabinet meeting next Sunday. Abe was installed as premier Aug. 30 last year.

BY KIMPEI SHEBA.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Jan. 11.—"It is showing poor grace for the American navy to propose the development of Guam island defenses when congress once rejected a special appropriation for that move," a navy spokesman declared today.

The comment was inspired by the American navy's proposal to take $4,000,000 from the appropriation for the Hawaiian naval district and use it for the military development of Guam, thereby avoiding the need for legislative authorization. The American congress last year refused to appropriate $5,000,000 for the construction of fortifications on the island, rejecting the project on the ground that it would be an affront to Japan.

Superior Ratio Against Japan.

Commenting on the proposed plan to increase American naval strength by 25 per cent, the spokesman declared that not only Japan but other countries would feel grave concern.

"The proposed increase apparently is designed to maintain a superior ratio against Japan and it is natural that the Japanese navy, which is pursuing a policy of nonaggression, should feel great concern," the spokesman added.

Press Charges Intimidation.

The Japanese press also expressed its unfavorable reaction to the American naval program. Nichi Nichi of Tokio charged that the recommendation for the development of Guam indicated that the United States seeks to intimidate the Japanese people. It declared that no one with a shred of interest in international affairs could turn a deaf ear to this warning.

The newspaper also said that the American proposal to construct 52,000 ton battleships was an alarm bell that had aroused the Japanese people from their new year holiday sleep.

JAPS APOLOGIZE FOR SLAPPING OF U. S. WOMAN

SHANGHAI, Jan. 12, Friday (AP).—Japanese naval authorities today visited Miss Frances Donaldson of Louisville, Ky., and apologized for an attack on her by a Japanese sentry.

They acknowledged the truth of the American business woman's report that on Dec. 20 a sentry struck her with his fist when she crossed a bridge into the international settlement, walking inadvertently on what the Japanese consider the "wrong side" of the street.

On Dec. 29 a Japanese naval spokesman challenged Miss Donaldson's report which had been made the basis of an American consular demand for investigation and disciplinary action.

U. S. ARMY TRAINS 1,000 TROOPS TO FIGHT ON SKIS

New York, Jan. 11 [Special.]—The United States army is training ski troops for proficiency and experience in winter combat in the snow. Until Finland showed the world what effective guerilla warfare can be carried on by ski patrols in northern latitudes, few members of the army except those in Alaska ever have had any training on skis.

This winter the war department equipped the 1,000 men of the 28th infantry with clothing and equipment for war in the snow. Under the command of Brig. Gen. Irving J. Phillipson the detachments stationed at Fort Niagara, Fort Ontario, Madison barracks, and Plattsburg barracks have been working out tactical problems in the vicinity of their posts. Later the entire regiment will get intensive training.

The new winter equipment includes fur lined caps with ear flaps, white denim jumpers, which make the troops almost invisible against the snow; skis, snowshoes, heavy socks, and underwear, sleeping bags and machine gun sleds.

BORAH OPPOSES ANY NEW POWER FOR ROOSEVELT

Terms Edison's Proposal Threat to Rights.

say that no justification in constitutional law or in constitutional principles can be found for any such authority.

"Under the terms of this measure, as it is urged, there would be no limitation of the powers of congress if you could just head the bill with the declaration of 'an emergency.' To me it is a startling proposition. It tends to show how far we have traveled, or are traveling, in the exercise of purely arbitrary powers.

Sweeping Powers Proposed.

"If it should be declared that an emergency exists and that this emergency was of such a nature as to make trial by jury unsafe and unwise, or should make public discussion and free debate contrary to the public interests, they could so declare and be quite within the principles of this proposed law."

Senator Borah said it should not be forgotten that an emergency does not create power, or increase power, even tho it may be the occasion for the exercise of such power as the constitution permits. The constitution itself was adopted, and its limitations upon the exercise of power were determined, during a period of great national emergency, he declared.

Pleads Democracy's Cause.

"Democracy is having a pretty tough fight with arbitrary power, with arbitrary governments," the senator continued. "The distinguished South African statesman, Gen. Smuts, has said that there is less of personal liberty in the world today than there was 150 years ago. That the fight is going against democracy at the present time seems to be believed by practically all, and there are those who believe that democracy will ultimately lose.

"Nowhere is this more evident than in democracies themselves. Just such legislation as this, the seizure of every opportunity to discredit democracy and democratic processes, hastening at all times to advertise the efficiency and the necessity of arbitrary powers, is one of the things that is telling most against democratic principles and democratic processes.

"Arbitrary governments the world over boast of their superior capacity in meeting the world's problems and point to the admitted practices and methods of democracy to prove their claim. It is faith in democracy that is dying, not its principles or its methods breaking down.

"Under the drastic cry of emergency we strike down the rights of the citizen and thus advertise to the world again and again that democracy cannot cope with modern exigencies as against the competition of centralized power. With what marvelous magnificence the little democracy of Finland has demonstrated to the world the falsity of this cowardly lie!"

Referring to the various other pending proposals to set up an absolute dictatorship in a war or other so-called national emergency, Senator Borah said the congress "could render no greater service to the world of free government and bring to it no greater distinction than by denouncing and striking down these measures one after another."

Lashes Out at Isms.

It is vitally important, he said, to expose and punish the activities of those whose "isms" run counter to the principles of our government. Neither apology, nor flimsy excuse, nor misguided mercy should interfere with their punishment, he asserted. But far more important it is, the senator maintained, to live up to our own teachings and principles in the struggle for the preservation of free institutions.

"Offering bills and passing laws which strike at the letter—and if not the letter the spirit—of democratic principles—these are the things which undermine and break down faith in democracy," he said. "Measures introduced and urged which are in themselves impeachments of the whole scheme of democracy do infinitely more harm than a thousand communists chattering on the street corners.

Protect Liberty, He Urges.

"Such attempts at legislation, or such legislation, soon teaches the people that nothing stands between them and their liberty, the rights of property, except the construction which political exigency or the technical views of courts may give to the word 'emergency.'

"The jealousy which we should at all times feel and exercise toward every encroachment upon the great principles which protect the rights and the liberty of the people give way to a search for methods of escaping the force of these principles.

"In this period of almost universal assault thruout the world upon the rights, the privileges, and the liberties of the average person, we in America may not sufficiently realize that we have in our bill of rights, found in our constitution, the complete guarantee against the utter destruction of these principles.

"So long as the bill of rights stands and is preserved in its integrity, so long as we live up to its terms and conditions, there can be no denial of free speech, of free press, no religious persecution, no arbitrary government, no concentration camps, no breaking into homes, no unlawful arrests, no denial of personal liberty.

"When a so-called emergency strikes at this sacred document in any particular, it should be striken down without hesitancy. If doubts are to be indulged in, they should be resolved against all possible encroachments. The glory of the bill of rights is that it is a restraint upon government as well as upon individuals, that it protects the rights of the people against those who have been entrusted with power and who have betrayed their trust.

"And not only are our interests involved, not only is this bill of rights a sacred document of the American people, but when the time comes—as please God I am sure it will come—that the oppressed people of the world begin to fight their way back to civilization and away from the frightful isms which engulf them in misery and slavery, they will look to this bill of rights as embodying their hopes and ideals and will judge it according to the worth and the efficiency which we have by our acts and words given it."

JANE'S PUTS U. S. AT TOP OF WORLD IN AIR TRANSPORT

Says War Steals Effort of Other Nations.

LONDON, Jan. 11.—While war rages in Europe the United States has the development of air transport thruout the world, including the British dominions, virtually all to itself, according to "Jane's All the World's Aircraft," the 20th annual issue of which was published today.

More space is given American aircraft than any other country in the new issue, which expresses the hope that the American aviation industry will do something to make flying safer.

This year Jane's is deprived of exact information about some German planes and engines. One German aircraft company, however, posted particulars of their planes on Aug. 30, and these reached Jane's after passing the German censor a few days after war was declared.

New Types Developed.

Despite the secrecy, the editor of the new volume writes: "We know there are newer and better types coming along in Germany just as there are in France and England."

Altho Jane's gives only meager information on the new German Messerschmitt 110 bomber, it publishes a photograph of one of these planes in flight as well as a complete diagram of its predecessor, the Messerschmitt 109.

The new bomber is said to be a twin engined plane with armament of two 20-millimeter shell firing guns in the fuselage, two fixed machine guns in the wings, and one flexible machine gun in the rear gunner's cockpit. It is fitted with two Daimler-Benz engines, which are said to give it a maximum speed of 385 miles per hour.

New French Planes.

Dealing with French aviation progress, Jane's says that in 1936-'37, when the communist controled Popular Front government was in power, French aircraft factories produced few new types of any value. Aircraft factory employés were on short hours and did little work during those hours, Jane's says. When Premier Edouard Daladier came in power "the old spirit of French patriotism returned, men began working keenly, and factories began to run overtime at high pressure," according to Jane's. As a result new types of planes are being produced in quantities, the book says.

The planes with which the British royal air force were equipped when the war broke out are fully described in Jane's new volume. But later types are being produced which, for military reasons, Jane's cannot publish. Jane's reports that two of these, which are unnamed, flew "at astonishingly high speed" before members of the parliamentary air committee last July.

Action in Spanish War.

Regarding Italian progress, Jane's recalls that both Italian and German airplanes of the newest types were tried out on the Nationalist side in the Spanish civil war against French planes and Russian built copies of American planes.

"Quite unexpectedly," Jane's reports, "the old Fiat biplanes of 1930 design, with modernized motors, proved to be about the best single seat fighters because of their maneuverability and strength which would stand up in the roughest handling in the air."

On the Republican side in the Spanish war the French planes—mostly of old types— stood up well, but the Russian built copies of American Boeing and Curtiss fighters and Martin bombers were liable to fall apart when put into a dive because they were built of poor material.

Jane's says that the war broke out when the world was beginning to appreciate air transport. In this connection the book says the United States has nearly as many airlines as railroads.

MRS. MARGARET DANIELSON.

Bridgeport, Conn., Jan. 11 (AP).—Mrs. Margaret Eleanor Danielson of Greenwich, wife of Axel J. Danielson, former yacht captain whose lost love she has valued at $100,000, denied in Superior court today that her own conduct was the cause of their domestic difficulties. Mrs. Danielson made the denial in a reply to a special defense of Mrs. Marjorie Gould Drexel Gundry, Philadelphia heiress, whom she is suing for alienation of affections. Mrs. Gundry is the granddaughter of the late Jay Gould and a daughter of Anthony J. Drexel of Philadelphia and New York.

CITY MILK WAGON DRIVERS INSTALL 4 NEW OFFICERS

Four new officers of the Chicago Milk Wagon Drivers' union, who were elected by a faction which unseated the old régime headed by Robert G. Fitchie and Steve Sumner, were installed at a meeting in the Ashland Boulevard auditorium last night. More than 2,000 drivers attended.

Henry Weber was sworn in as president to succeed Fitchie, and Thomas J. Haggerty was inducted as secretary-treasurer to take Sumner's place. Others sworn in were Peter Hoban, recording secretary, and Gus Moline, trustee and custodian, who were newly elected. James Kennedy, vice president, and Ray Bryant and Al Richards, trustees and business agents, had been reëlected.

Fitchie, who is his middle 70s, officiated. The induction ceremony was his last act as president, a position he had held since 1906. Sumner, who is 90 and has been with the union since 1902, was not present.

The two are now part of the rank and file of the union. Some talk was heard last night that the union may take measures to provide for them. Fitchie is still the union's delegate to the International Teamsters' council and a vice president of the Illinois Federation of Labor.

Chicago Marketing Area Milk Price Is Reduced

Milk producers in a 70 mile zone in the Chicago marketing area will receive a blended price of $1.75 for 100 pounds [46.5 quarts] for all milk delivered from Dec. 1 to Dec. 31, inclusive, it was announced last night by N. J. Cladakis, federal market administrator. The comparative blended price in November was $1.90. Among the reasons for the reduction was the increased use of milk to be evaporated or condensed. The federal milk control was established in Chicago in September.

PLANE VS. SHIP ARGUMENT STILL LEFT WIDE OPEN

OnlyAnti-AircraftDefense Power Is Proved.

BY WALTER TROHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 11.—With the European war well into its fifth month various skirmishes between airplanes and warships have failed to demonstrate whether planes can sink battleships, army and navy experts have advised house and senate committees which are tackling the record peacetime national defense budget estimates.

With the outbreak of the war British planes raided German warships based at Kiel. The British admiralty claimed several vessels were damaged, naming specifically the Admiral Graf Spee, which turned up to be an active raider until the battle of Montevideo. The German admiralty said no damage was done.

In retaliation a German air force raided the British naval base at Scapa Flow. The Germans claimed several hits. The British admiralty discounted the claims.

Second Attack Disputed.

Again the British attacked German warships. This time bombs were directed at the strongly fortified German base at Heligoland Island. Again there were claims and counter claims.

In the claims and denials only one declaration ran true. In each case the defending nation said its anti-aircraft units had brought down one-fourth of the attacking planes.

Army and navy experts admit that this proportion of losses by an attacking fleet is too high to make air raids a profitable enterprise. At such a cost, they said, it is far wiser to keep planes at home.

This, experts believe, is one explanation for the failure of either of the belligerent forces to launch air raids on cities. And they are convinced that this reason is more important than the fact that neither side wants to be blamed for initiating bombing of civilians.

Poles Bombed at Will.

The Nazi air force bombed Polish cities without any thought of world criticism because Polish cities were not defended by antiaircraft batteries as are London and Paris and other allied cities.

The airplane versus battleship argument has been going on ever since a British experimenter dropped a 100 pound sand bag from a box kite in 1911, and a British monoplane lifted a torpedo a few feet off the ground in 1913.

From the time of these early experiments navy men have insisted that bombs cannot seriously menace battleships and aeronautic experts have insisted as stoutly that airships can sink any ship that ever was launched.

Navy men admit that a bomb properly directed can sink or cripple a ship. However, they insist that the anti-aircraft batteries will blast attacking planes out of the sky and the chances of hitting a vital spot are so rare that the plane cannot be considered a menace to the battleship.

Advocates of the airplane reply that bombing sights have been so improved that planes can readily drop bombs on fleet targets from great heights and increased speeds and altitudes have lessened the effectiveness of anti-aircraft defenses.

During the world war planes showed nothing of what they might do against ships. The few air raids on battleships—even ships which had run aground—were largely unsuccessful. Plane defenders hold this was due to the fact that the bombs of that era were too small to be effective.

Percentage of Hits High.

The first attempt to answer the question was undertaken in the United States when the navy undertook to sink two captured German cruisers with small bombs. The attempts were unsuccessful and while the navy high command was congratulating itself that planes could not harm battleships, army bombers were dispatched to the scene by the late Gen. William Mitchell, ardent believer in the superiority of planes, and with 2,000 bombs sent the cruisers to the bottom.

At the same time the British admiralty started tests, which were reported to have demonstrated that planes could not sink battleships. However, the British permitted the planes to use only dummy torpedoes and it was common knowledge in the service that the number of hits registered by dummy torpedoes was so high that the admiralty was considerably worried and did nothing.

Neither the Italian attack on Ethiopia or the Spanish civil war offered any answer to the great controversy between the plane and the battleship.

REP. DIRKSEN ASKS A CONCENTRATION OF SMALL ARMY POSTS

Representative Dirksen.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 11.—Representative Everett M. Dirksen [R., Ill.] told the house today that extensive savings could be effected in the army by the abolition of many small army posts thruout the nation and the concentration of training and maneuvers in a few important centers.

There are at least 250 army posts scattered thruout the country, Dirksen said. New York alone has 26 posts. This condition mainly accounts for the $41,000,000 which it costs the war department annually to conduct field exercises and for army transportation, he declared.

The government has spent a quarter of a billion dollars, under the guise of emergency relief, for the improvement of these posts in the last four years, Dirksen declared.

"This is a vast undertaking and entails a continuing expense for maintenance, repairs, heating, lighting, sewerage, hospital, and other incidental expenses for many years to come," he said. "Many of these posts could be discontinued, resulting in definite economies."

A LEAPING GHOST PLAYS HIDE-SEEK WITH RESCUERS

Defies Aid, Bounds Away Over Ice Floes.

From 9 a. m. to 4 p. m. yesterday two agents of the Anti-Cruelty society made valiant attempts to rescue a frisky German shepherd dog which was capering about on the ice of Lake Michigan.

The dog was sighted well off shore from the foot of Ohio street. The agents were summoned. They advanced cautiously over the thin ice, which creaked and groaned beneath their weight.

"Here, pooch, here pooch," called the agents.

The Rescuers Retreat.

The dog, brown and bushy tailed, weighed about 65 pounds. Agent Arthur Colla weighs 145 and Agent William Hane 150. When the ice creaked again they retreated.

They returned to headquarters at 157 West Grand avenue, and got a dog trap, a big cakelike affair similar to an old fashioned mouse trap. There is a door in the cage. The theory was that the dog would walk thru the doorway and step on a treadle which would slam the door behind him.

The agents baited the trap with dog food and set the trap on the ice near the end of a breakwater. Then they returned once more to shore.

However, half a dozen of the spectators on shore ventured out on the breakwater, whistling and snapping their fingers. They frightened the dog away from the trap.

The animal then skipped over the ice cakes and solid stretches and made for the breakwater that runs obliquely to the shoreline half a mile or more out in the lake. In the fog he was a leaping, bounding unreal figure.

In midafternoon the agents tried one more stratagem. Going north, they came to the breakwater that protects the Oak street beach. They walked out to the end, intending to cross, on ice, to the diagonal breakwater favored by the dog. The agents were blocked by a stretch of open ice water. They turned back.

At nightfall the dog was still ice bound. The agents are going to try again this morning.

Mothers of Two Girls, 13, Ask Police Aid in Search

Two worried mothers asked Albany Park police yesterday to search for their runaway daughters. The girls, Anita Zuckerman, 4840 North Sacramento avenue, and Marion Blumenthal, 3803 Ainslie street, both 13 years old, have not been home since Wednesday morning, when they left for the Von Steuben school, where they are in the seventh grade. The mothers said they thought the girls had headed for Hollywood to seek film careers.

REPORT EMPIRES WILL INCREASE AIRPLANE BUYING

New York, Jan. 11 (AP).—In preparation for a long war Great Britain and France are arranging for the purchase of as many as 12,000 American war planes in the next two years, authoritative sources said tonight.

Moreover, with steady shipments of American military planes on contracts signed since the start of hostilities last Sept. 3 the empires expect to exceed the German production rate by the middle of the coming summer.

The British will make training planes in Canada under United States licenses, it was reported. The first increment will comprise 1,600 trainers of a type already ordered in some quantity by the British.

The Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce today set at $20,000,000 a month the dollar value of American aircraft and engine production on Jan. 1. The chamber estimated this would be boosted to $50,000,000 by July 1.

LARGER BOTTLES INCREASE HOME MILK SALES 20%

Expect to Extend Use to Entire City.

Chicago dairy officials yesterday reported a 20 per cent increase in the sale of home delivered milk in the three residential areas where customers were offered two and four quart bottles beginning a week ago. They estimated that between 35 and 40 per cent of their customers were switching to the larger bottles because of savings from 2 to 3½ cents on the single quart price of 13 cents.

One official emphasized that the 20 per cent increase in sales of home delivered milk in the test areas does not necessarily mean an increase in the volume of milk consumed. The increase may mean a shift of business from the stores, roadside stands, and dealers not using the bigger bottles, he said.

Plan Successful in St. Louis.

In St. Louis, where the two and four quart sizes have been in use for a year, the city's total volume has increased 5 per cent. This is considered a remarkable rise in consumption.

While the Chicago dairy officials were reluctant to commit themselves, it was indicated that the results have been impressive enough that the large containers will be offered to the entire city as soon as sufficient bottles and bottling equipment can be obtained.

"The operation is still in an experimental stage with the customer as well as our company," said Dr. D. B. Beck, president of the Bowman Dairy company.

"The history of larger containers in other cities shows that no definite conclusion regarding operation can be drawn for the first two or three months. In that period, customers are experimenting. They change back and forth from the larger units to single quarts. We are well satisfied with the early indications here."

Fear New Price War.

Fears of a new price war rising out of the innovation were expressed. Milk in the two quart and one gallon containers was offered by ten dairies, mainly members of the Associated Milk Dealers, at 11 cents a quart for the two quart size and 9½ cents in the gallon size. The Meadowmoor company, followed by other independents, immediately reduced its store price from 10½ to 8½ cents, one cent less than the gallon rate.

Beginning this week, the associated companies cut their price to the same figure, altho they claim they cannot sell at a profit at 8½ cents.

COUNCIL ADOPTS 56 MILLION CITY ECONOMY BUDGET

Ald. McDermott the Only Dissenter on Passage.

BULLETIN.

The city council, at 3:25 o'clock this morning, approved the 1940 city operating budget of approximately $56,620,000. The budget was passed with the economy measures previously recommended, which sheered about $1,500,000 from the tentative budget. The vote was 46 to 1, the lone dissenter being Ald. James J. McDermott [14th].

Members of the city council officially stopped the clock at 9:44 last night as they swung into prolonged consideration of the 1940 city operating budget. The citizens who packed the galleries of the council chambers settled down to listen to an extraordinary session lasting far into the morning.

The clock was stopped so that whenever the budget was finally approved it would be recorded as having been passed on Jan. 11. By this move the aldermen gained a day in the sale of tax anticipation warrants. The law provides the warrants cannot be put on sale until ten days after the budget is passed.

Budget Stands at $56,620,000.

Minor items of business were cleared up and work on the budget begun at 10:30 o'clock. With last minute revisions, the proposed budget stood at $56,620,000 when it was submitted to the council by Ald. J. M. Arvey [24th], chairman of the finance committee.

This was a reduction of more than a million dollars from the 1939 budget, which was $57,793,369.

Mayor Kelly left the rostrum and seated himself with the aldermen when presentation of the budget was made. Ald. Arvey took the rostrum. He said the finance committee had sought to effect all possible economies while at the same time providing balanced municipal service on a balanced municipal budget.

Arvey said the budget contained $950,000 for improvements which it had been impossible to contemplate in recent years because of the need of funds for relief and WPA projects. These improvements include the proposed rehabilitation of Navy pier.

Arvey said the Kelly administration had inherited a debt condition which had been reduced while the city's credit position had been improved.

"The net debt of the city on June 1, 1933, was $133,595,995," he said, "while today it is $86,802,887. The city had to pay 6 per cent interest on bonds issued in 1933; on Jan. 1 of this year the rate of interest was 1¾ per cent."

Condemns Spending for Court.

Arvey condemned the system which requires the council to appropriate funds for the board of election commissioners and the Municipal court with whose duties the council has nothing to do.

"Here is an item of approximately $5,000,000," Arvey said, "on which the council is in the position of spending money with its hands tied."

A preamble to the budget, aimed at economy, read that in the case of vacancies which occur the heads of departments may use their judgment on whether to fill the vacancies or save the salary money.

Ald. Paul H. Douglas [5th] proposed an amendment by which no vacancies were to be filled except on order of the council finance committee. Several aldermen objected that this could result in undue pressure being put on committee members, and the preamble remained unchanged by a vote of 49 to 1.

Voting Machines Proposed.

On motion of Ald. James J. McDermott [14th] an addition of $1,000 was made to the appropriation for the judiciary committee to enable the committee to push legislation permitting a Chicago referendum on installation of voting machines here. Ald. McDermott contended the machines would bring a saving of $500,000 a year.

Ald. John S. Boyle [16th] introduced a resolution requesting the extension of the Englewood branch of the elevated lines from 63d and Loomis streets to the Chicago airport. It was referred to the local transportation committee.

300 LEAVE JOBS IN ARMOUR PLANT DURING DISPUTE

Officials of the Packing House Workers' union, an affiliate of the Congress of Industrial Organizations, said the men walked out spontaneously, without a strike call, because of several grievances. The union leaders said the chief grievance was that the number of hogs to be slaughtered daily had been increased.

Company spokesman said the workers announced they had grievances and demanded that they be settled at once, altho there is an agreement between the company and the union that grievances shall be submitted after working hours. The company refused to attempt an immediate settlement, the spokesmen said, and the men left. Both sides expressed the belief that work would be resumed today.

SCHOOL HEAD PUT ON FT. DEARBORN MEMORIAL BOARD

William H. Johnson, superintendent of schools, was made a member of the Fort Dearborn memorial commission by city council action last night. The commission submitted a report recommending that the Michigan avenue bridge be renamed the Fort Dearborn bridge, and that various streets and squares in the neighborhood of the site of the fort, just south of the bridge, be renamed in honor of the heroes of the Fort Dearborn massacre. The proposals were referred to the committee on streets and alleys, of which Ald. Bryan Hartnett [12th] is chairman.

NO-UNION VOTE HELD A TRIBUTE TO EMPLOYER

But Shoe Manufacturer Is Too Ill to Know It.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Binghamton, N. Y., Jan. 11.—One man's life and good works pervade the upper reaches of the Susquehanna river valley here where employés in the great Endicott-Johnson Shoe corporation this week voted five to one against unionization of their plants. That man is George F. Johnson, 82 years old, chairman of the company.

Taken under the auspices and edict of the National Labor Relations board, the referendum is almost universally interpreted as an overwhelming vote of confidence in the half century record of management by the man whom the workers call "George F."

"George F." built 29 shoe plants and tanneries in the valley towns of Binghamton, Johnson City, Endicott, and Oswego. He poured millions into hospitals, free medical service, parks, recreation centers, schools, workers' homes, clam bakes, and better working conditions. His employés enjoyed one of the first profit sharing plans in the country.

Wrapped in Swirling Blizzard.

Tonight Johnson is lying critically ill with pneumonia in his modest white frame house down a side street in the nearby town of Endicott while the countryside he named the "Ideal Valley" is wrapped in a swirling blizzard.

Members of the family described his condition as "desperate" and said he was too sick a man to "comprehend" the meaning of the vote among his workmen.

That vote climaxed two years of intensive effort by both the American Federation of Labor and the Congress of Industrial Organization to unionize Endicott-Johnson. The result was: 1,612 votes for the A. F. of L. Boot and Shoe Workers' union; 1,079 for the C. I. O. United Shoe Workers of America, and 12,693 against joining either union.

Workers Celebrate Victory.

Yesterday over the protests of foreman and plant officials the workers took a day off and danced and paraded about the streets in celebration of their "victory."

George W. Johnson, son of "George F." and president of the corporation, left his father's bedside tonight for an interview in the library of his home. The vote, he declared, spoke more eloquently than he could. It bespoke the loyalty of the workers, their faith and confidence in the way "George F." had handled affairs thru the years. He talked in detail of his father's accomplishments.

"There's nothing I can say about the election," remarked the younger Johnson. "The workers thru their vote have said it all." He said he had admonished the employés—before the ballots were counted—to forget about the whole matter and go back to work "with the idea of trying to make better shoes and sell more of them."

Meanwhile, there were vague rumors floating about of reprisals that would be taken by the defeated union leaders. One report was that they would protest the vote on the grounds of "coercion." This was based on the fact that hundreds of Endicott-Johnson people had gone to the churches to pray for the recovery of "George F."

An explanation of the prayer services was offered by William H. Hill, president of the Binghamton Sun. Hill said the elder Johnson had contributed so heavily to the churches of every denomination in the area that few, if any, were in debt and it was only natural for clergymen to pray for their benefactor.

Scoffs at Sympathy Shown.

Frank McGrath of New York, C. I. O. organizer, pointed to reports in the papers that the elderly industrialist had passed the pneumonia crisis and had a chance for recovery in delivering a scoffing attack at the display of public sympathy.

"What do you think about that," McGrath was quoted as saying. "Men 82 years old don't recover from pneumonia. He certainly can hoodwink the people."

There were no reprisals planned by the company altho townspeople as well as the officials and many of the workers were wrought up as a result of the two year battle. Townspeople were angered over the character of some of the union organizers who descended upon the community.

One of the C. I. O. supersalesmen was Powers Hapgood, a labor agitator with a long record of radicalism and an alleged communist. On the A. F. of L. side was Ben Berk of Brooklyn, an international organizer.

Attacks Against Johnsons.

The union leaders published two weekly newspapers filled with the most vituperative and libelous [in the opinion of local lawyers], charges against the Johnsons.

'We have made some mistakes in judgment in the past, no doubt," said one company official, "but these people would take such instances and magnify them a hundred times. Then they would go up and down the valley haranguing the employés and asking them to join up on the basis f these fabricated charges."

One workman said he voted against joining because he didn't want to be dictated to by "a bunch of racketeers." Another declared he cast a negative ballot because he didn't want "to be clipped for dues and special assessments and have some leader in Washington call a strike whenever he felt like it."

An unexplained mystery about the election was the manner in which it was brought about. Some leading citizens said that herein is a fertile field for NLRB investigation, but no one in these parts appears very hopeful such an inquiry will be initiated.

20,000 Johnson Employés.

There are about 20,000 Endicott-Johnson employés engaged in the manufacture and sale of 175,000 pairs of shoes and all kinds of footwear daily. Sales people, clerical help, and employés in several other classifications were excluded, leaving about 18,000 eligible to vote.

Berk reported to the NLRB that 9,000 eligible workers had signed petitions signifying they wanted to join a union and have it represent them in collective bargaining. Since this was half of the eligible employés the NLRB requirement was met and the election was ordered. It might be pointed out the company never objected to the election.

Then when the day of final reckoning came last Tuesday there were only 2,691 workers who registered in favor of unions, either C. I. O. or A. F. of L. What happened to the other thousands who presumably signed petitions?

It appears the union arguments never got to first base or even half way to first base because of the good deeds of "George F." That was the real reason for the union defeat.

Never Went to Europe.

The elder Johnson was born near Plymouth, Mass., and began his career "treeing boots," or polishing and finishing shoes at the work bench, according to his son. "George F." continued to be a shoemaker thru life, altho he guided the company here from humble beginnings to a 36 million dollar corporation, one of the largest footwear concerns in the world.

It is a commentary on the makeup of "George F." that he never took a trip to Europe and had spent most of his life here in his "ideal valley."

Strewn thru these valley towns and dotting the hillsides are 2,500 homes "George F." helped build for his workmen, and it is said he never is happier than when he can go to one of the dwellings and participate in a "mortgage burning party."

Lend Workers Money.

It is the policy of the company to lend the workman the money to build his home at 3 per cent—and this is 3 per cent on the unpaid balance which is chiseled down week by week. There never has been a foreclosure. During slack times the company has declared a moratorium on mortgage payments by workmen whose compensation has been temporarily reduced.

Endicott-Johnson inaugurated an employé profit sharing plan in 1918. When the company's obligations, including dividends and taxes, have been met each year and there is something left that is distributed equally among the employés.

The charwoman on the back stairs, the office boy, and "George F." share alike along with the tanner cutter, stitcher, laster, treer, finisher, packer, shipman, and truckman. The biggest surplus checks were in 1925, when the average wage of the E. J. worker was $1,309 for the year. That year the bonus for each amounted to $255.44.

Operates Five Hospitals.

Endicott-Johnson operates five modern, fully equipped hospitals and clinics. When business permits the company foots the entire bill for all medical service, and this includes not only the workman but his wife and children as well.

The workers have their own sick relief organization, into which they contribute 25 cents a week and draw $12 a week for 10 weeks when ill. There also are vast recreational facilities, free legal service, company restaurants, workers' markets, libraries, and garden plots, to mention only a few of the benefits.

In 1931 thousands of people gathered in Binghamton to celebrate the 50th anniversary of "George F.'s" arrival in the city. On that occasion he said, "For anything that I may have done I have been more than repaid by the smiles of children."

CHARGES NLRB BARS TESTIMONY CIO UNION FIGHTS

House Inquiry Attorney Cites Sorg Paper Case.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 11 (AP).—Counsel for a house investigating committee contended today that the labor board had closed the door to belatedly offered testimony which was objectionable to a C. I. O. union, altho in other cases it had taken pains to obtain new information after formal hearings had been concluded.

Edmund M. Toland, the attorney for the committee, directed its attention to the board's action in upholding the United Paper Workers [C. I. O.] as bargaining agent for employés in both plants of the Sorg Paper company at Middletown, O., and in dismissing a petition by an independent union for certification as bargaining agent for employés in the company's bag division.

Memoranda from the board's files showed that, after a hearing had been conducted on the C. I. O. union's petition for certification as the bargaining agent in both plants, the company requested that the board admit in evidence a petition signed by a majority of the employés in the bag division, requesting that they be treated as a separate unit.

No Chance to Cross-Examine.

Julius Holzberg, counsel for the C. I. O. union, objected on the ground that he had had no opportunity to cross-examine the bag plant employés, and Philip G. Phillips, regional director for the board at Cincinnati, expressed the opinion that precedent of a respondent introducing evidence after a trial was "a dangerous one," altho asserting that he thought there actually was no harm in receiving the petition "because I don't think that it could change the situation."

Toland said that the board refused to admit the petition in evidence, dismissed the independent union's petition and, after an extremely close election, certified the C. I. O. union as bargaining agent for employés in both plants.

Evidence on the conduct of this case was developed after the committee had looked earlier into the board's action in obtaining additional information in two cases after formal hearings had been conducted.

Review Attorney for Board.

Miss Fannie M. Boyls, a review attorney for the board, said the hearing record regarding a complaint brought by the United Automobile Workers against the Schwarze Electric company of Adrian, Mich., had been one of the most poorly developed that she had ever read, and that the board had directed her to try to obtain a stipulation between the company and the union, supplying additional information concerning the seniority of the employés.

In addition to writing for the stipulation, she said in response to questions, she also requested information —not to be included in the stipulation—as to the number of employés who had been reinstated since the hearing in the case.

C. I. O. attorneys represented the United Automobile Workers in this case, in which the board ruled that there had been a company dominated union and discrimination against employés for union activity.

Calls Question Too General.

Chairman Howard W. Smith [D., Va.] of the committee inquired:

"In your opinion, is a court or board acting in a judicial capacity ever justified in going outside the record of a case for information without reopening the case and giving all parties notice?"

Miss Boyls replied that the question was so general she felt she could not answer.

"In some instances," Smith continued, "it might be appropriate for a judge or a board to consider outside evidence?"

"Under some circumstances, yes," she replied.

MINNEAPOLIS State at Jackson—Chicago ST. PAUL

DO YOU KNOW CHICAGO'S AUTHORS?

By CALEB

HAS Chicago—someone asks—been solely a glorifier of buying, building, selling, toiling, and otherwise expanding its mighty business girth? A mere colossus of rails and ships, dizzy towers and roaring streets? A shaper of vast civic dreams—a doer of great industrial deeds only?

Not at all! On the contrary, Chicago has graven into the national literature of the last generation a mark that is probably broader and deeper than the average running reader has any notion. Half a hundred names, of which a dozen or more are world-known, identify the city's caliber in terms of great writers; makers of enduring poetry and impressive prose.

To gauge your own familiarity with the people behind Chicago's literary reputation, try supplying the full names in any alphabetic list of final ones. Whether it reveals your lack of knowledge or not, it will certainly remind you that the "Windy City" has wielded, in the affairs of the past two decades, a potent pen as well as a doughty commercial truncheon.

Under A appear Adams, Ade, Aldis and Anderson. B gives us Barnes, Beach and Bodenheim—C, Cohen and Cheney—D, Dell, Dos Passos, Dillon, Dreiser and Dunne—F, Farrell, Ferber, Field and Fiske—G, Gunther—H, Hackett, Hecht, Hemingway, Herrick—K, Kantor and King—L, Lardner, Latimer, Lewis, Levin and Lindsay—M, Masters and Monroe. . . . Have these, by any chance, stimulated your recall of the missing names?

Then try N, where we have Nesbit, Norris and North. Or O, with O'Brien. Or R, with Roberts. Certainly S is suggestive: for here are Sandburg, Sarett, Sheehan, Strobel and Starrett. Last come T, with Tietjens and Taylor; and W, with Wescott, Wilder, Winslow and Winters . . . and even this incomplete roster, as thousands of readers will attest, represents both great fiction and great poetry, without which American literature would be surprisingly poorer than it today is.

All of which proves that, in our world's biggest young city, belles lettres have flourished along with the sterner pursuits of trade. The verve, vigor, adventure and vicissitudes of a huge metropolis growing prairieward and skyward beside a vast inland sea, have flourished infinite riches for the writer as well as the builder—and much that is stalwart and permanent in the world of print owes its existence wholly to the existence of Chicago herself. In our own book section are many titles, the authorship of which lies somewhere in the list above.

QUIZ OF GARAGE OWNERS PUSHED IN GOON KILLING

Civic Group Pledges Fight to End Terror.

Capt. Patrick O'Connell of the Town Hall police station last night was investigating a story purporting to shed new light on the inner workings of Affiliated Garages of Chicago. This is a garage owners' association which has been under scrutiny by the police and State's Attorney Courtney in the labor goon slaying of Marinus Hvid.

Capt. O'Connell said a former president of the association, which expelled Hvid last March, asserted that the association's income is nearly $50,000 a year, more than twice that previously estimated. This garage owner declared that Emil Mermall, the executive director, has absolute power to spend 95 per cent of the funds.

Meanwhile, the citizens' committee formed in response to aroused public sentiment over the Hvid murder, met and pledged intensified effort to drive out labor terrorism in Chicago. Eight members of the committee will confer with Mayor Kelly today on means of eliminating racketeering and violence.

Day Talk to Grand Jury.

The former president who told of the administration and finances of Affiliated Garages is Otto E. Schmidt, owner of a garage at 2700 Lehmann court. He will be questioned further today by Capt. O'Connell and may be taken before the grand jury in the afternoon.

Schmidt was elected president when the association was formed in November, 1937. He served until last November. He said he did not run for reëlection because of outside business interests, but another spokesman for the association said Schmidt was disappointed because he was not chosen again.

B. B. Adams was elected president. Schmidt is still a director of the association.

It was while Schmidt was president that Hvid was expelled from the association because he failed to pay a $75 fine imposed for storing a car removed from the garage of another association member.

Union Strike Follows.

A few days later the Auto Livery, Chauffeurs, Taxicap Drivers and Garage Helpers' union called a strike at Hvid's garage at 3514 North Halsted street and picketed the place until Hvid was fatally slugged on the night of Dec. 27.

Schmidt said he never had met Hvid and was not present at the executive board meeting when Hvid was fined.

"Do you know whether Mermall was paying the expenses of the picketing of Hvid's garage?" Schmidt was asked. [These expenses amounted to $4,000.]

"I won't answer that question until I'm put under oath or until the proper authorities demand information along that line," Schmidt replied, according to Capt. O'Connell.

Schmidt said that while he was president he was dissatisfied with the administrative setup which allowed him to be an officer in name only and vested all real power in Mermall and the executive board.

Never Knew of Finances.

"In all that time," he said, "I never saw a financial statement from Mermall. He had a contract under which he had to turn back only 5 per cent of the annual income to the association and he could spend the rest for organization work and his salary."

Earlier this week Mermall told the state's attorney's office that the association's annual income was $21,600. His salary was $5,200 yearly, he said, $9,000 went for his own expenses, and the remainder went for rentals, promotional work, and the salaries of three employés.

"Those figures aren't correct," Schmidt asserted, according to Capt. O'Connell. "The association has 350 members, and their dues range from $5 to $25 a month, depending on the location of their garages and their storage space. The dues average about $10 a month per member, and this would give an annual income of $42,000. Fines imposed on members for rule infractions and profits from the association magazine would bring the yearly revenue to nearly $50,000. I never voted to pay Mermall $100 a week salary, and I don't know how he decided on that figure."

Assails Jail Record.

After a closed meeting of the 30 directors of Affiliated Garages last Tuesday it was announced Mermall had been given a unanimous vote of confidence.

"I was at the meeting, and that's not true," Schmidt said. "I didn't vote my approval. I pointed out that it was not lending the association any dignity to have a man in office who had served time in jail."

It was disclosed by the state's attorney's office on Monday that Mermall served 10 days in jail in 1932 after pleading guilty with four others to a conspiracy to defraud the Checker Taxicab company thru a false accident claim.

Others present at the directors' meeting said last night that Schmidt had a personal grievance against Mermall and that Schmidt was disgruntled because he, too, had been fined $75 for taking a customer away from another association member.

Tells of Accounting.

O. A. Finholt, an auditor, and William Cohen, former head of the Illinois Garage Owners and Operators' association, were questioned yesterday by Assistant State's Attorneys William Crawford and John Long. Finholt said his examination of the books of Affiliated Garages in 1938 and 1939 showed that Mermall had withdrawn $14,120. Mermall has stated he used the money for expenses, but has not presented a detailed accounting.

Cohen said that his garage owners' group, which had 75 members, had voted in 1937 not to join Affiliated Garages but joined in 1939 after being told that was the only way to get a blanket hours and wages agreement with the garage helpers' union.

Another garage owner, whose name was not disclosed, told the prosecutors he was expelled from Affiliated Garages in 1938 for cutting prices. This was followed by a union strike and picketing at his place. He appealed to Mermall and had to pay a $150 fine and raise his employés to union scale wages before the strike and picketing ended, he said.

Civic Leaders Act.

The citizens' committee, consisting of more than 75 business, civic, educational and church leaders, met yesterday in the La Salle hotel. Their antiracketeering campaign was initiated last week by the All-Chicago Council of the Chicago Association of Commerce.

Frank A. Hecht, chairman of the All-Chicago council, read a statement of the group's position which was approved unanimously.

"It is the conviction of these representatives," the statement said, "that the overwhelming majority of labor groups and business men are, in such occurrences as the Hvid murder, victimized and outraged. It appeared to them certain that in the practices employed, criminal underworld elements played a part.

"These representatives record their intent to support the authorities in a thoro and impartial investigation and in the prompt application of justice to all those involved in this crime. Equally important is a mutual and sincere coöperation between business and labor in discovering the basis for such impositions upon legitimate business and labor interests. Until such atrocities as the Hvid murder can no longer occur the full possibilities of this great city cannot be realized."

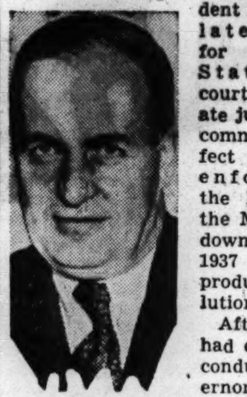
Meet with Mayor Today.

The committee which will meet with Mayor Kelly today is composed of Hecht, Merle C. Trees, vice president of the Chicago Bridge and Iron company; Gen. Robert E. Wood, chairman of Sears, Roebuck & Co.; Newton C. Farr, president of the National Association of Real Estate Boards; James S. Knowlton, president of the Stewart-Warner corporation; Floyd E. Thompson, former chief justice of the Illinois Supreme court; Leverett S. Lyon, chief executive officer of the Association of Commerce, and Fred L. Virkus, head of the Illinois division of the Small Business Men's association.

Murphy Defends Sitdown Policy Before Senate Group

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 11.—Attorney General Frank Murphy, President Roosevelt's latest nominee for the United States Supreme court, told a senate judiciary subcommittee in effect today that enforcement of the law against the Michigan sitdown strikers in 1937 might have produced a revolution.



Senator Edward R. Burke.

After Murphy had defended his conduct as governor of Michigan in the sitdown strike crisis in the automobile industry, the subcommittee headed by Senator Edward R. Burke [D., Neb.] unanimously approved his nomination for the Supreme court. The full judiciary committee is expected to act upon the nomination on Monday.

Questioned by Senators.

Murphy was questioned briefly as to his conduct during the communist led sitdown strike of the C. I. O. auto workers union. During that crisis he forced the officials of the General Motors corporation, in the name of the President of the United States, to negotiate while the sitdown strikers held possession of their plants. Later, he refused to permit enforcement of a Circuit court order calling for the eviction of the strikers.

Murphy's explanation today was similar to the defense he gave a year ago when he was appointed attorney general.

"We went thru seven months of social upheaval," he said. "The differences were harmonized. That was the objective that I had—not to let extremists throw us into revolution.

"I used what I thought was the American method—the method of reason in trying to reach a settlement."

"You didn't favor force by either strikers or employers, but sought to compose differences by negotiation?" asked Senator Warren R. Austin [R., Vt.].

"Yes," said Murphy. "I had all the facts. I was the chief executive of the people and I tried to speak for all of them, not one side or the other. I had just one objective—not to let blood flow, to save our people from wild, revolutionary behavior.

"I had the feeling that an irresponsible act on my part might easily have thrown these people involved in the strike into revolution. There were extremists on both sides who wanted violence. There were revolutionists involved. There were thoughtless people on the other side who wanted the troops brought in and who would have let a massacre occur."

Quizzed by Connally.

Senator Tom Connally [D., Tex.] ascertained to his satisfaction that Murphy believes in the doctrine of judicial review, the power of the Supreme court to hold acts of congress and of state legislatures unconstitutional.

"I believe that it has the power and should exercise it with great discretion," Murphy said.

Chairman Burke put Murphy on record with what amounted to a promise not to participate in the rehearing by the Supreme court of an antitrust conspiracy case prosecuted under his administration as attorney general. This was a mandamus action brought by the government after Federal Judge Patrick T. Stone at Madison, Wis., had set aside a jury verdict of guilty against certain oil company officials charged with conspiracy to violate the antitrust laws.

Judge Stone Upheld.

Judge Stone held that the evidence did not support the verdict. The Circuit Court of Appeals at Chicago upheld Judge Stone in denying the government's petition for a writ of mandamus, which challenged the judge's power to set aside the verdict.

The circuit court was upheld by an equally divided Supreme court, in the absence of the late Justice Pierce Butler, who died subsequently.

Senator Burke called attention to newspaper reports that the department of justice would request a rehearing of the case by a full court. Murphy said he was not familiar with the matter but that, if he felt disqualified, he would "lean backward" to avoid any impropriety.

QUIZ OF MURPHY RAISES SITDOWN STRIKE ECHOES

I. C. C. Criticisms of State Authorities Recalled.

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 11 [Special].—Echoes of the sitdown strikes of 1937 were heard here today following Attorney General Frank Murphy's defense of his policies as governor of Michigan. Murphy appeared before a senate subcommittee which approved his nomination to the United States Supreme court. The senate judiciary committee is expected to act on the nomination Monday.

Interest was renewed in a finding of the Interstate Commerce commission that unreasonable demurrage charges had been collected from the Chrysler corporation on cars forcibly held within its plants during the strike of March 8 to April 6, 1937. The commission awarded reparation. [Demurrage is rental assessed for holding a ship or railroad car beyond the time specified in tariff rates.]

Recall Murphy's Action.

In the course of a factual narrative of the strike the commission report spoke of a court order issued by the late Judge Allan Campbell, on March 19, 1937, calling for the arrest of 6,000 sitdowners holding the Chrysler plant.

"The constituted state authority failed to act under the court's order," the report stated, "and on March 25, under an arrangement with the strikers, the Michigan state police took control of the gates and prevented the use of the plants."

It was recalled here today that in the 1938 election, in which Gov. Murphy was defeated for reëlection, a main issue was the governor's attitude in the sitdown strikes, and his indorsement by the communist party.

Assail Excess Charges.

The Chrysler corporation, in the case before the commerce commission, assailed demurrage charges assessed by the New York Central railroad on cars at its plants during the strike. On 687 cars outside the plants, $37,800 in demurrage was collected. On 426 cars inside the plants the demurrage was $58,052, a total of $95,852. These charges were based on a rate of $2 a day for the first four days after the expiration of two days' free time, excluding Sundays and legal holidays, and $5 for every day thereafter.

The commission held that during the sitdown strike period, when the company had no control over its plant, the charges were excessive on cars within the plants to the extent of $1.20 a car per day impoundage.

Story of the Strike.

In its narrative of what happened in the strike the commission's decision, which was dated last Oct. 17, said that for several days before March 8, 1937, representatives of the United Automobile Workers of America [affiliated with John L. Lewis' C. I. O.] had been in conference with the Chrysler company.

"The Chrysler corporation did not immediately accede to the union's demands," the finding said, "and the union, between 1:15 and 3 p. m. on March 8, seized the several plants of complainant, and locked, barricaded, and guarded the gates. Nonunion employés were at first forcibly kept within the plants, altho later allowed to leave; in some plants complainant's protection force was ejected; in others the force was practically imprisoned; and in other plants they were allowed to continue their rounds of inspection accompanied by strikers.

Change in Trends.

"While strikes have, for a long time, been called by labor in attempting to accomplish its desired ends, they have heretofore left the property in possession and control of the employer. The activity of the strikers seldom exceeded the more or less effective picketing of the property. The strike in complainant's plants was among the first in this country that involved the taking over of the property by force, and the forcible ousting of the management, now commonly called the 'sitdown strike.'

"This occupation of the plants by the striking employés continued until March 25, altho complainant, within 48 hours after the strike was called, sought and secured a mandatory injunction which directed the strikers to vacate the plant by 9 a. m. on March 17; the strikers refused to comply, and on March 19 the court ordered the arrest of those holding the plants."

The report says the "constituted state authority" failed to act under the court's order, as quoted above, and on March 25, the state police took control of the gates and prevented use of the plants.

'On April 6," it continues, "an agreement between complainant [the Chrysler corporation] and the union, was signed, the state police withdrew and possession of the plants was returned to complainant."

Finding on Demurrage.

The finding says demurrage charges on cars were applicable; on cars outside the plants they were not unreasonable, but on cars inside the plants during the sitdown strike, "the period in which complainant was dispossessed of its plant and thus without power to release the cars" the charges were not reasonable.

"The condition of a breakdown of law and order," it said, "must be considered as general in its nature. If the occurrence at Detroit had not been marked by forbearance on the part of complainant, the results in violence would have immediately affected the whole community; and it is impossible to say how far the results would have extended. It was of no advantage to the automobile company, pecuniary or otherwise, to have cars held in the condition they were in."

WIDOW OF SLAIN LABOR LEADER WILL SUE UNION

New York, Jan. 11 [Special].—Another of New York's unsolved murder cases was revived today with the announcement that the widow of R. Norman Redwood, mysteriously slain leader of the Sandhogs [tunnel workers] union, will sue his union for death compensation.

The widow's suit, opening the way for a new investigation of the three year old mystery, will charge that Redwood was killed on duty and that local 102 of the Sandhogs' union, under whose supervision he was employed, was financially responsible. Local 102 has since been merged with local 147, but that does not affect the status of Mrs. Redwood's legal claim, her attorney, Sinclair Robinson, said today.

Redwood was shot to death in the driveway of his home in Teaneck, N. J., on the night of Feb. 19, 1937, at a time when his union was striking on a New York City subway construction job.

BUTCHERS' UNION PROBES CHICAGO TERROR CHARGES

State Pushes Trial of Two Held in Slugging.

An independent investigation into labor terrorism charged against its Chicago local has been begun by the international headquarters of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen of North America. This was disclosed yesterday in a letter written by Dennis Lane, secretary and treasurer of the international union, which has offices at 160 North La Salle street.

Two business agents of the Chicago unit, local 638, were reported to have been named in true bills by the grand jury Wednesday in connection with the goon slugging last Saturday of Chester L. Mikolajczyk, a butcher's helper.

Denounces Union Brutality.

The letter, sent to Mikolajczyk and turned over to State's Attorney Courtney's office, said the international had been studying the case. Mikolajczyk, who was delinquent in paying union dues, had complained of his treatment to the international headquarters.

"I denounce any kind of brutality in the enforcement of union rules," Lane wrote. "I agree that a man should have a chance to work to pay up his back dues. I agree, too, that a man must first think of feeding his family.

"We will make our own investigation. If we find that union officials are guilty of brutality, we will find the means to eliminate them from union affairs, both as officials and members."

Meanwhile, the state moved to obtain a speedy trial of the accused business agents—John Kopke and Henry Hlavacek. They were reported named on charges of assault with intent to commit murder, assault with intent to commit mayhem, assault with a deadly weapon, and conspiracy to commit all these crimes. They were arrested after Mikolajczyk was attacked in a butcher shop at 2227 South Springfield avenue.

Assistant State's Attorney Morris Meyers, who announced the state's plans for a prompt trial, said: "We are ready to proceed at once. We hope to have a trial date set definitely Monday."

Meyers said that yesterday Joseph Burian, 2513 South Hamlin avenue, a sausage maker, who need not be a member of the meat cutters' union to practice his trade, had been threatened nevertheless.

Forced to Quit Job.

"Last June 22 I got a job in a meat market at 3825 West 26th street," he told Meyers. "I was working as a sausage maker and did not need to belong to the union. A short time after I got the job Kopke and Hlavacek came to the shop and threatened me. They told John Gabriel, the owner, that they would call a strike in the shop if I didn't get out. Gabriel protested, but I told him I would rather quit than cause him trouble."

Meyers said that additional charges of intimidating a worker would be brought against the business agents. The maximum penalty for the offense is a $200 fine.

ORDER DELETIONS IF 'CHILDREN'S HOUR' IS TO PLAY

"The Children's Hour" will have the approval of the Chicago censor board if deletions are made in 30 places, it was learned last night. The censors' report, recommending the 30 cuts, was submitted to Police Commissioner Allman yesterday.

Miss Minnie Galatzer, director of the Actors' Company of Chicago, said rehearsals were still in progress last night in a playhouse on the fourth floor at 218 South Wabash avenue.

BALLOTS STORED AT $900 A MONTH, COURT INFORMED

County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki left for Tucson, Ariz., yesterday morning on orders of his physician. For a week he had been confined to his home with a cold. Pending his return, which is expected in a week or 10 days, two election fraud cases in the county court were continued until Jan. 29.

Judge Jarecki and State's Attorney Thomas Courtney were criticized by Attorney Joseph T. Harrington yesterday in his final argument on an injunction suit before Judge Robert J. Dunne in Circuit court. The suit seeks to stop further prosecution of vote frauds until the state Supreme court acts on a mandamus suit asking that ballots over six months old be destroyed.

Harrington said the ballots were stored in a warehouse at 4917 Broadway. "The warehouse," he said, "belongs to Martin Kennelly, who was campaign manager for Courtney. The ballots are stored at $900 a month."

URGE A WIRE NET IN LOOP STORE TO PREVENT SUICIDE

A coroner's jury investigating the death of Mrs. Margaret Mary Robbins, who was killed in a plunge in the Marshall Field & Co. loop store Wednesday, recommended yesterday that the store install a wire netting.

Mrs. Robbins leaped from the seventh floor balcony encircling the north rotunda of the store. The jury recommended that the netting, suggested by Deputy Coroner Ted Luber, be installed at the seventh floor.

The jury returned a verdict of suicide while despondent over ill health in the case of Mrs. Robbins, who was 27 years old, the wife of Dr. R. H. Robbins of Waukegan. The death of Harry Kohlman, 50, floor manager who was fatally injured when struck by Mrs. Robbins' falling body, was found to be accidental. Kohlman lived at 2212 North Tripp avenue

GOVERNOR ASKS EXTRADITION OF WILLIAM BIOFF

Urges Inquiry in 17 Year Delay of Arrest.

Gov. Horner signed a requisition yesterday in Springfield asking the governor of California to extradite William Bioff, motion picture union official, to Chicago. State's Attorney Courtney is striving to force Bioff to return and serve a sentence of six months in the Bridewell, imposed on him by the Municipal court in 1922 for pandering.

"When the requisition is honored," the governor said, "I suggest that Bioff be given an opportunity to explain before a grand jury how he has been able to evade for 17 years serving this sentence." He added: "I am of the opinion that the unexplained, apparently inexcusable delay or negligence of law enforcing authorities should not exempt the defendant from paying the penalty of the law for his crime."

Trouble in Federal Courts.

Bioff is also having his troubles in the federal courts. He was indicted in Los Angeles Wednesday on charges of evading income taxes in 1936 and 1937. For the two years, it was alleged, his income was $209,000, while he paid on only about $13,000. Bioff surrendered on the indictment yesterday and was released in bonds of $5,000.

First Assistant State's Attorney Wilbert F. Crowley received an official copy of the Horner requisition last evening and sent a telegram to Los Angeles authorities asking them to arrest the union leader and hold him for extradition. Crowley said he was not sure whether the government would consent to the extradition and that its charge probably would take precedence over Chicago's claim for Bioff.

The record here shows that Bioff, who was a Capone hoodlum in the early prohibition days, was arrested Jan. 14, 1922, for pandering. On Jan. 17 he was found guilty by Judge Arnold Heap, who sentenced him to the Bridewell and added a $300 fine.

Sentence Affirmed on Appeal.

This case was appealed to the Appellate court, Bioff remaining at liberty on bonds. On March 23, 1923, this sentence was affirmed. A request for a further stay while an appeal was carried to the Illinois Supreme court was denied and on April 4, 1923, the Appellate court forwarded its mandate to the Municipal court with instructions to issue a capias for Bioff's arrest and imprisonment.

Gov. Horner said that no capias was issued until Nov. 24, 1939.

"During all these years," he continued, "no effort apparently was made to compel Bioff to serve his sentence or to return. There has been no explanation before me or elsewhere, so far as I know, of the reason for this unprecedented and inexcusable situation."

Call Him a Useful Citizen.

Attorneys representing the unionist argued against the issuance of the requisition. They asserted that he remained in Chicago until 1936 and that he had "rehabilitated himself" into a useful member of society.

The governor took cognizance of this. He said no precedent to guide him was presented by either side.

"Only in rare instances, if ever," he commented, "has a convicted person who has lived openly after his conviction in the community where he was convicted been permitted by law enforcing authorities to escape his sentence for 17 years."

LAWYERS CLASH IN HOLLAND SUIT; BRIEFS ORDERED

Attorneys wrangled for two hours yesterday over Judge Eugene J. Holland's $250,000 libel suit against Chief Justice John J. Sonsteby of the Municipal court and Bertram J. Cahn, president of the Chicago Crime commission.

Judge Sonsteby and Cahn were asking that the suit be stricken from the records. But at the close of the argument, Judge Harry M. Fisher instructed both sides to submit their arguments in briefs by Feb. 13.

Holland, a Municipal court judge, filed the suit Dec. 7. He charged he had been libeled in communications between the crime commission and Judge Sonsteby on the commission's recommendation that Judge Holland be relieved of duty pending an investigation of his conduct on the bench.

The investigation was asked following the disclosure that Judge Holland had been a business associate of Edward J. O'Hare, Capone gang front man who was assassinated Nov. 8.

SEEK HOODLUM'S LIFE IN KILLING OF PARK POLICEMAN

State Moves Swiftly in Mangano Trial.

The state moved swiftly yesterday in its effort to send Jerry Mangano, 22 years old, hoodlum-slayer of a park policeman, to the electric chair for his crime.

A jury of four women and eight men—qualified to inflict the death penalty—was completed in the Criminal court of Judge John Sbarbaro. It heard a dozen witnesses testify that Mangano was a cold-blooded "cop hater." The case is expected to go to the jury today.

Sergt. Fred Blank, who saw his partner, Park Policeman Harry Francois, shot down by Mangano in Humboldt park on Nov. 20, was one of the state's three chief witnesses. The others were Theodore C. Nelson, 3331 Fulton avenue, and Mrs. Ruth Tessmer, 4255 Monticello avenue, who, as Mangano's intended robbery victims, also saw the slaying.

Give Details of Shooting.

The three witnesses told how Mangano and three companions held up Nelson and Mrs. Tessmer in their car in a park drive; how Francois and Sergt. Blank drew up to question the youths, and how the snarling Mangano fired the shot that killed Francois.

"Later we went to the showup at the North avenue station," Nelson testified. "Mangano said he hated coppers and that he took the first chance he got to let them know it."

"I asked Mangano why he killed the policeman," Mrs. Tessmer said. "He said he wanted to get even with the policemen. He said his partner had been killed and he had been shot by police six years ago."

Plea for Long Term Spurned.

As the trial started, Defense Attorney James M. Burke offered to have the defendant enter a plea of guilty in return for a 199 year sentence. He described Mangano as physically and socially ill.

His offers, however, were rejected by Richard Devine and Blair Varnes, state prosecutors.

The first witness was Mrs. Nellie Francois, widow of the slain policeman, called by the state to establish the corpus delicti. Mrs. Rose Mangano, mother of the defendant, was in the courtroom, and often was near hysteria as the trial progressed.

The case is being heard by one of the youngest juries ever assembled in a murder trial in the Criminal court. Thaddeus J. Sporny, 21 years old, 8520 Houston avenue, is the youngest. The jurors' average age is 32.

Italo Begano, 16 years old, and Joseph Russano, 18, Mangano's companions in the shooting, have been granted separate trials.

Identify Tavern Bandit as Recent Pontiac Parolee

A bandit captured in a holdup was identified last night as Albert Fioretti, who was paroled from the state prison at Pontiac last month. He had been sent to prison for banditry in 1934. Fioretti entered a tavern at 511 Jackson boulevard early yesterday and demanded money. Edward Gaenzle, one of the owners, put $42 on the bar. As the robber reached for the money Bartender Jack Greeson knocked him unconscious with a beer bottle. Fioretti refused to give his address.

LOUISIANA SEES ITS POLITICIANS STAR IN STRIPES

Candidate Puts on Satiric "Convicts' Parade."

New Orleans, La., Jan. 11 (AP).—Louisiana's turbulent gubernatorial campaign neared its climax tonight with appearance on venerable Canal street of a "convicts' parade" in which many of the state's politicians were depicted clothed in stripes, breaking rocks, and cutting sugar cane.

James H. Morrison, 31 year old candidate for governor and sworn enemy of the administration machine which Huey P. Long built here, arose from a sickbed to lead the bizarre aggregation down the street, which was lined with gaping thousands. He is suffering from influenza.

One for the Books.

The lead float of 25 depicted Mayor Robert S. Maestri of New Orleans, the state's most powerful politician, sitting solidly on the closed and padlocked books of the state department, which he headed before becoming mayor. Newspapers and citizens groups have been clamoring for six months to see these books, which were closed to public scrutiny last June when Earl K. Long, Huey's brother, became governor. The explanation was that they were being audited.

Opposition candidates have charged on the stump that a new set of books was being written.

The parade has been used thruout the state as Morrison's campaign backdrop. It was manned by strawberry farmers from his home district whom he helped get better prices thru a coöperative organization. They acted in the convict rôles of politicians of whom the common man stood in awe half a year ago.

Many Federal Convictions.

It was a reflection of the widespread federal investigation in Louisiana. Since last June, the government has won conviction on mail fraud charges of Seymour Weiss, Abraham L. Shushan, Dr. James Monroe Smith, and seven others; indictment on several counts of former Gov. Richard W. Leche, and scores of other persons soon to face trial.

Leche, Shushan, Weiss, and many others were not overlooked in the parade, one of the strangest ever seen in the Mardi Gras city, which loves a parade and has seen some of the most unusual in the world.

Gov. Long was given a key position below the Maestri float, where he was mounted on a messenger boy's bicycle awaiting Maestri's orders.

Underwear-clad pedestrians carried placards saying they "lost their pants" when they voted for James A. Noe, a former interim governor and one of the current candidates for governor in the Jan. 16 primary. Gov. Long also is a candidate.

COUPLE ORDERED HELD TO JURY IN TRUNK MURDER

A coroner's jury recommended yesterday that Mrs. Cleo Pallas, 43 years old, and Sam Delao, with whom she has been living, be held to the grand jury for the murder of Mrs. Pallas' mother, Mrs. Helen J. Sharp, 65. Mrs. Sharp's body was found in a trunk Jan. 4 in an alley about a mile from 207 West 25th place, where she had lived with her daughter and Delao.

Mrs. Pallas told the coroner's jury she went out to walk the dog the morning her mother was killed, and returned to find her mother on the floor and Delao standing over her with a baseball bat. She said she struck Delao, who returned the blow and threatened to kill her also. Delao refused to testify, but declared that Mrs. Pallas was lying. He confessed the murder the same day it occurred after police found bloodstains in the apartment. He said he had lost his temper after a quarrel.

FIND EX-SHERIFF NOT GUILTY OF TAKING BRIBES

Urbana, Ill., Jan. 11 [Special].—A mixed jury in Champaign County Circuit court tonight found Clarence W. Roth, former sheriff of Champaign county, not guilty of bribery. The jury had deliberated four hours and ten minutes after receiving the case at 4:35 p. m.

Clarence W. Roth.

Roth was indicted by the January, 1939, grand jury which investigated charges of vice and corruption in Champaign after the fatal shooting of a University of Illinois sophomore last February.

Roth was charged with having received $73 from Fred S. Bongart on Nov. 26, 1936, to permit the operation of pinball machines. Bongart testified he was president of the Champaign county pinball and marble machine operators association and that he had collected $1 a week for each machine from the operators and that the money was paid weekly to Roth. Roth denied the charges from the stand.

A Startling New Development in Motor Fuels Brings You—

TWO NEW GASOLINES

—that give you an Extra Margin of Performance at no increase in price

—that save you even more on Stop-and-Go

NEW

SUPER-SHELL

You'll FEEL the outstanding performance of this advanced new gasoline the first time you step on the starter.

From that moment on, you'll find that NEW Super-Shell will meet the toughest tests you can think of—for EVERY driving condition. Test its higher anti-knock on the steepest hill you can find. Test its swift and surging power as you glide from first—to second—to third. Test its mighty reserve of energy—its instant response—as you step ahead of other cars.

Test it for EVERYTHING—including economy—because you'll find this NEW Super-Shell saves you even more on Stop-and-Go.

You're right! It DOES cost more to make—but it costs you no more to buy it!

NEW

SHELL PREMIUM

You'll say that the NEW Shell Premium is the finest gasoline ever to bear the Shell name. And you'll be right!

It comes straight from the same Shell research that first produced 100 octane gasoline—the gasoline used in today's racing planes.

Made for those engines that have unusually high anti-knock requirements — and for those who want the utmost in quality — the NEW Shell Premium, although it costs more to make, gives you an EVEN WIDER MARGIN OF PERFORMANCE at slight additional cost.

This spectacular advance made by the same talent...the same company that...

1 FIRST SPONSORED ANTI-KNOCK RESEARCH... Under the sponsorship of Shell, Harry Ricardo discovered principles that made modern high-compression engines possible. His experiments in flame propagation and action of aromatic hydro-carbons led to development of Shell's "BALANCING PROCESS" in refining.

2 FIRST TO RE-FORM GASOLINE... Many of the great advances in gasoline refining have come from Shell's laboratories. Here was developed the "BALANCING PROCESS" that saves you money on Stop-and-Go. Here a large staff of skilled scientists maintain a tireless search for ways of producing ever better petroleum products.

3 AND NOW* SHELL'S BALANCING PROCESS SAVES YOU MORE MONEY ON STOP-AND-GO... Basis of both the new Super-Shell and the new Shell Premium is the "BALANCING PROCESS." This means that no one essential quality is emphasized at the sacrifice of another. Thus—when you start—shift gears—accelerate—or travel steadily every drop of motor fuel is completely usable.

Greater Performance— no increase in price

Gets Approval of Council Finance Committee.

Leo M. Lyons, Chicago relief administrator, submitted a proposed relief budget of $39,080,556 for 1940 to members of the city council finance committee last night. This is $4,782,444 less than the 1939 budget, which was $43,863,000.

Lyons said the consolidation of relief districts and offices was responsible for much of the saving. Of the $39,080,556, the city is to supply $5,520,000 and the state is to pay the rest.

Problem of Street Projects.

The committee approved Lyons' figures subject to clarification of details on personnel and salary allotments. This will be studied by a committee composed of members of the finance committee along with Lyons, Oscar Hewitt, commissioner of public works, and L. H. Jacobson, local WPA administrator.

The committee then will go into the problem of the use of reliefers on street projects. Hewitt declared that unless funds are forthcoming from the CRA, there will be no street repairing done in Chicago this year.

It was explained that last November the CRA was given authority to contribute money to the city to be used as the city's sponsor's share of WPA projects, provided in turn that employable reliefers were taken off the relief rolls and transferred to WPA to work on the projects.

Only 6,000 Transferred.

Some 25,000 reliefers were expected to be put on WPA under this arrangement, but only 6,000 have been transferred Lyons said that 8,000 of 14,000 reliefers certified by the CRA as employable were rejected by the WPA.

Hewitt asserted that the motor vehicle tax fund, from which money is normally obtained for street repair work, has been exhausted thru advance borrowing.

"We're in the hands of the CRA," Hewitt said. "We formulate projects for the WPA, they're sent to Washington, then back to local WPA officials, and finally the relief administration settles everything with its decision whether or not to contribute to the project."

RAILROAD STOPS CRACK TRAIN TO DELIVER SERUM

Mrs. Sara Lund.

The Illinois Central railroad revised its schedule for the crack train, Floridian, Wednesday night, to bring pneumonia serum to Mrs. Sara Lund, 32 years old, of Paxton in Ford county. She became ill four days ago, and on Wednesday her condition was critical. Her husband, Dr. J. A. Lund, telegraphed a Chicago laboratory for the serum.

The Railway Express agency brought the shipment to the Illinois Central at 7:45 p. m. The last train for Paxton had gone. Railroad officials, however, ordered the Floridian, leaving at 9 p. m., to make a special stop. The delivery was made at 10:45 p. m.

Yesterday Dr. Lund thanked the railroad officials and said he expected his wife to recover. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Ireland, live in Chicago at 7319 Lafayette avenue.

DROP 1,225 FROM AURORA RELIEF ROLLS DURING '39

Twelve hundred twenty-five persons were dropped from the relief rolls in Aurora during 1939, Michael Weller, township supervisor, reported yesterday. He credited a marked increase in employment for the sharp reduction. Last month 2,951 persons were on the rolls, compared with 4,176 in December, 1938. Cost of maintenance dropped from $37,762 in December, 1938 to $27,593 in December, 1939.

START BUILDING NEW N. U. TECH SCHOOL MARCH 1

Construction of the $4,900,000 building which will house Northwestern university's new technological institute will be started about March 1, Ovid W. Eshbach, dean of the institute, said yesterday at a meeting of the university associates in the Chicago club. Dean Eshbach said that the building, which will house the civil, electrical, chemical, and mechanical engineering schools, probably will be ready for occupancy in the fall of 1941.

The technological institute will be conducted on a coöperative educational plan, Dean Eshbach explained. Its 800 students will spend part of their time in the institute attending regular classes and part working in Chicago plants and factories learning the practical application of their schooling.

The institute was made possible by a gift of $6,735,000 from the Walter P. Murphy Foundation of Chicago. Mr. Murphy is president of the Standard Railway Equipment company.

JEWISH COUNCIL OPENS DRIVE FOR BOYS' CLUB FUND

The council now maintains the American Boys' commonwealth, 3415 13th place; the Deborah Boys' club, 2441 Division street; and the Albany Park Boys' club, 4710 North Central Park avenue. It expects to open an additional small unit in the Spaulding avenue and Division street area.

More than 5,000 boys are now served by the three clubs in operation.

SECOND BLACK HORSE TROOP TO MAKE ITS CHICAGO DEBUT FEB. 17

Chicago's 2d Black Horse troop, which is being recruited by officers of the Illinois National Guard, will make its official debut Feb. 17 at the dedication of the new annex of the 122d Field Artillery armory on East Chicago avenue. Only 15 more recruits are needed to bring the troop to its full strength of 66 men, Lieut. William Kirby said yesterday.

ORDER JOB UNIT TO PAY GREETING CARDS' POSTAGE

The Illinois State Employment service must pay postage on the New Year's cards its officials sent out in franked envelopes, the postmaster general's office in Washington, D. C., ruled yesterday. The officials haven't disclosed how many cards they mailed, but it was reported the bill will be about $500.

The employment service has franking privileges on official business because it is affiliated with the United States Employment service, a branch of the Department of Labor. The New Year's cards thanked persons and organizations that had given jobs to the unemployed.

Mrs. H. L. Doherty.

New York, Jan. 11 (AP).—The vast utilities and real estate fortune of Henry L. Doherty was left in its entirety to his widow in a handwritten will, remarkably brief, which was filed for probate today in Surrogate's court. Mrs. Doherty was the widow of Percy Frank Ames and was married to Doherty, a bachelor, in 1928.

No value was placed on the estate, but papers filed with the will said the net was "substantially in excess of $1,000,000."

The one time newsboy and office boy for a Columbus, O., gas company who became a titan of the public utilities field and of Florida real estate, hotel and resort development, died two weeks ago in Philadelphia at the age of 69.

The will in 31 words disposed of a fortune which had its roots in almost every state of the Union and which took a lifetime to accumulate. It was almost entirely in securities of Henry L. Doherty and Company, Inc.

FILE $13,500 CLAIM AGAINST ESTATE OF G. F. HARDING

A claim of $13,500 was filed yesterday against the estate of the late George F. Harding, national Republican committeeman from Illinois, in Probate court. The claim, made by Mrs. Carolyn Owsley of the Ambassador West hotel, is on two promissory notes of $10,000 each that she holds against Gregory T. Van Meter, Harding's business associate and his assistant when Harding was county treasurer. Harding had indorsed the notes, it was claimed, and only $7,500 had been paid on them.

DIVORCE COURT RECONCILIATION BUREAU URGED

The establishment of a reconciliation bureau in the divorce courts was urged last night by Judge Cornelius J. Harrington of the Circuit court at a meeting of the Chicago Bar association. Such a bureau, he predicted, would help reduce the divorce rate. Other speakers were Chief Justice John Prystalski of the Criminal court, and Judge Charles M. O'Connor of the Appellate court.

MICKEY ROONEY VISITS N. U. SORORITY, AND GIRLS FORGET CLASSES

Girls of the Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority at Northwestern university cut classes without a qualm yesterday morning. Mickey Rooney, young star of the Judge Hardy movie series and other pictures, dropped in at the Kappa house for breakfast.

The girl he came to see is Miss Beverly Roach, demure, attractive freshman who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Roach of 199 Ravine drive, Highland Park. Beverly and Mickey met a year ago. Mickey's manager, Les Peterson, married one of Beverly's friends from the Roycemore school.

"It was exciting, and lots of fun," Miss Roach said last night. "We sat and talked and then Mickey played the piano and sang." Rooney departed for Hollywood at noon.

GEORGE WASHINGTON SAID:

"Europe has a set of primary interests which to us have none or a very remote relation. Hence she must be engaged in frequent controversies, the causes of which are essentially foreign to our concerns. Hence, therefore, it must be unwise in us to implicate ourselves by artificial ties in the ordinary vicissitudes of her politics or the ordinary combinations and collisions of her friendships or enmities."—From the Farewell Address.

FINLAND AND ITS DEFENDERS.

Hjalmar Procope, the Finnish minister to the United States, comes to Chicago to make a speech at the dinner of the American Scandinavian Foundation. His visit gives the people of this region an occasion for expressing their great admiration of his country and of honoring the heroism, devotion, and sacrifices of its defenders. Finland is standing in arms at the gateway to western civilization and is repelling the thrusts of great masses which attack from the depths of Asiatic barbarism. What was at first feared as an overwhelming onrush has been checked by the gallantry and military ability of a small country fighting in the rigors of an arctic winter. The civilized world has observed this defense with amazement and with rejoicing. It has viewed the attack with horror and anger.

Of all the small nations which have been the actual or the threatened victims of aggression, Finland was particularly innocent of any wrongdoing. It had no internal problems of minorities which could be made an excuse for intervention. It was not a threat to either of its powerful neighbors. It was at peace with its smaller ones. It was a democratic, civilized country whose people were entitled to respect and highest consideration.

The communists made their attack when the civilization of western Europe was threatened by the war of Germany against France and Great Britain. The soviets had done what they could to precipitate that war by encouraging Hitler to attack Poland. When he did so they started on the march. They had prepared the scene at last for the action they wanted to follow. They thought the long expected day had come when, with the most powerful countries of Europe at war, the Red armies could move in and begin to take possession. A new barbaric invasion of Europe was begun and until it reached Finland it was succeeding.

Finnish gallantry has stopped it, at least for the time being. The Finnish devotion has encouraged other nations threatened by the movements of the communists to take a braver stand themselves at their own frontiers. The other war in Europe makes it difficult to give proper support to the Finns. There is a fear that if it should be given Nazi Germany would be drawn in on the side of Russia, horrible as that alliance must appear to most of the Germans. The probability of adding good German to poor Russian divisions is a deterrent which the friends of Finland, as well as the Finns themselves, must consider, altho there is an issue for civilization presented on the battle front.

SOMETHING YOU'LL NEVER KNOW.

Citizens who were solvent last year and therefore are presumed to be solvent this year are receiving from the internal revenue department the income tax schedule blanks on which they can work in their spare time between now and March 15 when they will swear to their taxable income and prepare to pay.

Along with this comes Mr. Roosevelt's budget message, from a reading of which the taxpaying citizen can get some idea of how the cake is passed in bulk. But it is a very vague idea, unsatisfactory to the individual's accounting sense and much less satisfactory to the imagination.

The citizens, for the most part, just dismiss the thought of where their money is going. It is sent to the regional collector of internal revenue, and so far as the payer is concerned that's its ultimate destination. It goes into the receipts of the local office, it is accounted for, and that's all. Now, it might be of great interest to the payer if it were possible for him to follow his contribution to its hole in the ground.

To the payer his contribution for the national upkeep is a personalized sum bearing his own identity, altho immediately lost in the aggregate. Imaginably, the three or four hundred or three or four thousand dollars, the sum from which Mr. Smith separates himself, dutifully or painfully, has its billet like every bullet. His drop in the bucket drops on a particular purpose or a particular person. Would Mr. Smith like to see the actual transfer of his checks to the person or for the thing that got it? Quite likely he would. The effect on him might be curious.

One Mr. Smith might have the experience of seeing his check go to a corn-hog farmer for reducing his crop and doing to his soil just what common sense would tell him to do. That Mr. Smith, because of preconceived notions of farming, might find a hot irritation rising in his breast. A strange glint might come into his eye and he might decide upon the spot to see whether he or the farmer was the better man. He might come rumbling home with a truckload of that farmer's pigs—a salvage from his taxes—with Mr. Wallace in hue and cry after him.

Another Mr. Smith might trade his contribution to Grand Coulee and observe its work with mixed feelings. If he could console himself by reflecting that at least a piece of that monument to imperial grandeur was his, he might try to chip his name on it. A Mr. Jones might discover that he has paid the salary of one or more of Mr. Thurman Arnold's staff of learned lawyers, or one or more of the National Labor Relations board's regional directors or trial examiners, and that the one or more so paid had been raising the devil with his own business.

Other Smiths and Joneses might find their money in Lawndales and Greenbelts, in steam power plants fostering navigation by selling electric current, in the harnessing of the tides, in cotton warehouses, in hotel barrooms, in place holders' automobiles, in offices for the swarming help, in some silver producer's pocket, in corn cribs, in mortgages, or in water which has gone over the dam—the interest on the federal debt. That is really paying the piper but without calling the tune.

THE ATTEMPT TO COVER UP.

A petition to congress urging that the request of the Dies committee "for an extension of its life and a further appropriation be denied" is being circulated in university faculties, educational circles, and among the classes of citizens rated as intellectual. The petition asserts that the committee investigating un-American activities has itself resorted to undemocratic procedure and that its methods constitute an infringement upon the right of freedom of speech and assembly.

It is reported that twelve college presidents, a number of deans, and many prominent educators have signed, among them Dr. Clarence M. Dykstra of the University of Wisconsin, Dr. Walter Dill Scott of Northwestern, and Dr. Guy Stanton Ford of the University of Minnesota. The principal objections to the Dies committee methods are that it has not inquired into the record and credibility of its witnesses and that it has published hearsay testimony offered without supporting evidence and without opportunity for rebuttal on the part of those attacked.

The intellectuals who have come to the front against the committee did not protest against the methods of the Black inquisition. The rebuke to it came from the courts after individuals had been treated without regard for their constitutional rights, their privileges, and immunities. The intellectuals found nothing in the procedure of the La Follette committee to disturb or alarm them. The methods of the National Labor Relations board, altho frequently denounced by the courts, have not caused the universities, the educators, and the intellectuals to consult the bill of rights or to defend the democratic process.

Why has the Dies committee drawn this fire? Why is it to be suppressed? Not for depriving citizens of their civil liberties, not for subjecting them to illegal search and seizure, not for stealing their documents, purloining their telegrams, or for raiding their homes or places of business. Not for forcing them at great inconvenience to appear before it, not for finding them in contempt and sending them to jail. Not even for treating them uncivilly. The practices of the New Deal committees have not been adopted in the procedure of the Dies committee.

Mr. Browder was not called names when he appeared. His political and civil rights were respected. He got himself into trouble by confessing a passport fraud which in its train uncovered other such frauds—common enough in soviet intrigue and secret police work—and in one case there has already been a confession of guilt. The committee's offense is that, chiefly thru Mr. Browder himself, it followed the communist penetration into many organizations of what was called the popular front and organizations representing the left wing activities of the New Deal. Mr. Browder aptly described these organizations as transmission belts.

Temporarily it 's not the fashion to be a friend of soviet Russia. It is not polite to be a friend of Stalin. The friends now think it is libelous to call them communists. They wish to forget their past connections and wipe certain labels off their ideas. They have not changed their dogmas but they want to get the old smell off them. Therefore, when the Dies committee now follows Mr. Browder into one of these organizations the friends cry out upon the committee that it is doing a great injustice.

The American Student union recently held its annual national convention at the University of Wisconsin. Under the influence of the communist students a resolution mildly condemning the invasion of Finland was overwhelmingly defeated. The American Student union is one of Mr. Browder's transmission belts, knowledge of which came to the general public thru the Dies committee investigation. That fact might give a color to the signature of university presidents asking that the committee be suppressed.

The committee is not depriving citizens of the right of free speech and free assemblage. Mr. Browder is talking all over the country, chiefly to college audiences. Some college authorities have refused to permit him to use a hall on the campus. Others have invited him in. The Dies committee is not hounding him. The committee is presenting the public with information regarding certain political activities and ideas affecting government and social order and is doing so in a campaign year. The attempt to suppress the committee is an attempt to censor a source of information and prevent the spread of knowledge. It is an attempt to cover up.

SKIRTS AND BUSINESS.

[Waterloo (Ia.) Courier.]

A scientist associated with the United States department of agriculture seems to have spent considerable time studying the possible relationship between the ups and downs of feminine fashion and the ups and downs of business.

The scientist finds that in 1922, when industrial production was at a low level, women's skirts were within 10 inches of the floor. In the boom year, 1928, when industry skyrocketed to unprecedented heights—presto, skirts went to a point 20 inches above the floor.

The relationship between skirt and business is so close as to be "statistically significant," the scientist believes.

We expect to hear most any day now that some department of agriculture scientist is studying the relationship between soup stains on men's vests and the farm labor unemployment problem.

Do they conduct these studies on the taxpayer's time?

The only time we ever felt like a Lincoln expert was last summer near Hodgenville, Ky. A worried, overheated and visibly annoyed motorist addressed us, saying:

"Where is this Lincoln birthplace, anyway? It ought to be here, but I can't find it."

"Do you see that Greek temple?" we asked, pointing to a classic façade with granite pillars about 100 yards away. "That's it."

"But I thought it was a log cabin!"

"It was. You'll find it inside."

Robert E. Sherwood, author of "Abe Lincoln in Illinois," admits that he has not treated Stephen A. Douglas fairly in the joint debate episode of the drama [Scene IX.]. In his supplementary notes to the play in book form, he states:

"I am regretfully aware that this scene does much less than justice to Douglas. . . . He was honorable, able, and a fine patriot; and it is rather sad to reflect that he is known today only as the doormat for a greater man. . . . Americans should honor his memory."

A visit to the Douglas monument in Chicago is recommended to Raymond Massey. There he will see the tomb of the "Little Giant," in a small park that was a part of his estate; and he may be interested to know that the east wing of the orphanage immediately to the south was a civil war hospital.

SNOW IN MACHINE AGE.

The snow falls silently hour by hour
With scarcely a smiling face to greet,
And the snowplow comes with a giant's power
And pushes it rudely off the street.

It is shoved aside, it is soiled and stained,
It is crushed and trampled by ruthless wheels,
Shunned by pedestrians and disdained
By heartless, haughty automobiles.

A guest unwelcomed from door to door,
And the little children it should make glad

In the stillness, specters of other times
When streets were thronging with merry hosts,
And the air resounded with sleigh bells' chimes.

Ah, those were the days when cutters sped
Down Main street, keen as the wind and swift,
And every urchin who hitched his sled
Behind went hurtling thru slush and drift.

Days of gayety, glamorous nights—
Silver moonlight on silver snow:
Where are vanished those rare delights
That came with the winters of long ago?

LIFE SAVING SURGERY IN GALL BLADDER DISEASE.

We can scarcely realize that the development of gall bladder surgery has occupied but little more than 50 years. Prior to that time, if sufferers were relieved at all it was purely accidental. True enough, in 1867 John S. Bobbs of Indianapolis removed a quantity of stones. Fortunately, the patient—Mary E. Wiggins—survived. Thirty-seven years later she attended a meeting of physicians—a living exponent of surgical progress.

During the last two decades particularly, our knowledge of this disease has grown apace and drainage or complete extirpation—when the indications are clear—is now a routine procedure in well equipped and well staffed hospitals. The ease with which the diagnosis is made, the assistance furnished by the X-ray, and the readiness with which stones can be visualized—all have contributed to the saving of life. Certain dyes are available, the administration of which will bring into bold relief on the shadow film the gall pouch and its contents.

As we know, the bile tract is intimately connected with the digestive canal. In consequence "bugs" in one place may mean "bugs" in the other. Furthermore, bacteria growing in any hollow space may so derange its function that stony material will be deposited. But these quarries may cause no symptoms. In general, we may say if there is no enlargement that gives difficulty and if pain is not present—one may go thru many decades harboring one or more calculi.

It is when one of these hard, firm objects wanders downward and becomes plugged in the exit duct that agony may become well nigh unbearable. Sometimes jaundice ensues because pressure is sufficient to obstruct the outflow from the liver. Even a concretion that is presumed to be harmless—one that is bobbing about—may take unto itself undue leaps and block off the outlet channel when good behavior is expected. It is these individuals who are obliged to endure periodical attacks of pain and it may then become necessary to consider the extirpation of the structure.

As we know, we can get along without the tonsils and the appendix perfectly well and most people can dispense with the gall bladder without the slightest digestive disturbance—as an aftermath. Perhaps some of the ducts within the liver enlarge so that a surge tank is really created within a portion of it. At any rate, should a "pebble" prove troublesome, or should the area become badly infected, symptoms will include pain, nausea, and vomiting. About 25 per cent of the victims will complain of jaundice. Another fraction will mention chills—either preceding or during the early stages of the excruciating distress.

The question of whether operation should be resorted to at once is of considerable moment and a wise decision depends upon many factors. Certainly, the cautious medical man will not force his patient to an immediate decision without due preparation. There is something to be said against immediate interference if the temperature is high. The hazard is greater and, not infrequently, it is wiser to allow the acute phase to subside before opening the abdomen. During the interval between seizures when all is quiet and the patient is feeling his best is the optimum time. But here comes the dilemma. He may be so comfortable and so hopeful that another paroxysm will not appear that nothing is done.

Whether the pouch is removed entirely or is merely drained must be left to the operator. No small amount of skill is demanded as the work must be done in a narrow space and in close proximity to important blood vessels. We may look upon relief from annoying gallstones as a modern procedure which—in skilled hands—carries but little risk. Much depends upon after-care, good nursing, and intelligent management.

BLOOD DONORS' DIET.

H. M. writes: Are there any special foods that a blood donor should eat to keep his circulation up to par?

REPLY.

Foods rich in iron are suggested. A well balanced diet, high in vitamins, should be taken. Get plenty of rest and avoid excesses.

G. M. writes: How soon after birth can soap be used on an infant's face?

REPLY.

A mild soap may be used shortly after birth. Many physicians, however, advise oil for the first few months.

COURT APPEAL.

De Kalb, Ill., Jan. 8 [Legal Friend of the People].

1. How long does the defendant have for filing an appeal from a judgment in a Justice of the Peace court? [I mean an appeal in the same court.]

2. If the period for an appeal in the Justice court has expired, can the defendant file an appeal to the County or Circuit courts, or Appellate court, and how soon must the appeal be filed in these higher courts?

3. Can a stay of execution of judgment be obtained pending an appeal to a higher court from a Justice court?

4. If the time limit has expired for an appeal in either the Justice or higher courts, what recourse has the defendant who feels that the judgment obtained was unfair?

5. If the justice of the peace failed to notify defendant of the judgment at the time it is entered against him, how is the defendant to be expected to file an appeal from a judgment he did not even know was taken against him?

6. As to facts in [5] would failure of Justice court to notify person against whom judgment is entered excuse defendant for not filing appeal within time limit?

7. [a] Can an execution on this judgment be made on personal property in defendant's name, but which property has previously been mortgaged? [b] Would not the holder of the mortgage have a superior claim to the one with the execution of judgment?

8. Does the defendant have to pay the costs each time an execution is issued on a judgment?

9. If the judgment was obtained for an amount that can be proved to be incorrect, would the fact that the judgment was entered for an admittedly incorrect amount automatically void the judgment?

10. If not, what can the defendant do to get out of paying the judgment for more than he really owes?

11. Is a judgment entered in a Justice of Peace court entered on county records in any way? E. R. N.

1. Twenty days. See Illinois Revised Statutes, chapter 79, section 116.
2. No. This is not appeal "in" the Justice court. It is to the Circuit court.
3. Yes, if time has not expired.
4. He is bound by the judgment if the Justice court had jurisdiction.
5. If you mean that no summons was served and that the defendant had not signed a contract waiving summons, then the justice of the peace would not have jurisdiction. We cannot advise without knowing your facts. Even without these obscurities, we would advise you to employ an attorney.
6. No additional notice as to the judgment is necessary if summons was served at the start.
7. [a] Yes, as to the judgment debtor's equity.
7. [b] Yes.
8. The costs are added. Whether they will be paid depends on the debtor's assets and income.
9. No. The purpose of the proceedings is to settle the amount that is owing. The defendant, if served with summons, should be present to see that the amount is correct.
10. If he has permitted a judgment for an incorrect amount to stand past appeal time, he is bound, assuming that the facts are such that the justice of the peace has jurisdiction, as seems probable.
11. Not automatically, but it can be made a matter of record.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

FROM ACROSS THE SEA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MADRID, Spain.—Every Spaniard hereafter must have an official identity card. This order was issued as the government began the most complete register of the country's citizens ever established.

Every one over 14 years of age must carry his complete personal history and photograph in a sworn official document. He must be able to produce this at any time the police or other authorities ask for it. He is to be registered as carefully as an automobile so that at any moment an official check on his identity and legal and military status is available.

Until now the document usually used by Spaniards to establish their identity was the receipt for the "cédula"—a poll tax paid by all Spaniards annually. The new card, which is really a booklet, will take its place. The booklet will carry full data on identity and place of birth, political and legal record, profession or trade, and whether he has done his required military service and, if so, his rank.

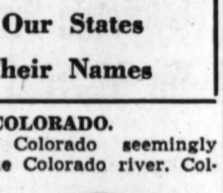
Every Spaniard will have to get a booklet, as it will be demanded if he wants to cash a check, to claim letters at a postoffice, to register in a hotel or on any other occasion when he must prove his identity.

It will be given to him by the tax office of the province in which he lives when he pays his "cédula." In that way it will serve as a receipt for the tax and a check on whether everybody pays the tax—which amounts to only a dollar or two. The card will have full legal force as proof of identity.

The register is said to be the most complete national check of identity yet established in any country and will give a final opportunity to find any fugitives hiding within the country.

How Our States Got Their Names

5. COLORADO.



Colorado state seal. At top is the eye of God [golden rays proceeding from the lines of a triangle], below which is a fasces with a band inscribed: "Union and Constitution." Three mountains adorn upper half of shield. On lower half is a miner's badge, consisting of crossed pick and maul. Below shield, in scroll, is state motto, "Nil Sine Nimune."

The name Colorado seemingly comes from the Colorado river. Colorado, meaning reddish or brown in color, was descriptive of the river water, as well as of the soil in many parts of the state. One other suggestion as to the word's derivation is that it may be from the name of the Spanish missionary, Coronado, who visited the territory in the middle 16th century. This, however, is considered far less likely. Colorado was admitted to statehood Aug. 1, 1876.

Colorado is called the Buffalo Plains, Centennial, Lead and Silver State, and the Switzerland of America. It is known as the Centennial state because it became a state 100 years after the signing of the Declaration of Independence. The state song is "Where the Columbines Grow," the motto: "Nil Sine Numune" [Nothing without Providence], the flower is the columbine, and the bird the lark bunting.

SWEDEN'S DEFENSES.

Chicago, Jan. 8.—For some reason the English wish to drag the Swedes into their war, and on their side, naturally. Rumors of a German invasion of the southern part of Sweden are also heard. This will never happen unless the propaganda makers have their own way. Germany will think several times before attempting such a step, for is not Sweden Germany's best provider of many items, including iron and food?

A person who knows Sweden only from a map cannot realize how nearly impossible the Swedish coast is for landing soldiers. The whole coast is one long chain of thousands of small islands and rocks, stretching for from 1 to 10 miles out in the sea. Landing soldiers and equipment from life boats which must be used is far from possible. The small ships of the Swedish navy were built for such a coast where islands are close together. A 10,000 ton ship can go in at some spots, but can neither turn around nor go thru because of the shallow water as well as rocks and large bowlders strewn far out from land at a depth of from 6 to 15 feet. To sailors it is well known that in a very few spots on the entire Swedish coast can a large ship navigate safely inside the three mile limit.

Mine fields and hidden large guns on the shore make it hard for even first class nations' navies and armies to invade the Swedish mainland except from the north, where the land is like Finland's. Ask Russia what she thinks of it. Mr. Englishmen, neither you nor Germany would try to invade Sweden if you knew what is waiting for an invader. If all smaller nations stick together they need fear no one, Germany, Allies, nor Russia!

I. O. ROSENQUIST,

HOW NICE, INDEED.

Marcellus, Mich., Jan. 8.—This little village nestles among the hills and lakes of southwestern Michigan. We, too, have a family of blue jays who visit us each morning. I keep a portion of my lawn free from snow, and each morning and evening when I feed my chickens I also scatter grain and bread crumbs to a large family of sparrows. For several mornings I have noticed a pair of blue jays, but this morning there were four of these beautiful birds who came for their breakfast. We have about 12 inches of snow on the ground.

How nice it would be if every one would clean off a portion of their lawn and feed the birds during this cold winter. According to Mr. Karl E. Bartel, many birds have been found dead from this neglect.

WALTER P. HESS.

MR. DAY'S DISPATCHES.

Boulder, Colo., Dec. 23.—I want to tell you that Donald Day's dispatch from Kuolajarvi on Dec. 21 was a swell report. I enjoyed every word of it and marveled at his understanding of the region he was reporting on. He had all details straight, even to the parish village. I say this because I spent one summer in Finland with relatives, who are still there. I shall be looking for his forthcoming reports of the war.

WAINO NYLAND.

HE WROTE FINLAND'S SONGS.

Evanston, Ill., Jan. 9.—One explanation of the bravery and amazing fortitude of the Finnish troops is that they have all been schooled since childhood in the war poems of their great poet, Runeberg [1804-1877]. His "Tales of Ensign Stal" describe the heroic deeds of Finland's men and women during Russia's invasion of their country in 1809. They teach the Finnish young men that any one of them is a match for 50 Russians. His poem about Lotta Svärd has become the keynote of the organization of all the country's girls and women in defense of the nation's homes.

Runeberg's lyric, "Vart Land," became the national anthem of Finland and of Sweden. His "Björneborg March" is as stirring as "The Star Spangled Banner" and as electric as "Dixie." He stresses the obligation of youth to offer their lives for their country.

No American poet was ever as widely read in this country as Runeberg has been in Finland and in Sweden — two highly literate nations. Reading these lyrics—written in the Swedish language—the school children of both lands have absorbed history, geography, literature, and patriotism.

This explains why the young men of Sweden are crossing the Baltic to fight for Finland and why her heroic little army is imbued with the spirit of the Greeks at Thermopylæ.

HENRY S. HENSCHEN.

THE HISTORY OF RECOVERY.

Chicago, Jan. 9.—Mr. Reuben Cahn's article about John Maynard Keynes in THE SUNDAY TRIBUNE interested me because I had experience with the depressions of the 1870's and the 1890's. When this one came along, I wanted to know how we got out of the others.

I investigated the activities in various industries, including the issuance of patents, which are themselves indicators of industrial activity. From these I learned that in the previous cases we borrowed vast sums of money from Europe and invested it in "capital goods." For example, from 1880 to 1890 we built over 80,000 miles of new railway, and all of the equipment necessary for so many miles of new track.

From that standpoint, Keynes is right, but, during the intervening years, we paid back in interest substantially all that we had borrowed, and that brought on another business depression. Business records show that one was due in 1915, but was aborted for us by the world war.

Keynes is right on the spending idea, but wrong on the borrowing idea and on the idea that a government should borrow and spend. To get out of a business depression in that way is to lay the foundation for another depression, and each succeeding one of the kind is worse than the preceding one.

The way to meet that situation is to apply to the nation a business principle which every successful business organization applies to itself. That is to make upkeep and betterment take precedence over all divisions of profits.

DEMAND ACTION AGAINST SLUSH FUND OPERATORS

Union League Threatens to Go to Court.

The practice of the Illinoisans, Democratic 2 per cent club which has been collecting campaign contributions from state employés, was denounced yesterday by the board of directors of the Union League club of Chicago as subversive of the democratic form of government.

Vigorous action against the collectors was demanded not only from state's attorneys of counties where the law has been violated, but from the attorney general. A thoro investigation by the state legislature also was asked.

In the event of the failure of the legislature to take action or of failure of officials to act under the law which prohibits the collection of such assessments, the club proposes to employ counsel, make its own investigation and prosecute the cases.

Report Made by Committee.

John L. Clarkson, president of the club, announced the decision of the directors after they had received the report of a committee which had been investigating the 2 per cent club for several weeks.

"The principal purpose of the enactment of the civil service code," the report said, "was to free the public employés from political domination of the political party in power, and to emancipate them from the necessity of paying tribute by contributing a portion of their salaries to political organizations in order to retain their positions or to insure their promotion.

"To secure this freedom and to protect them, severe penalties are provided by law for violations of the civil service code. The code adequately defines the various violations now being complained of. The club contends that those guilty of such violations should be punished.

Danger to Democracy.

"It is the emphatic belief of the Union League club that the continuance and growth of this destructive practice can ultimately produce but one result—that of undermining the form of democratic government which we now enjoy."

After setting forth the reports of violations of the law by the state machine collectors and stating the laws covering this situation the report makes the following recommendations:

1. That appropriate action, based upon evidence, should be taken at once by prosecuting officers and the state civil service commission, and that the attorney general of Illinois should act at once against all guilty parties where evidence exists of violation of the law.

2. That in view of the grave nature of the charges made, public demand should be made upon the state legislature to thoroly investigate all such illegal practices in violation of the civil service code. The investigation should determine the identity of employés so assessed, the size of the amounts collected, and where they are deposited, to whom or for what purpose the money is or has been distributed, the names of such parties as may be violating the law, and if such party is a public employé or official of the state of Illinois or any of its subdivisions, immediate action should be taken to render such office vacant as provided by statute, and other guilty parties should be prosecuted.

Club Threatens to Act.

3. In the event action is not taken promptly by the properly appointed officials or bodies, the Union League club proposes, either independently or in coöperation with other nonpartisan civic bodies, to employ counsel to investigate, prosecute, and in every respect enforce the recommendations contained in this report.

The report is signed by Clarkson as president and by Ferre C. Watkins, secretary.

"The Union League Club of Chicago issues this report," it is stated, "in pursuance of one of its charter objects: 'to secure honesty and efficiency in the administration of national, state, and municipal affairs.'

"It is charged that the practice of assessing the salaries of civil service employés for political purposes has increased greatly during the last few years and that no determined effort has been made to stop it."

Copies to Go to Officials.

It is recommended that copies of the report be sent to the attorney general, the state's attorney of Cook county, to the members of the civil service commission, to each member of the legislature, and to various civil bodies to enlist their coöperation.

The Illinoisans is an unincorporated group which has been collecting money for the 1940 campaign fund for Gov. Horner. A. L. Bowen, state director of public welfare, permitted the collectors to enter prisons at first, but this practice was stopped by the civil service commission on complaint of the Civil Service Protective association. On Dec. 5 H. A. Stone, one of the collectors, was found at a desk in the Louis Joliet hotel, in Joliet, with a list of prison employés before him. Several guards were waiting to pay the assessment.

The civil service commission stated that no violations of the law would be permitted, and Gov. Horner on Dec. 16, ordered the collections stopped, according to John V. Clinnin, only Republican member of the commission.

How to Speak

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt in action yesterday as she told wives of members of congress about the art of public speaking.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 11 (AP).—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt told congress wives at the opening of their winter public speaking class today to "be sure to have a way of ending" their speeches.

That's a bit of advice given her when she first started making public talks in 1921, she said, "by a gentleman who sat in the back of the hall and told me all my mistakes." She previously has revealed that her early critic was the late Louis Howe, presidential secretary.

"When you are a novice at speaking," she said he told her, "write out the beginning and the ending. So many speakers have no terminal facilities."

"Formerly," Mrs. Roosevelt said, "when serious questions affecting the nation arose at the dinner table, the gentlemen did the talking and the ladies retired to their sewing in the other room. Now we stay and take part. And we should, I think."

Robbins forwarded copies of this brochure to the national vice presidents of the convention—one in each of 40 states—and these men took it upon themselves to forward some of the copies to their own congressmen. The vice presidents, it was said, sent the congressmen's answers to Robbins. He would not discuss a report that 90 per cent of these answers upheld the convention's views.

State Leaders Warned.

It is understood that Robbins on Wednesday sent out telegrams and telephone messages warning the vice presidents of the SEC demands and instructing them that the congressional replies should be surrendered only with the writers' consent.

Before this warning arrived the commission's agents had gone to the office of George W. Steinman of Columbus, O., his state's vice president, and obtained photostatic copies of the letter he sent out with the brochures. Steinman said there were no replies from the congressmen in his files.

Similar Incident in Wisconsin.

Richard Boissard of Madison, the Wisconsin vice president, had a similar experience. He said also that no replies were included, but that a copy of his letter was taken.

It was explained that no letters were sent to Illinois representatives and senators because Henry Abels of Springfield, vice president for the state, had been ill.

Gerhard Gesell, attorney for the SEC, who has been presenting the insurance information to the monopoly committee, was asked in Washington last night if he had ordered the seizure, by subpena, of the letters. His reply was that the story was only partly true "and much exaggerated." He refused to talk further.

JUDGE EMMERT BEGINS INDIANA GOVERNOR RACE

Newcastle, Ind., Jan. 11 [Special].—Judge James A. Emmert of Shelby county Circuit court—a Republican twice elected mayor and then twice elected judge in a Democratic county—outlined here tonight his platform on which he seeks the Republican nomination for governor.

Terming mismanagement of the liquor situation one of several scandals since the Democrats under Paul V. McNutt took over Indiana government in 1932, Judge Emmert declared for state ownership and operation of liquor stores. He asserted this plan is successful in 18 other states and that it is endorsed by the Rockefeller Foundation after an extensive world-wide study of liquor control. He said the plan would make for truer temperance, and also would bring in new revenues that would ease the state tax burden.

Judge Emmert assailed the 2 Per Cent club, the war chest of the state Democratic machine. He charged that contractors and others who do business with the state are required to contribute as are state employés who give 2 per cent of their salary to the fund.

FORESEE STELLE IN A SHOWDOWN WITH GOVERNOR

Politics Becomes Tangled in Special Session.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Democratic politics and plans for a special session of the Illinois general assembly, it was disclosed yesterday, have become so entangled that the result may be serious for both.

Gov. Horner is to receive Lieut. Gov. John Stelle by appointment tomorrow afternoon. It is Stelle's intention, close associates say, to demand a categorical answer to the long, troublesome question whether Horner will support him for renomination in the primary on April 9.

It is considered inevitable that the subject of legislation to be sought from the special session will be taken up. Gov. Horner will have several bills he will want passed. One of them is a proposal to regulate and license Illinois oil production.

Believe Stelle's Aid Needed.

It is believed that to obtain favorable action the governor will have to have the aid of Stelle, who presides over the senate and has a substantial following there, and also has many friends in the house.

The oil licensing bill is considered important in Gov. Horner's plans for his own renomination. That revenue—which may run as high as 4 or 5 million dollars a year—the governor maintains is necessary to increase Illinois' maximum old age pension allowance. There will be about 135,000 beneficiaries if such an increase is granted. Thus payment or failure to pay the increase might have an important effect on the primary and the November election.

Last July the governor vetoed a bill to increase the maximum individual pension allowance from the state from $15 to $20 a month. It was reported at that time that he had been advised that the bill in congress to increase the federal allowance on the same scale would not pass. The bill did pass.

Gov. Horner Blamed.

In that situation, Gov. Horner has been blamed for the fact that Illinois has not been able to claim the increased federal allowance and for the failure to increase the combined state-federal pension from $30 to $40 a month, a possible difference of $120 to each of the aged pensioners. It is legally possible to pass state bill now and make it retroactive to the first of this year.

For the bill to take effect immediately after its passage—meaning before the April primary—would require favorable action by two-thirds vote of each house of the assembly. If it passes by a mere majority vote in either house it cannot take effect until July 1.

Republican members under the leadership of Speaker Hugh W. Cross of the house of representatives already have taken the warpath against any new forms of taxation, including the proposed tax on oil. It is their contention that the added cost of increasing old age pensions $5 a month can be met from the state's present revenues if merely reasonable economy is practiced.

Combination Would Be Strong.

The Republican attitude, which it is expected will be followed in the senate as well as in the house, makes Lieut. Gov. Stelle's hold on the situation a doubly strong one. It is said that a combination between Republican senators on one side and, on the other side, Democratic senators who want to see their presiding officer renominated could stop all the influence Gov. Horner could bring to bear.

Stelle has been seeking an appointment with Gov. Horner for two or three weeks. The fact that an engagement was made for tomorrow immediately stirred Democratic gossip to new heights. The most extreme report was that a complete harmony slate had been agreed upon between Gov. Horner and Mayor Kelly of Chicago. There has been no agreement on any office except the governorship.

HORNER ADVISED TO DROP OIL TAX PENSION PLANS

Clabaugh Doubts Any New Levy Will Pass.

Champaign, Ill., Jan. 11 [Special].—Gov. Horner was advised by State Representative Charles W. Clabaugh [R., Champaign] today to drop sponsorship of an oil tax to pay proposed increases in old age pensions. The governor was urged to find the money for the increase in appropriations already voted the administration code departments and other constitutional officers.

Clabaugh asserted that he didn't think the legislature would pass any new tax bill at its forthcoming special session.

"Any sincere effort to give additional help to the aged of the state," he wrote, "must provide such help out of money already anticipated out of taxes already levied. Many will mark any other effort as insincere.

Points to Big Appropriations.

"During the last [1939] regular legislative session," the letter to the governor continued, "the code departments, directly under your supervision, received appropriations for ordinary and contingent expenses which are $7,959,638 greater than those for the same purpose in 1937.

"The various constitutional officers received appropriations $1,901,030 in excess of the 1937 figures—which, incidentally, were the largest in the history of the state.

"If this vast sum—nearly $10,000,000—which represents nothing but an additional waste by these departments, were used to pay old age benefits, the federal government would give us the same amount.

"When this amount was paid to the 133,000 persons now on old age assistance rolls, it would total an increase of $10 or more per month, even after a liberal allowance had been made for the part already expended.

Back to 1937 Levels.

"Therefore, as a member of the general assembly, I am asking you to include in the call for the special session a provision under which it will be possible for the assembly to scale these appropriation bills down to the 1937 level at least.

"With this money saved, we can meet the needs for additional revenue with which to pay the increased old age benefits without any new tax or any increase in any now established.

"Since the majority of the Republican members opposed these larger appropriation bills when they came up for original consideration, and the majority of the votes which passed them came from the Democratic members, we of the Republican party will gladly welcome any support coming from your party to scale them down.

"A word from you will be sufficient to cause enough Democrats to join us in this wide and needful economy move, to insure its realization. I trust you will use the great weight of your high office to this end."

Several other G. O. P. members of the legislature, among them Speaker Hugh Cross of the house of representatives, have indicated they would oppose any new tax on oil upon the argument that such a levy is necessary to raise the state's share of maximum old age pensions from $15 to $20 monthly.

The additional $5 was provided for summer. Gov. Horner vetoed a bill for the state increase on advice from United States Senator James M. Slattery, who had been informed that the federal bill was unlikely to pass. Had it not passed, Illinois would have been left holding the bag for the entire $10 increase.

Opens Up Revenue Bills.

Representative Clabaugh, in an analysis of old age pension action during the 1939 session, said the administration's current efforts seemed to show an attempt to make the pension increase dependent upon passage of the oil tax.

"Another discouraging possibility," he said, "is that this automatically opens up the whole field of revenue to consideration by the legislature, and any kind of dangerous and harmful tax measures may be considered, and might be passed. This is the very danger that business in particular, and citizens of the state in general, have feared since the governor first announced that he would call the special session."

SIX MORE WARD LEADERS BACK BROOKS, LYONS

Republican preprimary activities continued to buzz yesterday.

Six more Chicago ward committeemen declared their organizations for Wayland Brooks for United States senator and Richard J. Lyons for governor. They are Daniel A. Roberts [31st], Frank Peska [[35th], Raymond J. Peacock [39th], and James C. Moreland [41st], all from the northwest section of the city, from Robert C. Rohn [19th], a south sider, and from George O. Edward T. O'Connor of Peoria, a member of the G. O. P. state central committee and former corporation counsel of Peoria, announced his candidacy for attorney general. He was legal adviser to Speaker Robert Scholes of the Illinois house of representatives for two years. He is the fifth man to enter this race.

Speaking at a Kiwanis club luncheon in the Hotel Sherman, State Senator Earl B. Searcy of Springfield, a candidate for governor, joined the chorus of attack upon vote frauds. URGE ELEVATED HIGHWAY TO AID THE SOUTH SIDE

Aldermen Hear New Pleas for Quadrangle.

BY HAL FOUST.

Ald. W. T. Murphy.

A south side elevated highway was advocated as part of Chicago's $110,000,000 superhighway construction program yesterday at a public hearing before a special council subcommittee. A bloc of south side aldermen is said to be behind this promotion.

The route, as described to the subcommittee by Ald. William T. Murphy [17th], would leave the central business district in Franklin street and start bearing diagonally eastward at about Roosevelt road to cross the Rock Island railroad at about Archer avenue. Thence south to 63d street, the structure would lie between this existing railroad embankment and State street. At the southern end it would connect with Vincennes avenue.

Now Use Outer Drive.

"This would serve a section of Chicago that now detours extra miles to use the outer drive on trips to and from the loop," said Ald. Murphy. "It would also serve the populous south end of the county outside of Chicago. And it would connect with important rural highways to the south.

"At the northern end this route would feed into a quadrangle of superhighways around the central business district. This is essential to any sensible plan for a superhighway system to serve all parts of the central business district and all parts of the city."

The plans prepared by city engineers for a Congress street depressed highway do not provide for such a downtown traffic distributor.

Opposes Dead End Plans.

Ald. Arthur G. Lindell [9th] indorsed the State street elevated highway. He talked against dead ending existing streets to build a depressed superhighway. The Congress plan would dead end local cross streets. So would one of the alternates, the Elston and Clybourn proposal, in plans prepared by the county highway department for a northwest superhighway. The other alternate, the Avondale avenue route paralleling an existing railroad embankment, would not close any existing streets. A superhighway to the west side might also be located to abut an existing railroad embankment.

Ald. James J. McDermott [14th] said he was against any superhighway plan that would close existing streets. He said this would blight Chicago real estate for the sake of giving rapid motor transportation between suburbs and the loop.

Fears Damage to Property.

"We must go slow in approving these superhighway plans," said Ald. McDermott, "giving thoro consideration to the interests of the taxpayers who support our city government. Property will be damaged unless the routes parallel railroads. I'm sure that owners along these other routes would protest against their construction unless they have made a deal to sell their property.

"This huge sum of money, in my opinion, might better be spent in opening rather than closing existing streets. We might build a lot of one-way streets for $110,000,000. But if a majority of the council wants a superhighway program, I'll go along if they include the State street elevated."

"Do you think a depressed superhighway will destroy property as much as an elevated?" Ald. George D. Kells [28th], chairman of the subcommittee, asked.

"Yes," said Ald. McDermott.

"We can debate that on the floor of the council next month," Kells replied. "I think a depressed will benefit nearby property."

Reads Letter from A. of C.

Hugh Young, chief engineer of the Chicago Plan commission, read a report signed by Col. A. A. Sprague, chairman of the commission, recommending a quadrangle of superhighways around the central business district. The report also aproved construction of such a city wide system as an essential to the future growth of the metropolis.

Robert Nau read a communication from the executive committee of the Chicago Association of Commerce, published earlier this week, approving superhighway construction, urging that the plans include a route encircling the central business district, urging that adequate connections be made with rural highways, and urging a further engineering study on locations and designs for the routes radiating from the loop.

On next Tuesday, the subcommittee will hear a north side delegation, headed by Ald. Frank Keenan [49th] plead for an extension of the outer drive from Foster avenue to Evanston.

Hear of County Plan.

Later yesterday a committee of the Chicago Association of Commerce, the Chicago Regional Planning association, and the Chicago Motor club heard downtown interests discuss the county highway department's plans for a $40,000,000 northwest route. This afternoon this committee is to hear civic organizations from the northwest side advocate construction of the Avondale elevated highway project rather than the Elston-Clybourn depressed superhighway recommended by the county engineers.

Another 3,000 owners failed to receive a first inspection for their machines. This total of 18,000 delinquents was disclosed in an annual report issued yesterday by Edward J. Gorman, deputy vehicle commissioner.

The report said 1,327,641 vehicle inspections were made at the safety lanes during the year. An ordinance requires Chicago machines to be tested at least once each six months.

There were 515,190 passenger cars and 58,007 trucks licensed in this city last year.

It will remain closed for about two weeks during construction of a sewer connection with the new south side filtration plant. North bound traffic will use a temporary bridge over the construction work. South bound traffic will be detoured via 75th street, Coles avenue, and 79th street.

Siegel was treated for facial cuts at the Holy Cross hospital. Miss Johnson was kept there for observation of suspected chest injuries.

Roscoe Gowan, 3830 South Park avenue, was sentenced to 10 days in jail and ordered to stop driving for six months for operating a car while intoxicated. His car struck the wall of a building at 39th street and Prairie avenue Dec. 18.

The Girl in the Shadows

By Roy Vickers

[Copyright: 1940: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

SYNOPSIS.

On the eve of her marriage, Cynthia Brentiford, fashion artist, is sentenced to 18 months in prison under the name of Clara Brown. A casual date with Rory Clarke has made her, unknowingly, an accomplice—in robbery and murder. Unaware of the disaster, her fiancé, Michael Alloway, is on his way from Malta for the wedding. At Honeybyker, Cynthia's childhood playmate, Bessie Stockley, is a prison wardress. Bessie manages to take Cynthia's place and let Cynthia slip out in the guise of a wardress on a two weeks' leave. Cynthia meets Michael and his mother and sister Marion and goes ahead with plans for an immediate wedding.

INSTALMENT V.

STOLEN HONEYMOON.

Michael's mother walked with difficulty, but her infirmity had failed to check an indomitably cheerful disposition.

"We can't stop now, Mother dear, but we'll be back in half an hour," said Michael. "We can easily do the trick in that time."

"Getting married is not a trick—and if you and Marion will give me an arm you won't lose five minutes."

"That's fine, if you can stand it."

"Cynthia, my dear, Michael thinks I disapprove of all this rushing and bustling. But I don't—I love it."

In an empty church, five minutes' drive from the hotel, they were married by the Rev. George Rennington, who had been at school with Michael.

It was a warm day but the church was cold. Involuntarily Cynthia shivered at the very moment in which Michael put the ring on her finger. Or perhaps the church was not cold at all. For three fleeting seconds had come full memory, and a stab of conscience. No good deceiving herself—she was not being fair to Michael.

The feeling of guilt vanished before the ceremony was over. Rennington came back with them to have lunch in a private room which Mrs. Alloway had engaged for the wedding breakfast. "No speeches," Michael had stipulated, but in the end they all made one except Marion. She had become so taciturn that her brother rallied her, and she made an effort at a more cheerful attitude. Seeking for a subject of casual conversation, she unconsciously pointed to the skeleton at the feast.

"O, George! Do you remember how you and Michael used to rave about a man called Rory Clarke? You used to spend hours talking about him when you came to stay in the holidays."

Cynthia sat very still.

"I remember," answered Michael. "But he turned out a bad hat. What about him?"

"Only that his name was in the papers a few weeks ago. He got mixed up with a murder in a night club or something. They haven't caught him."

"There's a real tragedy there—the fellow must have something wrong with his brain," said the rector. "I saw him once or twice when I was up at Cambridge and he had gone into a bank. I still think of him as one of the nicest men I ever met—and one of the most fascinating. I think it was his fascination—especially with the opposite sex—which brought him down. After the bank turned him out he was beginning to do quite well on the stage until—something else happened."

"Well, he's done for now!" said Michael. "I suppose they'll catch him one day."

"I suppose so. They've already caught and sentenced some wretched girl who, to judge by the newspaper reports, was an unwilling accomplice."

"What a cheerful conversation for a wedding day!" protested Mrs. Alloway. "I'm a mother-in-law and I'm just beginning to like it. I want to exercise my authority before you all rush off. Cynthia, come here, my dear."

Mrs. Alloway was busy with something in her lap. She produced a gold chain and diamond pendant and fastened it about Cynthia's neck.

"It's an heirloom that descends in the mother-in-law line," she explained. "It belonged to my mother-in-law and her mother-in-law before her. It's so out of date that it's just come into fashion again and you'll be able to wear it when you go to a formal reception in Malta."

Malta! But Cynthia was not going to think about that. Not for another twelve days. She kissed her mother-in-law and thanked her prettily, and she wore the pendant until the party broke up and Michael took her away to the Parnassus where he had made reservations. They had a nice little suite—rather high up, but with a sitting room overlooking the river.

While she stood gazing over the river, Michael was already using the telephone. Within a moment he was speaking to a friend who was a journalist.

"Take this down, will you? Miss Cynthia Dorothy Brentiford and Mr. Michael Edward Alloway were married today by the Reverend George Rennington at St. Seiriol's church, West Central, by special license. . . . What? . . . O, all right, Jim, you alter the phrasing for me. Put it in the Times and half a dozen others and see that it gets in the Malta papers, too. . . . Right!

"Now that we've told the world," he said, standing beside her at the window, "we have no further duties to society for the rest of our honeymoon. Our sole job is to think out brilliant schemes for amusing each other."

"Don't let's plan anything, Michael," she said breathlessly. "Let's just glide from minute to minute and see what happens. O, I am so happy!"

Eleven days later, alone in the little suite that had become quite homelike while Michael was reporting at his head office, Cynthia telephoned a Dr. Treadgrove who had attended her for small ailments while she had been a bachelor girl. He was an elderly practitioner of the old school, of the kind that is rarely found in central London.

"Ah, my dear Miss Brentiford—there now! All the way up in the lift I've been telling myself to remember to call you 'Mrs. Alloway.' I saw the announcement in the Times before I got your telephone message. No trouble, I hope?"

"I have a rather nasty little pain that's been troubling me for some weeks. And as I have to go to Malta with my husband the day after tomorrow I thought I'd like you to see me first."

She told him the symptoms. They were the symptoms of a girl friend and she knew she was on fairly safe ground. He made a somewhat perfunctory examination.

"I don't find an acute inflammation," he said doubtfully. "I don't absolutely forbid the voyage, but I do not advise it. And you certainly must not just let the matter slide. If the pain persists you should have an operation either here or in Malta."

"Then I shall have it here and, if you don't object, Dr. Treadgrove, in a nursing home at Brighton where my father once was. O dear, I don't know what my husband will say when I tell him!"

She knew what Michael would say. And when he had said it she hated to play the humbug even more than she had thought she would.

For long he sat still, a figure of silent misery. Her heart was torn for him as well as for herself.

"All right, darling. I'm going to be as brave about it as you are," he jerked. "But we'd better see about that nursing home right away."

"No. We'll do nothing about the nursing home. I'll do it all when I've seen you off on Friday morning. Dr. Treadgrove said it wouldn't hurt me to carry on for a bit, provided I don't go for long walks."

They tried to enjoy their last day together, but the shadow of separation hung over them and the spirit of the honeymoon had gone. The last hours together were so depressing that, paradoxically enough, she found herself longing for the moment next morning when he would leave her.

He refused to allow her to come to the station at so early an hour, so their farewell was taken in the suite.

MEAT MARKET CAN EASE TASK OF THE CARVER

How to Handle Standing Rib Beef Roast.

The man behind the meat counter can do a lot to make the carver's task more simple.

When buying a standing rib roast of beef, have him remove the short ribs and separate the backbone from the ribs. Or if you prefer, have the butcher bone the cut and roll it to make a rolled rib roast.

A standing rib roast is not a great deal more difficult to carve than the rolled roast. The roast is brought to the table resting on the cut surface with the ribs to the carver's left, the fat side to the right.

Keep Fork Guard Up.

The carving fork is inserted between the two top ribs. The guard on the fork must be kept up or the carver may find himself cutting something more than the meat. He begins at the outside, fat edge of the roast, slices straight across the roast over to the rib side. Slices should be about ⅜ of an inch thick, altho the actual thickness will depend somewhat on personal preference and the size of the roast.

Next, the slice is loosened from the ribs by cutting close along the bone with the tip of the knife.

As each slice is cut it is lifted on the blade of the knife to the side of the plate. Use the fork to keep the meat from sliding off the knife blade. If the carving platter is not large, slices may be removed to a second platter, which should be hot.

Carving a Rolled Roast.

Rolled rib roast also comes to the table with the cut side down. The carver slices across the meat from right to left and parallel to the top cut surface. He must be careful not to change the direction of the knife so that the slices will be even.

Since the rolled roast would fall apart if the cords holding it were removed before carving, the carver must remove each cord as he approaches it in making slices. He does this neatly by severing the cord with the tip of the blade, then loosing it with the fork.

Carving Beef

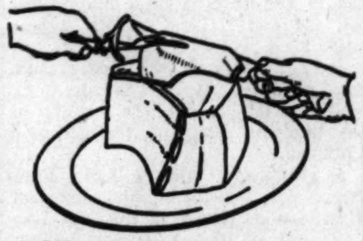
2. Loosen slice by cutting along the rib bone with the knife tip.



3. Lift each slice to the side of the plate. Carry slices on knife blade, holding meat steady with fork.

Sift dry ingredients together and cut in shortening. Add milk to make a soft dough. Turn out on lightly floured board and knead half a minute. Roll dough into rectangular sheet ¼ inch thick. Brush with melted butter, sprinkle with coconut and brown sugar mixed together. Roll up and cut in 1 inch slices. Place slices on greased baking sheet, cut side down. Bake in a hot [425 degrees] oven for about 20 minutes. If desired, additional coconut and brown sugar may be sprinkled over the tops of the pinwheels before baking.

SUNDAY DINNER PLANNED WITH EYE ON BUDGET

Even Cheaper Items May Be Substituted.

BY MARY MEADE.

A moderately priced Sunday dinner menu planned with one eye on the bargain price tags might set the following items before your family this week-end:

Pineapple or Tomato Juice [Canned]
Lamb Shoulder Roast or Beef Chuck Roast
Mashed Potatoes on the Half Shell
Minted or Sautéed Carrots
Orange and Prune Salad
Apple Pie with Cheese
Coffee

With a little juggling, an even cheaper dinner can be concocted. Smoked cottage butt or corned beef might be substituted for the meat; rutabaga or some creamed vegetable might take the place of the fancily dressed carrots, and a cabbage and green pepper salad could substitute for the fruit one.

Some Items to Splurge On.

If you can afford to splurge on one or two items, build that dinner around a bargain priced leg of lamb or sirloin steak and serve it with fresh, sautéed mushrooms, broccoli or Brussels sprouts with hollandaise sauce, pink grapefruit and avocado salad. And wind up the meal with a beautiful strawberry cream or rhubarb pie.

One look around a grocery store this week-end should inspire the creation of a delicious Sunday dinner at any budget level—and at bargain prices.

While fresh produce prices are somewhat higher in general, fresh vegetables and fruits are all still pretty reasonable for the season. With few exceptions, the price rise is slight.

Spinach prices advanced sharply during the week, but cauliflower is lower and down to a reasonable level again. Cucumbers are still a luxury item, but a little less so this week than last.

You'll find good vegetable buys in broccoli, Brussels sprouts, cabbage, carrots, cauliflower, celery, potatoes [both sweet and Irish], rutabagas, onions, lettuce, and turnips.

Citrus Fruits at Their Best.

There is no advance in prices of oranges and grapefruit. Several stores are running tempting specials on grapefruit. Citrus fruit, by the way, is tempting enough these days without being low priced. It's the peak of the season, which means rock bottom prices and top quality.

Tangerines are winding up a successful season and are now burdened with somewhat higher price tags.

Meats too are on the upgrade, tho not enough to show much effect on retail prices. There are bargains galore. Sirloin and Swiss steaks, rib roasts, chuck roasts, corned beef, and boiling beef are a few of the beef cuts featured.

Pork is an excellent choice for the bargain seeker. There are all kinds of loin roasts and smoked cuts featured. And bacon and pork sausage are bargain headliners. You'll find a few good lamb buys in shoulder roasts and chops and in leg of lamb. Several meat men are featuring roasting chickens and turkeys.

Birth of Canning Industry in 1810 Is Romantic Story

The year 1810 marked the beginning of the canning industry. At that time Nicolas Appert, a Parisian confectioner, succeeded in preserving some foods by sealing them in glass bottles, which were kept in boiling water for various lengths of time. It was not until 80 years later that the scientific principles of canning were discovered.

Night Clubbers Enjoy Draper in Tap-Ballet

BY CECIL SMITH.

Paul Draper, the one and only exponent of "tap-ballet" dancing, is back on the roster of the Chez Paree these nights. Serving as an affable, stuttering master of ceremonies for himself, he casually announces—no doubt to the consternation of those who have not seen him before—that he will dance to some music of a Mr. Bach, who lived two hundred years ago, or of a Mr. Paradies, who lived even longer ago than that. The dance over, he interrupts the applause to ask for "a great big hand for Mr. Bach."

There is nothing precious or chi-chi about Mr. Draper's almost fanatical conviction that night club dancing can appropriately make use of classical and preclassical music. His own style is so individualized and so engrossing that, truth to tell, the audience laps up Bach and hot swing with equal avidity. Since he is Paul Draper, in other words, he can use any music he likes and his audience will not dream of saying him nay.

This winter Mr. Draper's execution is more perfect than ever. While he keeps a subtle and fascinating tap rhythm going with his feet, he accomplishes difficult ballet steps and figures with a degree of grace and accuracy seldom equaled on the ballet stage. While the range of expression his unique tap-ballet style permits has its limitations, he has the wisdom, or perhaps the sheer intuition, to stay well within its boundaries.

The pure movement of his dancing is more interesting than its relationship to the music. The differences between his approache. to Bach and to swing are not as clearly marked as they might be. Indeed, I enjoyed most of all a dance done to no musical accompaniment whatever.

The same Chez Paree bill enjoys the co-starring presence of Gertrude Niesen. I went to the show purely and simply to see Mr. Draper, and came away amazed at the resourceful gifts of Miss Niesen, whose singing I had not heard before. I am probably the last to discover it, but here is a girl with wonderful possibilities for the musical comedy stage [she has done only one "Follies" on the American musical stage]. Her singing has tonal variety, excellent breath support, and remarkable vocal line. And I can't see most night club singers for the smoke.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1940: By Ely Culbertson.]

The greatest obstacle to overcome on hands of a certain type is the perversity of human nature. Instinctively, most players rebel against conceding a trick that, on the surface, appears easy to win. The expert, however, realizes that it is merely a sound investment to concede one unimportant trick in order to insure winning all the rest.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 diamond	2 clubs	2 spades	Pass
3 diamonds	Pass	3 spades	Pass
4 clubs	Pass	5 spades	Pass
6 spades	Pass	Pass	Pass

West, on lead, decided that North's four club cue bid had been honest and that, moreover, the opponents were well prepared for a club opening. Therefore, he selected the jack of hearts as the most propitious for his side.

Declarer studied the situation very carefully before he played from the dummy. It was obvious that there was more than one line of attack and quite properly he wanted to choose the one with the best "percentage." In sight were five spade tricks, two in hearts, two in diamonds, and one in clubs. This total of ten could be raised in one of three ways. One of these was to ruff losing clubs in the dummy, but this would involve three entries to the closed hand. The second plan was to ruff only one club, discard the other on the diamond king and attempt to establish the hearts with the loss of only one trick. This would require fewer entries, but would depend on a heart break of 3-2. The third, and chosen line, was the establishment of the dummy as the master hand.

The opening lead was allowed to ride to the king. [When East's queen was played over the jack, declarer concluded that the hearts would not break.]

Declarer then made the crucial play of the hand. He led his singleton diamond and played the eight from dummy! His reasoning was sound: he could not afford to ruff two diamonds to establish the suit against a normal 4-2 break because he would then be reduced to three trumps against a very probable four trumps in one hand. Passing the diamond would allow for that suit's establishment with only one ruff.

Future events proved his wisdom. East won the diamond trick, but was helpless. He did the best he could, removing the club ace, but declarer simply ruffed a low diamond with a high trump and then drew the trumps, discarding dummy's losing hearts. The last five tricks were won by the established diamond suit and the heart ace.

Stern, Young Violinist, Has Happy Debut

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Isaac Stern, an 18 year old Russian-American, made a highly successful Chicago debut in Orchestra hall last night. He played the violin concerto of Jan Sibelius as a feature of the Chicago Symphony orchestra's all-Sibelius program. Frederick Stock conducted.

Mr. Stern is a husky, swarthy, round faced, quietly mannered young man whose playing has the fire and intensity which American folklore always associates with the east of Europe. Sometimes the strings all but smoked under the ardor of his drive, but never [except for a spot or two in the last movement] did the texture of his tone suffer as a result.

That he possesses a great many qualities besides fire and intensity was demonstrated to everybody's satisfaction before the concerto was over. The piece's first division took on breadth and nobility under the Stern bow. A great lyrical gift—the ability to sing a pleasant melody in an ingratiating manner—was apparent in the concerto's second movement.

The audience approved of Mr. Stern, and called him to the stage several times to listen to its clapping.

Mr. Stock opened his Sibelius concert with the overture, "Karelia," and went from that to a broad, sonorous performance of the Second symphony. The orchestra's admirable woodwind section covered itself with glory in the trio of the third movement. Its tone was hauntingly beautiful and its inflection delicate.

No one whose grasp of the obvious has been reasonably well developed could fail to be impressed by the wonderful fitness of the heroic, aspiring tone poem, "Finlandia," which closed the program. Sibelius composed it in 1899, when fear of Russian oppression had given the Finns a solidarity which the comparative tranquility of the preceding years had quite failed to achieve.

On the House

There are varnish stains available at the present time which can work wonders for woodwork or floors. These stains will give new beauty and color to wood and yet not conceal the grain. Two general types are most widely used: The oil stains and the penetrating stains. Before applying a varnish stain to any wood surface around your home, follow one inviolable rule: Test that stain on some extra piece of wood, and the same sort of wood on which you expect to do your work. Stains react differently to different woods and produce varying tones. Hence the importance—if you're not an expert at wood staining—of experimenting and testing. LOUISE BARGELT.

Friends who went to the Edward H. Bennetts' tenth wedding anniversary party Sunday afternoon at their Lake Forest home thought it a gay and amusing affair. Their English gardener approved of it, too.

Our western scouts have just come riding up with a little tale about a Christmas gift in Dickinson, N. D. On the night before Christmas the town of Dickinson presented the local hospital with a gift, carefully done up in tissue and Christmas seals. The gift was intrusted to the hospital technician, who was requested to place it under the hospital tree, not to be opened until Christmas morning. The technician, who couldn't wait for the official gift opening festivities, fluoroscoped the package and found out what it contained.

Deities of Old Will Frolic at Ball Tonight

BY JUDITH CASS.

TONIGHT'S the night when the architects will "Call Out the Gods." The Trianon ballroom at Cottage Grove avenue and 62d street will be transformed into a sort of Olympus where about 2,000 will revel. In mythology only 12 deities dwelt on Olympus, but no doubt when those dozen gave a party they invited all the lesser deities, who ordinarily inhabited localities on earth.

Perhaps when the tree dryads, the mountain nymphs, the naiads, or nymphs of fountains, all assembled there were hundreds, but we doubt if ever before so many gods and goddesses of varying degrees of importance ever assembled in one place as there will be in the Trianon-Olympus tonight.

There is no question as to the financial success of the ball, which is being given to provide architectural scholarships and to create an endowment fund for architectural education, for $7,000 is being held in escrow. This amount is the proceeds from the advertising in the programs. The ball will pay for itself, the architects who have planned it are hoping, for otherwise they personally will have to make up the deficit. None anticipates having to do this, however, for up to last night there were about 1,500 tickets at $5 each sold, and 500 art students had taken tickets at $1 each.

500 Art Students Will Take Part in Pageant.

Every one is to be in costume, but since gods of every sort are invited, the guests have plenty of leeway in the choice of what to wear. Every one is to be masked until after the pageant, which is scheduled to start at midnight.

The 500 art students plus a few professional models are to take part in the pageant, which is directed by Walter Frazier. Armour institute, the Art institute, the School of Design, the Artists' union, and the WPA will be represented.

The pageant will start with the entrance of Zeus and his attendants, who instead of floating in on a cloud as might be supposed, will be pulled into the ballroom in an ancient vehicle. Whether it will be a hansom cab or an old electric automobile Mr. Frazier was not sure last night. Then will come lovely nymphs pursued by not so lovely satyrs. And then the highlight of the evening, the rite of the Vestal Virgins. The seven great columns that dominate the decorations will open about six feet from the floor to display seven vestal virgins. Profesional models will impersonate these mythical beings, who will do a sort of strip tease act. Not a very complicated one, to be sure, for they will have nothing but flesh colored veilings to discard.

Venus Will Enter on Her Half Shell.

When the eyes of the multitude can be drawn floorward again, in will come a 60 foot dragon manned by Art institute students. Then Venus will enter, on her well known half shell, to be enthroned beside Zeus. Artist William P. Welsh had the chore of choosing the virgins—two extra ones will stand in the hands of the oracle. Mr. Welsh also heads the judges who will select the most beautiful, original, and unique costume. Constance Bennett, Raymond Massey, and Charles Butterworth have been invited to assist Mr. Welsh.

Young Andrew Rebori and Alfred P. Shaw are to be the oracle. They and Mr. Rebori Sr., Nathaniel Owings, William Deknatel, George T. Senseney, Gilbert P. Hall, John Fugard, Earl Reed, Theodore Lamb, and Paul Schweiker are among the architects

Bright Shoes Are Big Hit of Resort Styles

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Of all the new fashions designed for southern resort wardrobes the colored footgear rates first consideration. Sandals, play clogs, afternoon slippers, and dancing slippers all dazzle the eyes with daring color combines and unusual styles and shapes.

The most fascinating daytime pumps are those of alligator calf, a flexible calfskin with the pattern of alligator hide. The colors are outstanding. The pale blue affairs are lovely . . . the vivid red models just what any dark, thin wool outfit or gay printed silk dress needs for the right color accent.

Other colors, yellow, pale green, pink, and gray, can be matched with neat all-purpose bags of the same calf in alligator pattern.

The shoes are the newest open toe daytime pumps with high heels, a bow across the instep, and with the front opening reduced to a minimum show window for the toes.

Play clogs are delightful affairs in bright and pastels, with the sugar white numbers very trickily accented with sometimes as many as three and four bands of clashing color. Linen, lastex cotton, striped silk, pongee, and novelty weaves are plentiful. It's the unusual shape of the clogs, the different heel outlines and the smart, sleek streamlines of the thick soles that make these new and high fashion.

There are many lovely colored suedes in both the trim, neat daytime pumps and the novelty wedge sole models. One of the most effective is the pale almond green shade. Green is 'way out in front as the most flattering and high fashion shade for spring and summer. This soft, tender almond green tint comes in footwear, gloves, bags, hats, and dresses. Other good colors in this suede footwear are tangerine, peach, jade, turquoise, chalk yellow, delft blue, dove gray, and dark sapphire blue.

Fashion photograph . . . magnolia shades of pink, green, and soft yellow are featured in the resort ensemble of pleated, tailored daytime dress and coat. The swagger coat swings in a loose flare, front and back. The wool is soft and fleecy with crisscross huge plaids in the three colors to contrast the pink silk crêpe of the dress. The coat and dress can be worn separately. The coat is ideal for dark dresses and the dress is ready for contrast under dark toned extra topcoats.

Italian Art Works Put in Chests for Trip to New York

Workmen removed the Italian exhibition sign from the face of the Art institute yesterday. And down from the walls of the galleries, where they have hung since Nov. 17, came the priceless canvases.

Two Italian experts, Guido Giovanini and Guido Coilli, set about the delicate task of removing the paintings from their frames and packing them and the sculpture in zinc lined, hermetically sealed chests. It will take four days to complete the job. The exhibit will go to the Museum of Modern Art in New York.

The Art institute reported that the exhibit had drawn a total attendance of 253,631. On the closing night, Wednesday, 4,235 crowded the galleries. The Italian government placed the value of the exhibit at $150,000,000.

Jewish Women Open Fund Drive to Help European Refugees

One thousand women, representing 280 organizations, crowded the Grand ballroom of the Stevens hotel yesterday for a luncheon rally to launch the women's campaign in the Jewish Welfare fund drive. Lord Marley was the guest speaker. The Chicago committee, under the chairmanship of Harris Perlstein, has set a goal of $2,250,000 to help finance refugee relief. Of this amount the women's division will endeavor to raise $400,000. Mrs. Michael H. Weinberg is chairman, and Mrs. Irving F. Florsheim, Mrs. A. Richard Frank, and Mrs. Gerson B. Levi are vice chairmen.

Lord Marley, who is deputy speaker and Labor whip in the British house of lords, is considered one of Britain's outstanding authorities on the refugee problem.

Four hundred thousand refugees, he estimated, have fled Germany and Austria. But there still are 3 million potential refugees left in their native lands. Of the emigrants, 240,000, those having trades or professions, have been permanently settled in various parts of the world.

One of the pressing phases of the refugee problem is the reëmigration of the thousands who have flooded Belgium, Holland, Switzerland, and France, Lord Marley said.

Thru the LOOKING GLASS

There's nothing beautiful about the business of tumbling into bed with hands creamed and mittened but there is plenty of sense to the idea.

A hand cream used for massage and for replenishing the oils that have vanished during the day's battle with the cold, the dirt and the frequent hand washing so necessary in a big city should be extremely rich. But the rich, gooey cream that stains the linen is more than some women will tolerate. Hence the glove idea.

Don't take us literally on the word "glove." Personally, gloves over creamed hands give us the fidgets so badly we don't sleep — and vanity will never take us to those lengths. We much prefer mitts, which leave the fingers free but do protect the linen.

A most popular hand cream, made with almond and olive oils [and you know how good they are for the rough, dried out hand skin!] now has a companion piece. Mitts of some soft kind of skin, loose but not too large, that are so downy soft and light in weight you're barely conscious of their presence on your hands.

The skin has an advantage over fabric in that it doesn't absorb the cream and it's every bit as soft as fabric. You'll find, at the night's end, that the cream has been soaked up by the skin of your hands — and you'll find, too, that this overnight soaking in oil has done wonders for the looks of those hands of yours.

Hands, of course, should be well cleansed before you put the cream on. Wash them in warm water, using a mild soap. Then massage the cream in generously, stroking each finger and the palms as well as the back. Then slip into your loose mitts, and fall into the sleep of the woman whose conscience [at least about taking care of her looks] is entirely clear!

Artists to Pick Jury of Annual Institute Show

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

Exciting news from the Art institute is the announcement of a new method of selection of the juries for next spring's Chicago Artists and Vicinity exhibition. The exhibition will open March 14 and it will be the 44th annual.

The matter of jury appointment has been a deep grievance among Chicago artists for years, so much so that the jury rather than the show has been the important thing for the last decade.

The Art institute has been more and more concerned about the attitude of artist and public toward the exhibits the juries have chosen and last spring wrote to many individual artists and to art organizations asking for ideas about choosing a jury.

The manner in which this year's jury is to be selected is a masterpiece of diplomacy. It throws the jury fairly and squarely into the hands of the artists themselves. The Art institute has decided that all exhibiting artists will vote for the jury of painting and the jury of sculpture when the entry cards are returned. On the ballots will be printed the names of twelve candidates for the painting jury and of eight for the sculpture jury.

The twelve artists who have agreed to serve as candidates for the jury for paintings are Louis Betts, George Biddle, Alexander Brook, John E. Costigan, William Gropper, Morris Kantos, Luigi Lucioni, Peppino Mangravite, Chauncey F. Ryder, Paul S. Sample, Leopold Seyffert, and Albert Sterner. The three artists receiving the greatest number of votes on the painters' lists will constitute the jury of painting.

Eight well known sculptors are candidates for the sculpture jury. From the list of Harold Cash, John B. Flannagan, Leo Friedlander, C. Paul Jennewein, Robert Laurent, Arthur Lee, Paul Manship, and Heinz Warneke, two will be chosen by the artists themselves to constitute the jury.

The ballot of each exhibiting artist must accompany the entry card. No separate ballots will be honored. Each artist submitting paintings is eligible to vote for the painting jury ONLY. Each artist submitting sculpture is eligible to vote for the sculpture jury ONLY. A ballot marked for both juries must be considered void unless works in both media are submitted.

This announcement by the Art institute should pave the way for an enormous entry by Chicago artists. Those who feel strongly on the subject of modern and nonmodern art have at last a clear cut way in which to voice their preference. EVERY artist may submit work and vote for the jury. It should mean the largest turnout of pictures and sculpture ever drawn by the institute in the Chicago and Vicinity show.

Looking at Hollywood
By Ed Sullivan

Second Guesses.

Hollywood, Cal., Jan. 11.—Wisconsin's Fred MacMurray is outdistancing all of the others in the Hollywood Hero Sweepstakes. While the rest of the hee-roes are battling about parts, MacMurray is knocking off one hit after another, and this column's prediction that he was one of the best bets of the colony has been borne out in ample measure.

"Invitation to Happiness," "Sing, You Sinners," "Café Society," "Honeymoon in Bali," and "Remember the Night" have been five MacMurray bull's-eyes in a row, and when you roll off five box office hits you pile up a backlog of movie fan appreciation that is a valuable asset.

MacMurray arrived in Hollywood in 1934. . . . He was at Paramount, as a prospect, at the same time Beauty Contest Winner Ann Sheridan was there . . . in fact, he appeared with her in "Car 99," which was so frightful that the Paramount bosses ordered the decapitation of all players who appeared in it.

MacMurray would have gotten the ax that fell on Miss Sheridan's shapely neck but for the fact that in the meantime he'd made "Gilded Lily" with Claudette Colbert. . . . That saved him, luckily, and right now he's the top man of the Paramount brigade of heroes.

Director Frank Capra, for "Mr. Smith Goes to Washington"; Director Sam Wood, with "Goodbye, Mr. Chips," and Director Victor Fleming for "Gone with the Wind" are up for the academy award for the finest direction of 1939. . . . I think that Fleming will get it, not only because of his skilled work, but also because of the overpowering importance of the picture itself.

These directors lead the field . . .

Sam Wood. Victor Fleming. Frank Capra.

Whether or not a picture costing $4,000,000 should be permitted to compete against lower budgeted flickers is a moot question. . . . The industry, however, will be glad to acclaim Fleming; he's been around a long time, has accomplished many superb things on celluloid. . . . Oddly enough, he took over the direction of "Gone with the Wind" when Director George Cukor resigned from the picture because Cukor's ideas didn't mesh with those of Dave Selznick.

Fleming will go down in movie history as the best pinch hitter of the industry; he also stepped in and finished "Wizard of Oz" . . . He's the M-G-M trouble shooter.

Sam Wood, the Philadelphian who went to England to direct "Goodbye, Mr. Chips," is one of the nicest persons in this town. . . . I doubt that any director ever has managed to get the "feel" of a school or its traditions so well.

His greatest picture, greater to this reporter than "Goodbye, Mr. Chips," was another school story: "Navy Blue and Gold," the most stirring story ever told of Annapolis.

No movie stars play more benefits than Edgar Bergen and Bob Hope. . . . Every time you read of a benefit you are sure to read that Bergen or Hope, or both, were on hand. . . . Performers themselves are dubious about the advisability of playing too many benefits, on the grounds that it cheapens a star to be seen over and over again.

In addition, unless he takes precautions, a performer too often is presented to disadvantage at benefits. . . . The lights are bad, the sound is bad, the audience is seated badly, the waiters are serving dinner, or diners are squawking because the food is bad or late.

Dick Powell is a case in point. . . . Powell, a nice kid, used to play every benefit in town, but his bosses saw him so many times at benefits that they started figuring he was something that was served on an à la carte dinner. . . . It took his sensational personal appearance tour to overcome the result of benefit appearances.

No city in the world so abuses the benefit show situation as New York. . . . I'm convinced that the reason vaudeville was killed [or at least hit a body blow] in New York, was directly due to the plague of benefits.

Stage producers who were paying big money for performers were forced to compete almost nightly with benefit shows that offered from 50 to 150 stars.

Out here it is not so bad, but it is bad enough. . . . Bergen and Hope, if they'll take the advice of other actors, will send a check to the charity involved instead of making an appearance. . . . In the long run it would pay.

Child of Five Turns Corner, So Don't Worry

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

The letters from parents who are having trouble with their 5 year old contain about the same complaints:

"My little girl used to be so sweet and obedient and now she is so different."

"My little boy is getting to be so fresh."

"My little girl is so rough."

"My little boy uses bad words, yet he never hears such language at home."

All this goes to show that there is a universal change that takes place around the age of 5. If you understand this change and act accordingly you won't have any real trouble with your small boy or girl who is emerging from babyhood.

What is this change?

Your 5 year old has mastered the two difficult arts of walking and talking. Rapidly he gains a varied muscular skill. He can run and climb and leap and turn somersaults, not with grunts and concentration like a 2 or 3 year old, but with perfect ease. This means that he is filled with a sense of power and of independence which it is quite natural for him to express. The docility of babyhood gives way to a vigorous physical freedom.

Another change is usually seen in his language. He is quick to pick up new words and expressions. And if some of them are slang and some are "swear words" or "bad words," he adds them to his vocabulary just the same.

To simplify things, then, we might say that these are the two changes that cause most trouble in the life of 5 year olds and their parents.

How to manage them?

Just take these natural developments into account. Stop treating your 5 year old like a baby, even tho he still is your baby. Give him more freedom and independence so that he can use these new found powers of his. Let up on the constant giving of directions, on both the don'ts and the do's. Let him do just as many things as he can for himself and around the house, even if he doesn't do them well—dressing himself, taking his bath, except for the special nooks and corners, and "helping" you.

Give him the playthings needed for vigorous activity outdoors, and things not babyish, but suited to his age, for indoors. We have lists that will help you with this.

As to his strong language—that is only experiment, so don't take it too hard. Here is a word novel and vigorous, he notices—and there a word descriptive, as slang usually is. Older boys use them, and they catch his ear. They're an adventure in speech just as climbing a tree is a physical adventure.

Don't be shocked, don't give it all too much importance, don't scold, and don't give the use of these words a moral or immoral tinge. If you want more help we have a leaflet called "When Your Child Brings Home Bad Words."

So be flexible in your management and fit your demands and your handling to your child's changing needs.

Our "Books for Children up to Seven" is obtainable on receipt of a self-addressed, stamped envelope. Address Mrs. Gladys Huntington Bevans, Chicago Tribune, Chicago.

The dinner guests whom he had invited weeks ago are going to the ball, knowing that that would be his desire, althou they are not exactly in a mood for merrymaking.

There will be tables for every one at the ball where refreshments and supper can be enjoyed. There are to be two suppers, one for gods at $1.25 a person and one for mortals at 75 cents. Whether it is quantity or quality that differentiates the suppers we do not know.

A vase that looks just as lovely empty as full of flowers is one of clear glass with daffodils done in colors on its sides. It is a beautiful thing, an ornament in itself. As it has a wide, flaring top it makes an excellent flower container, too.

Or choose a round bowl with gay tulips, or a taller vase with scarlet poppies as decoration. These imports are available in several sizes, the tallest being about 12 inches.

Marriage Wrecked by One Neglect

SHE WAS LOVELY, and loving. Yet one neglect wrecked her marriage . . . she was careless (or ignorant) about feminine hygiene. If there's any doubt in your mind about your routine of intimate cleanliness, use "Lysol" for feminine hygiene. Recommended by so many doctors and nurses for more than 50 years. Economical, too . . . small bottle makes almost 4 gallons of antiseptic solution for feminine hygiene. Get a bottle at any drug counter.

'Forget Man' Doris Advises Troubled Wife

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"Dear Miss Blake: My mind is in such a muddle that I can't think clearly. I need your advice. This is my problem:

"A few months ago I found a job, because my husband is not making enough money to keep me and our two children. From the very first day I went to work a man in the office showed that he liked me very much. I tried not to pay much attention to him, especially when I learned he is engaged to a girl who works with us. But my paying no attention to him only made him more interested in me.

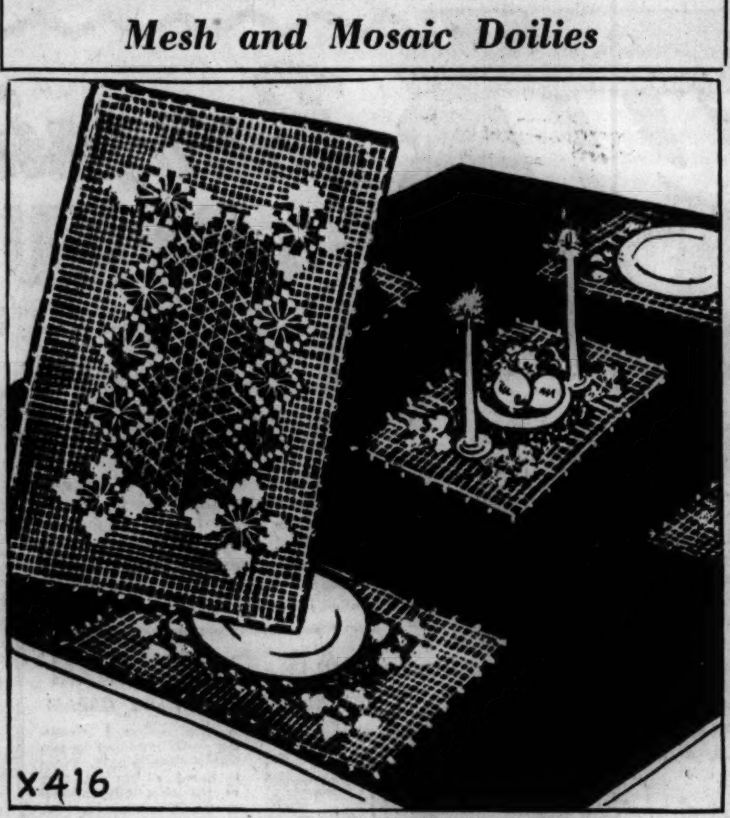
"I feel I'm right in thinking that he is in love with me, altho he has not told me so. To make matters worse, I've discovered I'm in love with him! Please tell me what to do. I don't want to come between another couple, and I don't want to break up my home. But if I keep on seeing him I'm afraid of what I might do. I know his girl friend realizes how things are. I hope you won't tell me to give up my job, because we need the money I earn.

"M. K."

You need some one who can get "tough" with you, so we'll do it. If you cannot find another job, and cannot afford to give up the one you have, there is just one thing for you to do. By your actions make it clearly understood to the man that you will not tolerate any unusual attentions from him. We think you are just temporarily infatuated.

Even if you should really be in love with the man in the office [something we strongly doubt!] you have a husband and two children. Make up your mind that you are going to forget about this other man. Give him to understand that you have a good husband and two lovely children. You can dismiss him from your thoughts if you make up your mind to do so.

Mesh and Mosaic Doilies



BY ELLEN BRUCE.

Do not envy the hostess who has seven or eight crocheted luncheon sets, but do something about it! It is no trick to crochet this simple pattern and within a brief time a complete set of six or eight doilies will be available for that next luncheon. A simple mesh pattern combined with double crochet creats a mosaic design which is delicate and lovely.

For instructions in crocheting the mesh and mosaic doily, No. X-416, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

If You Shiver in Cold, Shun the Fireside!

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

If you're one of the shivery, teeth chattering, red nosed, blue veined persons in winter time, what you need is more air and colder draughts of it. Here's something that ought to frighten the fireside huggers out of their chairs.

A lecturer said the other day that folks—he was talking to women as the "folks"—well, he said that folks who hated to go outdoors in winter and sidetracked every outdoor opportunity are either sick or elderly; that the brisk, cold winter air is the call of youth and those who will not respond have no youth left. Or words to that effect.

He called attention to the fact that there are women—thousands of them—who dread a cold blast as the cat hates water. They bundle up and rush from door or house to car or taxi. They rush to cover with head and face buried in collar or muff at the other end of their journey. A whole winter thru they do not get enough air into their lungs to give them good cleaning.

If, perchance, such a woman has to stand on a street corner for five minutes of a cold day, she's a picture of misery with her chattering teeth and red nose. Rather than walk a few blocks home, the woman will crowd into an overfilled, stuffy street car.

Now, what that woman needs, our authority contends, is more cold air and more cold air. Her house or apartment temperature should first be lowered appreciably from the stifling heat in which she's found. She's recommended to slip on a sweater and stand before an open window and drink in not less than thirty cold, deep draughts, this preparatory to stepping out for a fast walk. The colder the better, he says, and the faster she must walk. Let her run a block every now and then, our authority urges.

Let her stand on a corner, deliberately stand and take 20 long draughts of air, and see if she isn't training herself to take the air better. The only way you can fight the shivers and the frostbitten nose, it seems, is to invite the cold air to come right in and take possession of the lungs.

Looking at Hollywood

By Ed Sullivan

close to $800,000 and now has been remade partially, appears to be a passable entertainment. . . . Preview cards at two theaters in which it was exhibited indicate that the customers like it.

This is not the first picture that was a flop and then was reconstructed into a hit. . . . "The Big House" and "Sin of Madelon Claudet" both were flops in their original construction and were remade into big hits. . . . Salvage is very valuable when you get into six figures.

Handiest of topics on a dull day is for a Hollywood correspondent to point righteously and with smug indignation at the high rate of Hollywood divorces. . . . You can moralize for half a column on the busted marriages and speculate morbidly on the causes.

So maybe it is pertinent to point out that on Sunday the Jack Bennys will celebrate their 13th wedding anniversary, indicating that it's not so much Hollywood that cracks marriage ties, but the people who come to Hollywood.

New York, Jan. 11 (AP).—The New York Rangers equaled the National Hockey league record of 18 straight games without defeat by beating the Chicago Blackhawks, 5 to 3, tonight before 10,500.

The victory, the Rangers' ninth in a row, enabled them to tie the mark set by Montreal Canadiens in the season of 1927-'28, when the late Howie Morenz led the Flying Frenchmen. The Rangers will get a chance to crack the mark in Toronto against the Maple Leafs Saturday night. They will play the Hawks again in Chicago Sunday night.

Rangers Lose Lead.

Unbeaten since mid-November, the Rangers have run up 13 victories and five ties. But for a while tonight it appeared as if they might falter because of an attack of nerves. Twice they got a one goal lead and twice threw it away within a few minutes.

Their split second timing came back with a rush in the third period, coinciding with a letdown in Paul Goodman's goal tending for the Hawks. Lyn Patrick, Babe Pratt and Neil Colville all scored within 15 minutes of the third period, and only Pratt's could not have been stopped. He broke from a ganging attack and skated atop Goodman before feinting him out and shooting into an empty net.

Hawks Lack Punch.

The Rangers played slipshod hockey for two periods and stayed even that long because the Hawks weren't carrying much offensive punch. Bryan Hextall fired the New Yorkers' first two goals, one in each period, only to have Joe Cooper wipe out one and Cully Dahlstrom the other. Less than a half second remained when Phil Hergesheimer put the third past Dave Kerr, who celebrated his 30th birthday with the victory.

The decision gave the Rangers 69 goals for and 28 against them during their 18 game streak, compared with 55 and 16 for the Canadiens when they set the record. Their nine straight victories left them only five behind the winning streak record set by Boston in 1929-'30.

The Things That Endure.

The simple things are the lasting things,
Don't ever lose sight of that;
Strife, dissension, turmoil
Can't make a round world flat;
When the smoke of battle has cleared away,
When the roar of the gun is still,
Spring will still come to the valleys,
The crocus will bloom on the hill.

Don't be disturbed with all of this talk
Of a world that is headed for ruin,
We've heard it before, we'll hear it again,
But it can't change the course of the moon;
The permanent things, the eternal things,
Outlive ambition's thrall:
When the tyrant's heart is but moldering dust
The sumac will flame in the fall.

Yes, the simple things are the things that endure,
Just hold that trust and take heed,
Be not dismayed, be unafraid,
Hold fast to faith's simple creed;
When those who are mad with lust for power
Lie forgot in a cold gray tomb,
Deep in the cool of the forest's heart
The wild flowers again will bloom!

COLDER WEATHER IS NOW HOPE OF SILVER SKATERS

Races Open Tomorrow in Garfield Park.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

With a bit more coöperation from the weather man, the Silver Skates races tomorrow and Sunday in Garfield park will surpass all records for competition in the last decade. There is no question but that the Derbies can be held. However, the temperature should drop a few degrees below freezing to make the course fast and firm.

Without doubt all preliminaries and championships will be held, for the races have been skated when the temperature was in the high forties. This can be done when the ice is as thick as it is now after more than two weeks of cold weather. But, for exceptionally fast races, and for the contestants who dislike soft ice, the cold weather must materialize.

Four Age Classes to Race.

Four age classes will report for their preliminary races tomorrow. These are the boys' midget, juvenile, and junior classes and the girls' junior. Skaters in these Derbies are all under 16 years of age. It is not necessary for them to register with the Illinois Skating association. Only skaters 16 years of age and over are required to register with the association, which sanctions all meets in this territory.

These boys and girls will report between 11 a. m. and 1 p. m. tomorrow in the Garfield park boathouse for their racing numbers. The first preliminary will start at 2 o'clock.

Farragut High school has entered a team for the first time in the history of Silver Skates. Farragut was originally a junior high school. The school team is coached by Dutch Von Bremer who formerly taught at Tilden Tech where his skaters won city, county, and state championships.

Jimmy Pender Is Youngest.

Donald Schillne will compete in the intermediate derby and Irvin Wincek is entered in the senior division. Youngest of the skaters, who will compete in all five of the boys' derbies, is Jimmy Pender, 9 years of age.

Another of the larger team entries came from the Tilden Skating club, made up mostly of south side athletes. More than 100 blue and gold color bearers will face the starter tomorrow and Sunday in Garfield park. An exception on the list of south side residents is Martha Damron, 1255 Rosedale avenue, a stenographer, who is Tilden's senior girl entrant.

Coach Louis Christoffel is also proud of his midget entry, Billy Abraham, a 10 year old, who promises to be the smallest boy and one of the speediest in the tournament. Billy was second to Dave Roll Wednesday night in the C. Y. O. derby and has placed in each of the five meets held this season.

Baacke Has Won Before.

Tom Baacke is Tilden's senior boys' candidate and has already known the thrill of winning a pair of Silver Skates. Tom won them in 1937 as an intermediate. He still holds the 440 yard high school speed skating record. He has graduated from Tilden Tech and is now an automobile mechanic.

In the Tilden entries are scores of boys who rate high in speed. A few are: Ed Koeller, who scored over 100 points last season; Joe Phillips, tri-state and Illinois intermediate champion, who was second in last winter's Silver Skates derbies; Eddie Planert, a leading juvenile in 1939; Ronnie Berg, high school skating star; Joy Christoffel, and John Prince.

"If the weather man furnishes the Silver Skates contestants with fast ice, the fans will see records broken and the fastest group of skaters in the history of the Derbies," Pete Miller, president of the Illinois Skating association, said last night. "The times made in the C. Y. O. meet indicate the skaters are ready."

Football Is Called Vital to School Life at Ohio State

BY HOWARD BARRY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Columbus, O., Jan. 11.—Dr. William McPherson, acting president of Ohio State university, and Dr. J. L. Morrill, vice president and chairman of the athletic board of that institution, both believe that if football were slashed from their school's program of activity something would be irretrievably lost which they could not well afford to do without.

Justifying the Game.

Something vital would be taken not only from the students but also from a certain unit which is basically American—that vast army of men, women, boys, and girls who identify the struggles, the fortunes and the misfortunes of any given team with their own battles, their own successes and their own failures.

"It may be true," Dr. Morrill said, "that college football, with its big stadiums, its crowds and its general furore cannot be justified as physical education. We can give that to the students in their gymnasium classes and their intramural sports. Neither can it be justified along the lines of the English idea of play. We're willing to admit that.

Sacrifices Required.

"But here's how we do justify it. College football is based on a principle which is basically American—the principle of representation. Thus it is enriched by all the loyalty and responsibility and unity of action that goes with the fulfillment of that principle.

"Here's an illustration: Suppose two men have an appointment to go out and play golf. One may stay up the night before getting crocked, and it's nobody's business but his own. Suppose, on the other hand, he's a member of a team with the hopes and the enthusiasms of a student body depending on him. It's different then. He can't do that. He's bound by certain loyalties, certain responsibilities. So he makes a personal sacrifice rather than let his backers down. In the making of those personal sacrifices, in the fulfilling of those responsibilities, he's not only strengthening his own character but he's also contributing something worth while to all the people who feel that unity with the team.

Dr. Morrill, young and alert, speaks

LANDS FIVE YEAR CONTRACT WITH COAST SCHOOL

Expected to Report on April 1.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Clark Shaughnessy, the lean, quiet man who last autumn watched electric scoreboards tabulate 308 opponents' points against the total of 37 scored by his University of Chicago eleven, last night read a telegram delivered shortly after 6 o'clock to his home at 1321 East 56th street. He smiled, and with reason, for the telegram said:

"Delighted you have accepted appointment. Al. Masters."

Masters is graduate manager of athletics at Stanford university, and his message was the first official confirmation Shaughnessy had received of his appointment as football coach at Stanford for five years. Yesterday afternoon, the appointment was announced in Palo Alto, Cal., by President Ray Lyman Wilbur. Shaughnessy succeeds Claude [Tiny] Thornhill, recently dismissed. No mention of salary was made in Dr. Wilbur's brief announcement.

He Wires Acceptance.

At noon yesterday, Shaughnessy himself, acting with the knowledge that Stanford's board of athletic control was scheduled to meet today to make a definite decision on the post of football coach, wired the school authorities that he would accept the appointment. Dr. Wilbur's public announcement followed a few hours later.

Masters' delight at Shaughnessy's acceptance of the position could hardly have matched the feelings of the man who has coached Chicago elevens these last seven seasons. Not even a heavy cold could diminish his obvious pleasure as he joined his wife, son and daughter at a dinner of steak and boiled onions. The man whose immediate future was destined by Chicago's recent abandonment of intercollegiate football to be that of a football coach without a team was transformed into a new person, eager to tackle his job at Stanford.

Friends Are Glad.

The Shaughnessy phone last night might well have been on a hotel switchboard, for it kept Clark running relays from the living room to the hall to answer congratulatory calls from friends. There were even a couple of calls from alert gents seeking jobs as assistants on the staff at Stanford. The new coach naturally refused to make any commitments to these latter, because he does not know the situation at Stanford and will not until he consults with the authorities there.

Shaughnessy pointed out that he has not officially submitted his resignation to Chicago and still has to sign a formal contract with Stanford. Both of these actions, he said, will be taken in due time. The Stanford appointment takes effect April 1, when the Indian eleven opens spring football practice. Shaughnessy expects to remain on the Midway until the middle of March, when he will head for the Pacific coast.

He Likes to Coach.

"I'm highly flattered at the opportunity to coach at such an institution as Stanford," Shaughnessy said last night, "and I'm particularly glad to be able to continue coaching intercollegiate football. I've been at it 25 years now, and really, I don't think I'd be anxious to start in another field."

The new Stanford coach explained how the appointment came about.

"The whole thing was quite informal thruout. I attended the Los Angeles meeting of the American Football Coaches' association. While there a member of the Stanford board of athletic control spoke to me about the possibility of coming to Stanford. There were no commitments on either side at that time.

"After the coaches' meeting I went up to Oakland, Cal., to visit Dr. Albert Boles. This was strictly a personal visit. Dr. Boles is a lifelong friend of mine, having been a classmate and teammate of mine at the University of Minnesota. While there the papers mentioned my visit to Dr. Boles and other Stanford men spoke

Hutchins Will Speak Today to Chicago Students

Robert Maynard Hutchins, president of the University of Chicago, will address the student body of the university at noon today in Mandel hall, 57th street and University avenue. President Hutchins' subject has been announced as "Undergraduate Life," but it is generally understood on the campus that he will explain the recent action of the university board of trustees, who voted on Dec. 21 to withdraw the Maroon football team from intercollegiate competition.

President Hutchins' address will be the first of a special nature to the student body as a whole since the Walgreen investigation of 1935.

SPANIEL OWNERS CELEBRATE 1939 SHOW TRIUMPHS

Meet Tonight to Elect 1940 Officers.

BY BOB BECKER.

Springer spaniel owners of Chicagoland will gather tonight in the Sherman hotel for the annual meeting of the English Springer Spaniel Field Trial Club of Illinois. Officers will be elected, but members of the club predict that the most important function of the meeting will be to celebrate the successful 1939 field trial season and the victories of Chicagoland dogs in national competition.

In the springer spaniel competition local dogs clearly dominated the national field, with a Chicagoland dog winning the Field and Stream trophy as the outstanding field trial springer of the year and several other local dogs placing high in this nation-wide computation of springer accomplishments.

Solo Event Cleans Up.

Solo Event, the flashy springer owned by James Simpson Jr., Wadsworth, Ill., was the winner of the challenge trophy which is the most coveted springer award in field trial competition. It was the first time the cup ever was won by a midwestern dog. Solo Event was handled by Clifford Wallace, who also trained and handled several other springers which startled eastern fanciers by their performances.

Springer spaniels owned by David Silberman of Chicago and trained at the Hogan kennels in Barrington also scored high in eastern and midwestern field trials.

It's a Long List.

Silberman's Dashangan Pomme de Terre, imported by Martin Hogan, was a runnerup in the challenge cup competition in 1938 and again pressed the winners in 1939 by its sparkling work in the field. Chicago's dominance in field trial springers also was supported by Cloverdale Zipper, a dog owned by C. B. Dushane Jr. Zipper, a young dog, amazed eastern field trial galleries with its polished work.

One of the features of tonight's meeting will be the showing of colored moving pictures taken at the annual fall trial of the springer club, which was held Oct. 7 and 8 near Barrington.

Detroit Polo Club Prepares Tight Defense

Jim Hannah, captain and leading point maker of the Oak Brook polo team, will face a hard test tomorrow night in trying to get by Jay K. Secor, five goal back of the Detroit Rangers in the 124th Field Artillery armory, Cottage Grove avenue and 52d street.

In Secor, the Rangers possess the outstanding back in the Metropolitan league. He is a product of Yale university, where he played polo.

Experiments in practice have settled the placement of the three Oak Brook players, with the result that Dan Peacock, four goaler, will ride at the No. 2 position behind Hannah, and Jack Armstrong will hold down the defense position.

MAROON SWIM TEAM, GEORGE WILLIAMS MEET

Capt. Jim Anderson will lead the Maroon swimming team in the University of Chicago's season opener against George Williams college in the Bartlett gymnasium pool tonight at 7:30 o'clock. Chicago, which last year lost only one first place in defeating George Williams, 56 to 10, is expected to repeat with a victory tonight. Anderson, who was the only Maroon swimmer to place in the Big Ten meet last year, won third place in the breast stroke event.

Stanford Signs Shaughnessy for 5 Years to me about the coaching job. When I left Oakland both they and I were still indefinite on the subject. I pointed out that I would like to speak to the authorities here, and they, in turn, mentioned Friday as the deadline of the board of control's decision."

Shaughnessy reported to Chicago on April 1, 1933, so that his working year will be up on April 1, coinciding with the date his Stanford appointment becomes effective. Since 1935, Clark has carried the rank of professor in physical education on a permanent tenure basis. Under this arrangement, even tho Chicago has abandoned intercollegiate football, he could have continued as a physical education professor until the retirement age of 65. Shaughnessy will be 48 years old in March.

Prefers Intercollegiate Style.

The Maroon coach intimated that if he were to remain at Chicago a widespread plan of intramural athletics was in prospect, and that he probably would be placed in charge of such a program, if it came to pass. Six man football, he inferred, would be the keystone of this system.

"Frankly, I don't think I'd be happy under such an arrangement, because I always have been a firm believer in intercollegiate competition. But I do want to say that I really have enjoyed my association at Chicago and that the university has been very considerate. Of course, I'd like to have seen the team win more games, but I leave here with the very kindest regard for every one connected with the university."

Probably no man in Chicago was more stunned by the suddenness of the university board of trustees' decision to abandon intercollegiate football on Dec. 21 than Shaughnessy was. At the time, he was plainly shocked by the action and had little to say. Last night, however, he said:

Metcalf Is Pleased.

"I believe that the playing of games, and particularly in intercollegiate football competition, has a distinct value to all participants from an educational standpoint. That's a conviction I've always had and always will have."

T. Nelson Metcalf, director of athletics at Chicago, last night said he was elated that Shaughnessy had obtained the Stanford position.

"I am tickled to death that Clark got the position at Stanford," Metcalf said. "It's a nice job. He deserves it and he is well qualified for it. I have said and I still say he is one of the best there is. I know it has been very difficult for him to work under the conditions here, but I am sure that Stanford will be a fine place for him to work."

"We are all sorry to see Clark Shaughnessy go," said Emery T. Filbey, vice president of the university.

WHAT TO DO? Each week day a puzzle picture representing the name of a popular orchestra leader will be printed in the Daily Tribune until 42 have appeared. SIGN OF SPRING: DIZZY REJECTS 1940 CONTRACT

Owner Wrigley, However, Refuses to Worry.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Dizzy Dean.

Mr. Dizzy Dean, who hasn't lost his knack for getting into print, favorably or otherwise, finally has communicated with his employer, Mr. P. K. Wrigley, president and owner of the Cubs. Mr. Diz, who is far easier to stop on the pitching mound than in the Conversational league, was heard from yesterday when his contract, unsigned, was dropped on the desk of his employer.

The possessor of the $185,000 mystery arm even went to the trouble to write a letter, an effort that probably accounts for the fact that he kept the document a week after broadcasting from his Dallas, Tex., home that he was too good a man to work for an approximate $10,000, a reduction by one-half of his previous pay. In his note Dean used the word "amicably," and that's sufficient proot that he devoted no little time to his literary gem.

Wrigley Is Not Impressed.

Dean's complaint, which wasn't at all threatening, apparently didn't make much of an impression on Wrigley. The same contract will be returned, maybe today, maybe tomorrow. In his letter Diz pointed out that he is "worth more money." But to get it he will have to give satisfactory answers to a few questions Wrigley intends to ask.

Wrigley has an idea that he can stump his prize pitching invalid by asking Diz to provide a good reason why he thinks he is worth more than what he has been offered. The amount isn't exactly $10,000, but in that neighborhood. Wrigley also is going to ask Dean if he can guarantee he will be able to pitch regularly next season.

Now that he has had two molars extracted, Diz will guarantee anything, but the dentist who worked on the job declared the extraction may not prove of any benefit to the arm which in 1938 and 1939 won only 13 games for the Cubs.

Owner Still Hopes.

Despite his halving of Dean's pay, Wrigley refuses to be convinced that the one time Great Man is no longer a great. The Cub owner apparently is trying to believe that Diz's arm is as good as it was several years ago, but that Dizzy can't be made to believe the same thing.

"There has been too much talk of Dean's arm," declared Wrigley. "He's at the stage where he's afraid to pitch and that notion must be knocked out of his head."

There certainly has been too much talk about Diz's arm, but who has done most of the talking? The answer to this one is: A fellow named Diz Dean.

ASKS $92,000 FOR AIDING SONJA IN 1936 OLYMPICS

New York, Jan. 11 (AP).—A story that Sonja Henie had a brush with the 1936 winter Olympic officials over amateurism and the selection of judges of her skating was related in Supreme court today. Dennis R. Scanlon, an agent and promoter who says he acted both as defender of her amateurism and as a man who saw that her skating was judged in its true perfection, is suing her for $92,000.

Supreme Court Justice Louis A. Valente refused to dismiss the action brought by Scanlon, who contends that he succeeded in convincing Olympic officials at Garmisch-Partenkirchen that prior use of her name in advertising in Paris did not constitute professionalism. He convinced them, he said, that she did not know she had been advertised in Paris.

As for the judging business, Scanlon said he had an agreement with Miss Henie "to use his best efforts to cause to be named as judges . . . persons who were known to be not unfavorable to the defendant."

"Ridiculous," Says Sonja.

Cleveland, O., Jan. 11 (AP).—Sonja Henie, figure skating star, termed ridiculous tonight an assertion made in New York Supreme court by Dennis R. Scanlon, promoter and agent, that he saw to it judges favorable to her were appointed for the 1936 Olympic championships. "It's the most ridiculous thing I ever heard," declared Miss Henie.

Harrison and Foreman Win in Overtime

Two overtime games, one junior and the other senior, featured 14 contests in the Chicago Public High School Basketball league yesterday. In the junior division Harrison came from behind to beat Farragut, 26 to 23, for its second triumph in three starts in the central section race. Gaska registered a long shot to tie the score at 23-all, sending the game into an overtime period. A basket by Shaine and a free throw by Wanderski assured Harrison of victory.

Foreman was forced into overtime to beat Kelvyn Park, 41 to 38, in the west section senior race. A free throw by Haver, Kelvyn Park guard, tied the count at 36-all just before the regulation game ended. In the overtime period Foreman registered five points, Kelvyn Park two.

Four senior teams, Wells, McKinley, Tuley, and Austin scored second straight victories in the west section battles. Austin, a favorite to win the section title, triumphed over its bitter rival, Crane, 33 to 25. Ben Navigato paced Austin with six field goals and one free throw.

In one of tonight's Private School league games Harvard plays University High in Bartlett gymnasium.

WEHRLE, WOOD TIED AT 67 IN OAKLAND OPEN

Amateur Wilford Wehrle of Racine, Wis., and Chicago, and Professional Craig Wood of Mamaroneck, N. Y., set the pace with cards of 67, three under par. Wood went out in par 35 and was home in 32. Wehrle reversed Wood's nine hole figure. Next came Jim Demaret of Houston, Tex., and Clayton Heafner of Linville, N. C., each carding a pair of 34s.

Bracketed at 69 were Bill Williamson, Hollywood; Fred Metmore, San Francisco; Bruce Coltart, Haddonfield, N. J.; Ed Oliver, Hornell, N. Y.; Ben Hogan, White Plains, N. Y.; Horton Smith, Oak Park, Ill.; Ben Coltrin, San Francisco; Vic Ghezzi, Deal, N. J., and Lawson Little, Bretton Wood, N. H.

Football Vital to School Life at Ohio State

with a brisk vigor. He recalled his visit to Minneapolis last fall to see Ohio State play Minnesota.

"I felt there was more to that game than just the two teams and the crowd. I could visualize the homes and the clubs and the little crossroad stores all over the two states of Ohio and Minnesota, where people were gathered around their radios feeling that they too had a part in what was going on there on the field. That's what I mean by the idea of representation. The players sense this, though they may not express it, and it gives them a fine sense of loyalty and responsibility to others."

Recalls Games of Past.

Dr. McPherson, who was called out of retirement to take the acting presidency two years ago, showed real pleasure in settling back in his chair, gazing out across the snow covered campus and recalling some of the instances which showed how Ohio State students react to football. There was a smile on his kindly, dignified features as he spoke in a quiet, reminiscent way.

"We used to get pretty excited about our football games years ago. [He took his bachelor of science degree at Ohio State in 1887 and has been on the faculty most of the time since.] I remember that we were so worked up over the series with Ohio Wesleyan that there would be a fight at some time or other in nearly every game. Eventually, we weren't allowed to play them any more.

"Then this ill feeling died down and we took up the games again. When they came here for the first time after the break our boys said 'Let's learn the Ohio Wesleyan cheer.' So they did—and when Wesleyan came out on the field our boys gave it to them. That was something unusual in those days and both sides thought it was a very fine thing.

"We still think it's a fine thing. To me, the best moments in any college football game come when one band goes over to the other side of the field and plays the other team's song. I think that brings out a spirit that is well worth preserving."

Regrets Chicago's Action.

Speaking as an alumnus of the University of Chicago, having taken his Ph. D. at that institution in 1899, Dr. McPherson said that he was very sorry to see the Maroons withdraw from football.

"Chicago has a place in the Big Ten which we don't like to see vacant," he said. "But apart from that I don't like the idea of dropping out just in football—the sport in which they were getting beaten—and continuing to take part in the sports in which they could win. I think that puts too much stress on the mere idea of winning. I believe it does boys more good to play the game, win or lose. They can't expect to win all the time when they get out into the world."

Dr. Morrill, who had recently returned from a meeting of the National Collegiate Athletic association in Los Angeles, stressed his belief that a new, broad movement is on foot in this organization to make untenable the position of those who refer to college football as "the last stronghold of American hypocrisy."

Takes Issue with Critic.

He recalled the statement of the anonymous person who professed to speak for the University of Chicago trustees in making the remark that the Maroons withdrew from Western conference football because "you can't play Big Ten football without being crooked as far as the league's rules are concerned."

"If this spokesman really believes what he says," Dr. Morrill remarked, "there is all the more reason why Chicago should be with us in this movement to make this game what we all want it to be. I don't believe in criticizing Chicago for its action. It's a great school and has every right to do exactly as it pleases without having to answer for its action to any one. But wouldn't it have been a fine thing if Chicago had come into the party with us and worked to perfect the standards of the game?

Set Rigid Standards.

"We would have been glad to have Chicago's representatives sitting down with us at that N. C. A. A. meeting, which was one of the most significant in the history of the organization. The N. C. A. A. started as a loose federation, formed in 1905 to help rescue football from the unfortunate conditions which beset it then. For years this organization has had no great control over its members. In its recent meeting, however, it put teeth into all of its rules on intercollegiate sports and set rigid standards, academic as well as athletic, for its members. That was the kind of a gathering to which we would have welcomed Chicago spokesmen."

In parting, Dr. Morrill dropped a prophetic remark: "Chicago will come back. Northwestern and Columbia dropped football once. But they changed their minds. College football is too good a thing to let go."

Loyola Beaten Seventh in Row; Omaha Wins, 41-39

Loyola university's basketball team was unable to check a stubborn second half rally last night and lost its seventh game in a row to the University of Omaha, 41 to 39, at Loyola. Trailing 26 to 18 at half time, Omaha, led by Ron Salyards, with four baskets in the second half, won out.

Loyola got off to a 7 to 0 lead, but Omaha kept coming and an underhand flip by Vernon O'Neil early in the second half tied the count at 32 to 32 and Salyard's shot gave the Indians the lead. Ed Lee tied the score with a tip in and Loyola went back out in front when George Wenskus sank a push shot from the circle. Hilbourne again knotted the count, but Vinny Graham's successful free throw gave Loyola a one point lead, 37 to 36. A hook shot by Bob Marks with two minutes left and a quick shot by Lee advanced both teams two points. Salyard's final basket, a one handed hook shot, gave the Indians the game, but O'Neil sank a free throw with 15 seconds left to end the scoring.

It was Omaha's first victory on the trip. The Indians meet De Paul tonight at De Paul and Chicago Teachers tomorrow.

REPORT ROUT OF RACING CLIQUE IN INDIANAPOLIS

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 11 (AP).—David M. Lewis, Marion county prosecutor, announced tonight that seven Chicago men took to their heels and left town today after attempting to establish national headquarters here for disseminating horse racing information.

Samuel Klaus, assistant United States district attorney at Chicago, charged that Indianapolis had become the center of a race news information service Tuesday in an affidavit filed in Los Angeles.

"Our investigation showed that a group of men came here, attempting to contact certain persons in an effort to establish a nation-wide bookie service," Lewis said, "but they were unsuccessful. They have left town."

Klaus alleged parts of the Moses Annenberg organization in Chicago were seeking to carry on here a service similar to that of the closed nation-wide news service, owned by Annenberg, who is under indictment for failure to pay federal income tax of approximately $5,000,000.

Van Klaveren Is Matched to Meet Aron on Feb. 8

Bep Van Klaveren, claimant of the European middleweight championship, yesterday was matched to oppose Milt Aron, No. 1 welterweight contender, in a 10 round contest in the Coliseum Feb. 8. Ten per cent of the net proceeds will be given to the Finnish relief fund, of which former President Herbert Hoover is in charge. . . . Harry Bobo, Pittsburgh heavyweight, has been obtained to substitute for Bob Ray in a 10 round headliner against Henry Wacker in Marigold Gardens Monday. Ray will meet Marion Mosley in a five round secondary feature. Original plans to offer three matches of eight rounds to top the show were discarded. . . .

William Goldsmith, 1937 Illinois Athletic club lightweight amateur champion, has added his name to the growing list of boxers who will compete in the eighth annual tournament in the I. A. C., 112 South Michigan avenue. The meet will open next Tuesday when all contestants must report for physical examination and weighing-in ceremonies.

Goldsmith, who is returning as a welterweight, is the fifth winner of an I. A. C. championship to enroll in search of additional honors. Others are Hiner Thomas, defending middleweight champion; Homer Williams, 1939 featherweight title holder, now a lightweight; Harry Sparrow, last year's lightweight winner, who is competing as a welterweight this time, and Frank Bausone, 1939 bantamweight champ, who is after the featherweight title.

All are members of the Catholic Youth organization except Williams, who is a representative of the Savoy Athletic club. The Savoy boxers finished second to the C. Y. O. for last year's team trophy. Indications are the Savoy team, one of the strongest in the meet, will give the C. Y. O. fighters another stiff battle for team honors.

Harold Rodie, 124th Field Artillery armory middleweight, will meet Johnny Crane of Morgan Park in a five round amateur fight tonight in Madison Athletic club, 4711 Madison street. Tommy Mair, featherweight stablemate of Rodie, and Bob Earl, also of Morgan Park, will be opponents in a five round secondary feature.

Collegians Five Defeats Petrones, 29-27; Rands Win

A basket in the final seconds by Cleveland Bray won a thriller for the Collegians over the Rep. Petrones, 29 to 27, last night at St. Philip gymnasium in the feature of a Windy City league basketball double header. In the other game, the Bill Rands beat the La Salle Cavaliers, 24 to 20.

CICERO BASKETBALL.

Two of the outstanding teams in the Cicero-Berwyn area, the R. V. Grahams and the Roberts Electricians, will clash tonight in a league basketball game at Lincoln school gymnasium, 60th court and 37th street.

BRUINS DEFEAT LEAFS, 5-2; CAIN MAKES 4 GOALS

TORONTO, Ont.; Jan. 11 (AP).—Led by Herbie Cain, who scored four times, the Boston Bruins beat the Toronto Leafs, 5 to 2, tonight to remain in a tie for first place in the National Hockey league with the New York Rangers.

Cain's performances fell one short of the record of five goals for one game now held jointly by Charlie Conacher of the New York Americans and Pit Lepine of the Montreal Canadiens. Three of his goals came in the third period, two of them within 34 seconds.

Leafs Are Crippled.

Bingo Kampman and Gus Marker tallied for the Leafs, who were without three of their best players, Syl Apps, Gordie Drillon, and Nick Metz, who are all out with injuries. Wally Stanowski, youthful guard, was a driving force behind the Toronto attack and set up the pass for Marker's goal.

Red Hamill got the first Boston goal at 5:02 of the first period and the Bruins led, 2 to 0, at the end of the session when Cain marked up No. 1 at 1:42. The Leafs took over hostilities in the second period and tied the score at 2 to 2, but were unable to penetrate Boston's defense thereafter.

Michigan Rally Beats Illinois in Hockey, 3-1

Ann Arbor, Mich., Jan. 11 [Special].—A last period spurt that netted three goals tonight gave the University of Michigan hockey team a 3 to 1 victory over Illinois in the opener of a two game series. For two periods Illinois, coached by Vic Heyliger, former Wolverine star, outskated and outfought the Michigan squad, gaining a 1 to 0 lead at 9:28 of the second period when Center Joe Lotzer fired a side shot past Goalie Spike James.

GENERAL FOODS.

I have been told that General Foods has paid something on its common stock in each of the last 17 years. Is that true? How have the dividends been running recently? Are Birds Eye foods sold by this company? Kindly send me information on the company's operations.—W. L.

Answer: General Foods corporation is a leading domestic producer and distributor of food products. Most of the 80 food preparations handled by the company are packaged and nationally advertised. The products include cereal foods and beverages, gelatin desserts, coffee, tea, flour, chocolate, cocoa, syrup, salt, baking powder, oysters, and frosted foods.

Frosted Foods Co., Inc., a subsidiary, preserves perishable foods by a patented, quick freezing method. Fruits, vegetables, fish, poultry, and meat thus frozen are sold as "Birds Eye Frosted Foods" and under other trade names.

General Foods developed from a business started in 1895. The current name was adopted in 1929. The present company was incorporated in 1922 as the Postum Cereal company. Since 1925 numerous subsidiaries and properties have been acquired until now the company has plants in more than 20 American cities and in Canada and the Philippine Islands.

The company has outstanding 150,000 shares of $4.50 cumulative preferred stock of no par value and 5,251,440 shares of no par common stock. There is no funded debt.

Dividends on the preferred stock are being paid regularly, and on the common stock at the quarterly rate of 50 cents a share. In 1939 dividends on the common stock totaled $2.25 a share, including an extra dividend of 25 cents a share paid last Nov. 15. The company has made payments to common stockholders in each year since 1922.

With inventories of raw materials subject to wide price changes, the company's earnings show marked variations from year to year. In the first 9 months of 1939 net income [after adjustment for possible inventory losses] increased to $12,471,000, equal to $2.28 a common share, from $10,328,000 or $1.92 a share in the same 1938 period.

Net income, earnings per common share, and dividends per share in recent years compared as follows:

1934	$11,144,000	$2.12	$1.80
1935	11,731,000	2.23	1.80
1936	14,241,000	2.71	2.25
1937	9,206,000	1.75	2.00
1938	13,577,000	2.50	2.00

The balance sheet of the company at the end of 1938 showed current assets of $53,203,547, against current liabilities of $10,888,318. Inventories amounted to $29,865,000, and cash $13,938,000.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK

Chicago receipts dropped from 40,091 on Thursday of last week to 19,000, including direct shipments to packers. Eleven leading markets handled 77,000, compared with 134,000 a week earlier.

The market ruled steady to 10 cents higher, heaviest hogs and sows showing most improvement.

Weaknesses prevailed in all classes of steers and yearlings except some of the best longfeds. The latter were strong, with the best prices of the season. Lamb prices rose 25 to 35 cents, with competition brisk for the limited supply offered.

NOTICE TO THE HOLDERS OF

5½% TWENTY YEAR GOLD DEBENTURES; THIRTY YEAR 5% GOLD DEBENTURES; 7% PREFERRED STOCK, and all other claimants of

UTILITIES POWER & LIGHT CORPORATION,

including holders of First Mortgage Gold Bonds of

UTILITIES ELKHORN COAL COMPANY,

dated July 1, 1928:

Notice is hereby given that on the 2nd day of January, 1940, the Honorable William H. Holly, Judge of the United States District Court for the Northern District of Illinois, Eastern Division, entered an order in the above proceeding confirming the Plan of Reorganization of Utilities Power & Light Corporation dated February 1, 1939, as amended June 30, 1939, and July 10, 1939 (hereinafter referred to as the Plan) and heretofore approved by the Securities and Exchange Commission on July 26, 1939. The Plan will become effective on January 2, 1940.

The Plan provides for the organization of a new corporation to which will be transferred all of the properties and assets of Utilities Power & Light Corporation. A corporation has been organized for this purpose under the laws of the State of Delaware under the name of Ogden Corporation (hereinafter referred to as the New Company), and it is expected that an amended Certificate of Incorporation authorizing the shares of 5% Preferred Stock and Common Stock of the New Company necessary to be issued for the purposes of the Plan will be filed in the office of the Secretary of State of the State of Delaware as soon as practicable after the expiration of the thirty day election period referred to below. The amended Certificate of Incorporation will provide that dividends on the 5% Preferred Stock of the New Company will begin to accumulate on January 1, 1940, and the proposed indenture relating to the Five Year Sinking Fund 4½% Debentures of the New Company will provide that interest on such new debentures will begin to accrue on January 1, 1940.

When the Plan becomes effective the holders of said 5½% debentures, said 5% debentures, said Utilities Elkhorn Coal Company first mortgage bonds dated July 1, 1928, and other claimants having claims ranking on an equality with said debentures will be entitled to receive for each $1,000 of principal amount thereof the following securities to be issued by the New Company:

(1) $400 principal amount of Five Year 4½% debentures;
(2) 6 shares of 5% preferred stock of the par value of $50 per share;
(3) 50 shares of New Common Stock of the par value of $4.00 per share plus one share of New Common Stock for each $6.00 of interest on said debentures, bonds, and other claims as may be accrued and unpaid to January 1, 1940.

Each holder of said 7% preferred stock shall be entitled to receive 5 shares of New Common Stock for each share of said 7% preferred stock surrendered.

Each holder of said debentures, bonds, and claims (other than Atlas Corporation and its subsidiaries) may, on or before February 1, 1940, elect (1) to take in lieu of any or all shares of New Common Stock which such holder will be entitled to receive under the Plan, shares of New Preferred Stock on the basis of 1 share of New Preferred Stock for each 8⅓ shares of New Common Stock, or (2) to take in lieu of any or all shares of New Preferred Stock which such holder will be entitled to receive under the Plan, shares of New Common Stock on the basis of 8⅓ shares of New Common Stock for each share of New Preferred Stock. Said election must be affirmatively exercised and if not thus exercised on or before February 1, 1940, any and all rights of election shall become null and void. The holders of said 7% Preferred Stock have no right of election. After February 1, 1940, the Atlas Corporation and its subsidiaries shall have the right to elect to take on the basis above indicated New Preferred Stock in lieu of New Common Stock or New Common Stock in lieu of New Preferred Stock, provided that the exercise of such election by Atlas Corporation will not increase the amount of New Preferred Stock which would have been issued in the absence of all rights of election.

The New Company will issue Debenture Scrip Certificates to persons entitled to receive New Debentures in an amount less than $100 in principal amount or to receive a principal amount of New Debentures which is not an even multiple of $100. The New Company will issue Preferred Stock and Common Stock Scrip Certificates to persons entitled to receive less than 1 share of New Preferred Stock or a number of shares of New Preferred Stock or New Common Stock which is not an even multiple of 1 share.

Each person entitled to receive securities of the New Company when the Plan has become effective should forward said debentures, first mortgage bonds of July 1, 1928, certificates representing said 7% Preferred Stock, and evidence of said claims, held by him respectively, together with a Letter of Transmittal, duly executed by him, to one of the following: American National Bank and Trust Company of Chicago, 33 North La Salle Street, Chicago, Illinois; or The New York Trust Company, 100 Broadway, New York, N. Y.; or The First National Bank of Jersey City, 1 Exchange Place, Jersey City, N. J.

Notices concerning the above matters and appropriate Letters of Transmittal have been or shortly will be mailed to all known holders of said debentures, first mortgage bonds of July 1, 1928, 7% Preferred Stock, and other claimants as shown by the Trustee's records. MORRISON MAY LOSE 450 ROOM HOTEL SECTION

Heirs Agree to Sell Unit for $675,000.

BY AL CHASE.

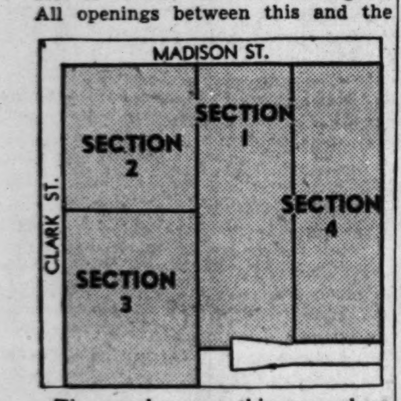
The 42-story Morrison hotel at Madison and Clark streets may soon lose a 450 room section of its building due to the hotel's inability to pay back taxes of $200,000 on that section, it was learned yesterday.

The 1,760 room hotel was constructed in four separate sections, built at different times, on four separately owned parcels of land. The first section of 21 stories was erected in 1911 at a cost of $2,500,000. It contains 450 rooms, and is located at 71 to 79 West Madison.

The second section, containing another 450 rooms, was built a few years later, at the southeast corner of Madison and Clark. This was followed, in 1925, by the third or tower section, of 42 stories, with 860 rooms, fronting at 15 to 29 South Clark. The fourth section, of 450 rooms, lcated at 67 West Madison, was built in 1930 and 1931.

One Section Already Lost.

The Morrison has already lost one of the sections. The 450 room unit at 67 West Madison, the last section built, was sliced off the building in 1937 to become the Hotel Chicagoan. All openings between this and the adjoining units were bricked up.



The numbers on this map show the order in which the four sections of the Morrison hotel were built.

Yesterday the heirs of Jacob Rosenberg, who own the land under the original section built in 1911, agreed to sell this unit to the Chicagoan for $675,000 cash unless the Morrison pays the back taxes by Feb. 16. Total back taxes on the entire Morrison hotel units amount to about $700,000.

The unit which the Morrison may lose contains the main entrance to the hotel, the lobby, five banks of elevators, a coffee shop, power plant, and chimney.

Lobby May Be Leased.

It was indicated that negotiations might be carried on later whereby the Morrison could retain the lobby and the utilities by leasing them from the Chicagoan. It would still lose 450 rooms, however, while the Chicagoan's room capacity would be doubled to 900.

The late Harry Moir, who originally operated the Morrison, leased the 67½ by 190 foot plot under the first section on March 30, 1911. The annual ground rent is $38,000, and is not in default. The lease expires in 2007.

The Morrison property was reorganized some time ago under section 77B of the bankruptcy act and the $6,000,000 of bonds scaled down to $3,000,000 of income bonds.

McCahey Heads Company.

James B. McCahey, president of the Chicago board of education, is head of the Morrison Hotel company which was organized to take over and operate the property.

The Chicagoan is owned and operated by the Hotel Chicagoan, Inc., of which John J. Mack is president. C. O. Wallace and Harry Prince are prominent stockholders.

The Chicagoan is represented in the current negotiations by I. B. Perlman of the law firm of Sabath, Perlman, Goodman and Rein. Herbert Becker and Frank D. Mayer of the law firm f Mayer, Meyer, Austrian and Platt are representing the Rosenberg heirs.

ALL OFFICERS OF FIVE BANKS ARE RE-ELECTED

Officers of five banks in Chicago and suburbs were reëlected yesterday at annual directors' meetings. The banks are the Amalgamated Trust and Savings, Austin State, La Grange National, Lemont National, and the Pullman Trust and Savings. Stockholders of the Pullman Trust reëlected all directors immediately preceding the directors' meeting.

Herbert P. Hoot was elected cashier of the South Shore National bank at the annual directors' meeting Wednesday night. Hoot formerly was vice president and cashier of the Hamilton State bank, now in voluntary liquidation. He succeeds E. A. Delaney, who resigned as cashier and vice president of the South Shore National. Directors made no selection for the vice presidency. Arthur W. Glennie, formerly of the state auditor's office, was named to the newly created post of auditor. All other officers were reëlected.

GianniniBattle Brings Threat byMorgenthau

BY JOHN FISHER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 11.—Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau today replied to charges of "persecution" by L. M. Giannini, president of the Bank of America National Trust and Savings association, by advocating legislation abolishing bank holding companies.

Bank of America is the top banking unit in the Giannini financial empire on the west coast, dominated by A. P. Giannini, father of L. M. The elder Giannini was once an ardent supporter of President Roosevelt, but has fallen out with the administration.

L. M. Giannini charged on Tuesday that Morgenthau had been "persecuting" him and other Bank of America officials thru regulations of the controler of currency, and threatened to convert the national bank into a state institution unless the "antagonism" ceases.

Must Protect Depositors.

Morgenthau replied today that his job is to protect the interests of depositors of all national banks. "I'm going to continue to do my job, notwithstanding the abuse the management of any bank sees fit to heap upon my head," he said.

He declined to discuss the controversy, asserting he never talked about the affairs of any national bank. But in fairness to the treasury and himself, Morgenthau said, he felt it was necessary to reply to Giannini's accusations. It was understood that the controversy centers about the valuation of the bank system's assets.

In his blast against Morgenthau, Giannini said that the bank had refused to charge off a 9 million dollar loss demanded by the controler of currency, insisting that "our appraisers had appraised the property in question at 11 millions more than our book value."

Other Accusations Made.

He accused Morgenthau of taking over the prosecution of a number of Securities and Exchange commission actions against the Giannini enterprises, and of discussing the bank's affairs with other concerns.

Morgenthau would not comment on Giannini's threat to take out a state charter, other than to say that he would "still like to see" some legislation abolishing bank holding companies. Bank of America tops a branch banking system and 42 per cent of its stock is held by Transamerica corporation, the main holding company for Giannini interests.

Giannini today renewed his attack when told Morgenthau favored legislation to wipe out bank holding companies.

"No further proof of my position is necessary than Mr. Morgenthau's melodramatic reaction," he declared. "My charges go unanswered.

Brought "Out Into Open."

"While he has not been able to meet the charges against him we have the satisfaction of bringing him out into the open and taking him out of the position of hiding behind the controler's department.

"There is implicit in this statement further evidence of malicious motive. He used the holding company issue, which is not applicable to this case, to draw a red herring across the trail. Let him lay all the cards on the table."

Jesse Jones, federal loan administrator, who supervises activities of the Reconstruction Finance corporation and other lending agencies, said there have been no recent negotiations on the roposed sale of 25 million dolars in Bank of America preferred stock to the RFC, which would give the government an active voice in the bank's management.

Application Believed on File.

It is understood that an application for such a stock purchase was filed about a year ago.

If the Bank of America quit the national banking system and still wanted Federal Deposit Insurance corporation protection, it would remain under virtually the same federal supervision as now. Membership in the federal reserve system would automatically carry membership in the FDIC. Requirements of both would correspond with the authority of supervision now exercised by the controler's office.

It was recalled that early last October, James Roosevelt, son of the President, and Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt had lunched publicly with the elder Giannini. This had led to reports that the Gianninis were about to patch up their differences with the Washington administration—reports which were denied by Securities and Exchange commission officials.

Buyers at Furniture Shows Exceed All Expectations

The number of buyers at the annual mid-winter furniture and home furnishings market yesterday exceeded all expectations. After only four days of the two-week exposition, registrations of buyers at the American Furniture Mart reached 7,900, Lawrence H. Whiting, president, announced. This is within 3,000 of the total for the entire two weeks last year. At the Merchandise Mart 6,796 buyers have registered, 9 per cent more than a year ago and a new peak for the period.

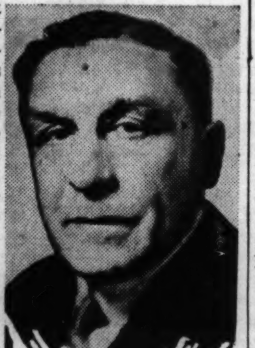
Vast Utilities Plan Halted by Depression



Alfred Loewenstein, partner in vast utility scheme.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 11 (AP).—Counsel for the monopoly committee contended today that an American financier and his European associate might have obtained control of a large share of the United States public utility system if the depression had not intervened.

Peter R. Nehemkis Jr., attorney in charge of the committee's investment banking inquiry, made this assertion in summing up testimony relating to the billion dollar Standard Gas and Electric company.

Victor Emanuel, New York financier, conceded that he had once envisioned merging the Standard system with other major utility companies in collaboration with Alfred Loewenstein, Belgian financier, who died in 1928 in a plunge from an airliner crossing the English channel.

Middle West System Included.

Other systems Emanuel named as involved in the original plan were the American Water Works and Electric company and the Middle West Utilities company.

But he dropped the scheme, Emanuel asserted. His subsequent acquisition with Loewenstein's successors of certain rights in the Standard system was not an effort to oust from control the investment banking house of H. M. Byllesby & Co., he asserted.

Nehemkis, however, insisted that "had the depression not intervened these two might have controled the utility system of this country."

Emanuel testified that thru the United States Electric Power company he and the Loewenstein interests purchased enough Standard stock to obtain a "veto power" on the board of directors, force retirement of a preferred stock issue and obtain an agreement giving them the right to designate the underwriter for 75 per cent of the system's future financing.

Stock Pledged to Bankers.

In connection with the purchase of the Standard stock, United States Power and Light pledged 1,226,298 shares to a group of bankers as collateral for a $12,500,000 loan, testimony showed. In 1936 a group of investment bankers, including the J. Henry Schroder Banking corporation, bought up the notes and collateral.

This group agreed to offer the collateral to United States Electric Power stockholders at the price paid, and Nehemkis attempted to show this was in consideration for an agreement as to the disposition of Standard system's underwriting business.

Emanuel and Carlton P. Fuller, head of Schroder Rockefeller & Co., Inc., conceded that the possibility of obtaining the system's underwriting business was a consideration in the agreement to recover the collateral from the banks.

Middle West Utilities company has since been reorganized as the Middle West corporation, with a few of the original underlying properties separated from the system. Both Middle West and Standard Gas formerly maintained their headquarters in Chicago. The Byllesby organization has offices in Chicago.

1939 GOLD IMPORTS NEARLY DOUBLE OLD RECORD SET IN 1938

Washington, D. C., Jan. 11 (AP).—The commerce department said today gold imports into the United States in 1939 nearly doubled the previous high mark. Last year's imports were $3,574,414,000, swollen by unprecedented movements of European capital to this country for safekeeping.

Altho gold imports had exceeded $1,000,000,000 in each year since the President revalued gold from $20.67 to $35 an ounce early in 1934, the previous record was $1,979,458,000 in 1938, a year in which gold movement was enhanced by the first Czecho-Slovakian crisis.

The largest part of the metal came from England and other parts of the British empire. This year Canada has been the principal shipper.

Last year's silver imports fell to $85,307,000, probably because of the reduction in the United States purchase price for foreign silver from 43 to 35 cents per ounce. In 1938, silver imports totaled $230,531,000.

The department said that $534,417,000 of the gold shipped to the United States last year was deposited under earmark by foreign governments and central banks, boosting their earmark account sto $1,163,004,000. The remainder of the gold was sold to the United States treasury.

FREIGHT TRAFFIC RECOVERS FROM HOLIDAY SLUMP

All classes of freight loading recovered from the Christmas holiday slump during the week ended Jan. 6, and advanced total loadings more than seasonally expected, the Association of American Railroads reported yesterday.

The week's loadings totaled 592,392 cars, an increase of 7.7 per cent over the level of the preceding week and a gain of 11.9 per cent over a year earlier.

The report classified loadings and indicated their increases over the previous week and a year earlier as follows:

ASSOCIATED GAS UNIT REFUSED LOAN FROM RFC

Washington, D. C., Jan. 11 [Special].—The Reconstruction Finance corporation last month denied a $26,000,000 loan to the NY PA NJ Utilities company, Jesse Jones, federal loan administrator, disclosed today. The company is a subsidiary of the Associated Gas and Electric company, which filed a petition in bankruptcy on Wednesday.

Jones asserted the NY PA NJ Utilities company planned to divert some of the money to top holding companies of the system.

Canada to Sell War Loan of $200,000,000

OTTAWA, Ont., Jan. 11 [Canadian Press].—Subscriptions will be opened Monday morning on a $200,000,000 Dominion war loan bearing 3¼ per cent interest.

Details of the loan, which have been awaited with much interest by Americans who have billions invested in Dominion subsidiary companies, were announced tonight on behalf of Finance Minister Lieut. Col. J. L. Ralston. Officials emphasized that subscriptions are voluntary and offered only to Canadian investors.

The proceeds will be used to finance war expenditures which it is estimated will cost Canada $1,000,000 a day for the first full year of the war.

'A 3 Per Cent Bond Issue.

In addition to the $200,000,000 in new money, the finance minister will have discretion to accept applications for conversion of Dominion of Canada 3 per cent bonds maturing March 1, 1940, into an equal par value of the new issue.

What amount will be added to the $200,000,000 by this conversion was not estimated by Canadian finance officials. The 3 per cent bond issue was for $115,000,000.

Dated Feb. 1, 1940, the bonds will mature Feb. 1, 1952, but by a system of annual drawings by lot they are callable in five equal sections beginning Feb. 1, 1948.

Bonds Not Tax Free.

The bonds will be offered at par and will not be tax free as were most of the six war and victory bond issues sold in the world war.

When turned in for conversion the bonds will be valued at 100.17 per cent and accrued interest to date of delivery.

The subscriptions, opening at 9 a. m. Monday, will be handled by a widespread selling organization of investment dealers, brokers and branch banks. To encourage popular distribution, bearer bonds will be in denominations of $50, $100, $500, and $1,000, and registered bonds in larger denominations.

Banks to Make Loans.

Chartered banks of Canada will make loans to investors for three months up to 80 per cent of the principal amount of the bonds purchased. These loans will be at 3¼ per cent interest.

An endeavor will be made to see that the smallest investor has an opportunity to subscribe, it was said. An allotment will be made for that purpose in case the issue is oversubscribed.

The first bond issue of this war is four times as large as the first offering of the six issues of the world war. All the world war loans except the last Victory loan were tax free. All the tax free bonds have been redeemed.

Dollar Acceptances Rise 10 Millions in December

New York, Jan. 11 [Special].—The volume of dollar acceptances outstanding increased $10,045,000 in December to a total of $232,644,000, the Federal Reserve Bank of New York reported today. This figure however, represented a decrease of $36,961,000 from the end of 1938.

ASK 807 MILLION BE GRANTED FOR FARM BENEFITS

Edward A. O'Neal.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 11.—Officials of the American Farm Bureau federation today advised President Roosevelt that the organization will fight for 807 million dollars worth of benefit payments to farmers at this session of congress. The federation would pay 607 million dollars to producers of basic crops and 200 million dollars to dairy farmers and producers of other nonbasic products.

Edward A. O'Neal, president of the organization, said the federation is prepared to support proposals to finance the benefits by taxes if necessary. He said he was not prepared to take a definite stand on the kind of taxes which should be levied, but indicated he was in favor of increasing the income tax or any form of taxation based on the ability to pay.

Omitted from Budget.

The budget, submitted to congress last week by Roosevelt, makes no provision for continuing parity payments. The farm organization's estimate was far higher than the amounts voted for parity payments in the last two years. In the current year 225 millions are available for parity payments and last year 212 million dollars were made available for this purpose.

The delegation estimated cotton will need 242 million dollars in benefit payments; corn, 218 millions; wheat, 121 millions; tobacco, 14 millions, and rice, 12 millions. Officials of the organization acknowledged that an increase in income tax rates would not hit the farmer because farm returns are so complicated any farmer can show a loss instead of a profit almost at will. However, they insisted the facts are that farmers are not making profits and should not be called upon to pay for the benefit program even tho it brings them money.

"Sorry" for Consumer.

The burden, they said, should fall on those who make profits in handling farm products. They said they were sorry that any effort to get at those who make profits from the sweat of the farmer also hit the consumer, but asserted this was better than having the burden fall on the farmer.

The federation advised Roosevelt that it favored an independent farm credit administration under direction of a board of governors. The FCA recently was brought completely under the supervision of Secretary Wallace as an integral part of the agriculture department.

5 BILLIONS SPENT BY GOVERNMENT IN SIX MONTHS

Washington, D. C., Jan. 11 (AP).—Federal expenditures for this fiscal year have passed $5,000,000,000. The treasury said today that, including transfer of $268,000,000 of social security tax money to the old age reserve fund, it spent $5,012,026,993 between July 1 and Jan. 9—slightly over six months.

President Roosevelt estimated in his recent budget message to congress that the spending total exclusive of the social security transfers would total $9,199,253,641 by June 30.

The spending total was nearly twice the size of the revenue figures for the same period. By Jan. 9, the treasury had taken in $2,851,085,159, leaving a $2,160,941,834 deficit. This, in turn, was responsible for a record high debt of $42,040,575,811.

Northern Rails Renew Fight on Rate Cuts

Action which may result in a reopening of the railroad freight rate battle between northern and southern states was taken yesterday by the northern roads. They asked the Interstate Commerce commission to postpone for 60 days the recent I. C. C. order granting the south some rate reductions, and informed the commission that a petition asking a reopening of the case is being prepared. The rate cuts are scheduled to go into effect March 1.

The new action represented a protest by the roads against the order as it affected the carriers themselves, but back of the contest over the freight rate structure is an intense intersectional struggle between the north and the south for markets in which to sell industrial goods.

Drive Brings Order.

Southern governors, political leaders, trade groups, and various industries united in the drive which placed the issue before the commission and resulted in an order by the I. C. C. on Nov. 30 giving the south a victory. The southern governors' conference pushed the case. The order called for a reduction of railroad freight rates from the south to the north on stoves, ranges, stone, enameled iron, steel plumber's goods, fire hydrants, pipe fittings, valves, talc, and soapstone.

The reductions ranged from 5 to 35 per cent on these items. At present, rates on various manufactured and processed goods moving from the south to the north range from about 105 to 160 per cent of the comparable rates within the north.

North Organizes Resistance.

Charging that the rate changes would give the southern industries undue advantage in competing for markets and that businesses in the north which have grown up as a result of long established practices and regulations would be undermined by a change in freight rates, midwestern states organized last spring to resist the southern demands. After the order of Nov. 30 was issued, representatives of midwestern industries, states and railroads met in New York City to seek a way to reopen the case.

The theory on which higher rates are charged the south involves several factors. One is traffic density. Where there is a large amount of traffic, as in the north, the freight carriers can haul goods more cheaply than where there is less freight to be moved, as in the south.

Wage Scale Is Factor.

Another factor is the wage scale paid to industrial workers. Southern workers generally are paid less than northern workers in corresponding lines.

The commission, in its 5 to 4 decision on the rate issue, said it acted on the general principle that reasonably uniform rates should prevail from producing sections to common markets.

In their petition yesterday, the northern roads said the commission wrongly assumed that rates from the south to the north average about 139 per cent of the rates within the north. They said the southern rates to some parts of the north are "substantially less" than 139 per cent.

NEW INDUSTRIAL USES DEVELOPED FOR SOY BEANS

Urbana, Ill., Jan. 11 (AP).—The blending of two heretofore "incompatible" substances—soy bean protein and formaldehyde—presenting numerous new uses for one of the country's newer crops was announced today.

G. H. Brother of the United States regional soy bean industrial products laboratory at the University of Illinois, told a Farm and Home week audience that the method put the substances on a "friendly" basis and offered almost unlimited practical commercial applications in the rapidly growing industry.

He listed among the new uses the manufacture of laminated boards with a highly lustrous finish, the production of better leather finishes, shoeshop dressings and the making of a glassine-type paper.

"There are numerous other possible applications which will be found and encouraged as they appear," he predicted.

By means of the process, he said, it is possible to produce a solution which can be applied easily by brushing, swabbing, spraying or dipping and which when it dries becomes "protein formaldehyde, the most stable, water resistant, and toughest form of protein known."

Referee Reports on Corn 'Corner' Case.

S. Abbot Maginnis.

The Chicago Board of Trade yesterday was exonerated of price manipulation charges brought against it by Cargill, Inc., in a report submitted by Referee S. Abbot Maginnis of the Commodity Exchange commission in Washington, D. C.

Maginnis recommended that the commission uphold the appeal of Howard Ellis, attorney for the exchange, asking dismissal of the charges. To date the six months of hearings, plus a year and a half of bewildering arguments, briefs, pleas, objections, and counterobjections, have covered only the testimony of Cargill in its attempt to prove manipulation by the board in the September, 1937, corn futures market. Presentations of the defense in the 14,199 pages of testimony, containing some 3,500,000 words, were confined to cross-egamination of Cargill witnesses.

Failed to Make Case.

Maginnis in his report stated that Cargill "has failed to make a prima facie case within the issues despite the fact that, as shown by the voluminous record, the utmost latitude has been allowed to counsel in making proof."

The two year old fight between the exchange and the Minneapolis grain concern began in September, 1937, when Cargill held an extensive long position in corn futures for delivery that month. The Board of Trade charged Cargill attempted to corner the market. The exchange halted trading and decreed a settlement price for open contracts.

This, Cargill complained to the commission, was in violation of the commodity exchange act and constituted manipulation of prices for the benefit of shorts. A special Board of Trade committee found Cargill guilty on virtually the same counts, and Cargill was expelled from membership on the exchange in March, 1938.

Charges Price Manipulation.

Later the secretary of agriculture charged Cargill with commodity exchange act violation and price manipulation. Hearings on the latter charge will be resumed here late this month, but have no direct connection with the hearings with which yesterday's report by Maginnis was concerned.

"The referee," Maginnis stated in the report, "is convinced that the only result, if the commission should require the Board of Trade to put up a defense, would be to make it more clear that Cargill cannot make out a case."

He allowed 15 days for the filing of objections by Cargill and the exchange. After arguments on the objections the report will be ruled on by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, Secretary of Commerce Hopkins, and Attorney General Jackson. If this board allows the plea, the case will be thrown out. If the plea is denied, the Board of Trade must make a defense.

Maginnis' report found that Cargill attempted to conceal its holdings of several million bushels of September, 1937, corn futures by making con-

New York Stocks.

New York, Jan. 11 (AP).—The stock market today suffered its biggest setback in about six weeks. Selling, partly on revived tax fears, tumbled leaders 1 to more than 3 points.

Specialties and low priced issues led a quiet rally in the forenoon. This failed to hold in the majority of cases. Volume of offerings picked up appreciably in the final hour as a large batch of stop-loss orders was uncovered in steels, motors, aircrafts, and other pivotals. Attempts to stem the retreat near the finish were unavailing and closing quotations were at or near the lowest levels.

Prominent in the relapse were United States Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, General Motors, Douglas Aircraft, Glenn Martin, United States Rubber, Montgomery Ward, International Harvester, Anaconda, Western Union, American Telephone, Westinghouse, du Pont, Union Carbide, and Great Northern.

Reports that a tax on soft drinks was being considered by Washington authorities weakened such shares as Loft, which controls Pepsi-Cola, Canada Dry, and Coca-Cola.

Managing to keep slightly higher were United Drug, American Can, Dow Chemical, and Commercial Investment Trust.

Financial quarters which have believed all along that congress would shy away from new taxes in an election year inclined to reverse this opinion when administration officials reported President Roosevelt looked with favor on a 10 per cent "super tax" on incomes as a means of paying for national emergency defense costs of $460,000,000.

Business news remained more hopeful than otherwise and served as a cushion for an assortment of stocks. Rails were not as soft as other groups because last week's loadings made a more than seasonal upturn.

New York Bonds.

New York, Jan. 11 (AP).—Industrial issues received a decided lift today in the most active bond market this new year. Transactions totaled $7,754,000, face value, compared with $5,839,000 yesterday.

Traders, however, centered much of their attention on the curb where more than $700,000, face value, of Associated Gas & Electric bonds sold at declines ranging as much as 9⅛ points. The reason was the company's plea for reorganization under the federal bankruptcy law. All the issues sold below $200 per bond against 1939-1940 highs of $470 to $682.50.

United States government loans, in small transactions, closed 6-32 point higher to 7-32 lower. In the foreign list dollar loans of Denmark, Norway, Oslo City, Buenos Aires, and Italy were among the few gainers.

Chicago Stocks.

Stocks declined fractions to a point or more on the Chicago exchange yesterday after an early advance. Volume leaders included Commonwealth Edison, which closed at 32⅛, down ⅛. Middle West corporation, off ⅛ at 9¼, and Allied Laboratories, which touched a new high of 20¼ before closing unchanged at 20. Another new high was made by American Public Service at 100, up 2½.

Bank Stocks.

American National bank stock declined two points at 210 yesterday; Chicago Title and Trust lost one at 121; Continental Illinois eased half a point to 92½. First National gained two points to close at a bid of 230. Other issues were steady.

FAIRCHILD ORDERS SOAR.

Unfilled orders of the Fairchild Aviation corporation totaled $2,002,470 on Nov. 30, against $951,603 a year earlier, the company reports.

Commodities

Sugar futures weathered a wave of selling that swept the markets for other staples in New York yesterday, with domestic sugar contracts advancing one to two points. World contracts closed unevenly.

Wool tops, cocoa, crude rubber, and cottonseed oil futures all recorded declines. Scattered buying was sufficient to buoy coffee futures slightly.

Most metal markets were quiet, altho consumer buying of lead was reported active.

The carryover of domestic wool in the United States at the opening of the new marketing season on April 1 may be the smallest in recent years, according to the bureau of agricultural economics.

Domestic mill consumption will probably continue at a high level in the first quarter of 1940, and imports of apparel wool may be larger than at any time since early 1937, the bureau said.

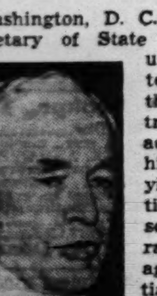
SEC. HULL URGES EXTENSION OF TRADE PACT ACT

Opposes Senate Power to Pass on Treaties.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 11 (AP).—Secretary of State Hull earnestly urged congress today to extend the life of the trade agreements act and recorded his blunt, unyielding opposition to giving the senate power to ratify or kill the agreements negotiated under it.



Sec. Cordell Hull.

The program, he told the house ways and means committee, has worked advantageously for the entire American economy, contributed heavily to business recovery, and "expanded markets at home and abroad for all groups of producers." To give the senate ratification power would expose the agreements to minority filibusters and rob the program of both its "shadow and substance," he asserted. He declared critics of the program were guilty of "unscrupulous suppression and misuse of material facts."

Signals Start of Fight.

His appearance before the committee signaled the official start of the principal controversy of the present session of congress. It involves one of the few specific pieces of legislation recommended by the President.

Hull, grave and unsmiling at all times, nevertheless displayed flashes of dry wit which delighted not only the 100 or so spectators, but the high tariff congressmen who fenced with him thruout the day.

When Representative Treadway [R., Mass.] complained that the trade program had brought bad business in New England, Hull produced a report of the New England Council, an association of New England industrialists and business men, saying business was generally brisk and much improved. The secretary suggested that perhaps Treadway had best "debate" the point with the council. Treadway objected and said he could produce witnesses from the New England Council who would show the trade agreements program had bad effect.

Expects British Purchase.

In addition to his general argument for the trade agreements program for which he has been battling thruout a long career in public life, Hull let it be known that he expected a big British purchase of agricultural products soon, and that import quotas had been attached to some of the trade agreements to avoid public criticism that they offered insufficient protection for American producers.

Hull told the committee that in 1937 and 1938, American exports to nations with which it has trade agreements increased 61 per cent, while exports to "nonagreement countries" rose "only 38 per cent." In reply to arguments that the program has hurt the farmer, Hull said that after two and one-half years of the Smoot-Hawley tariff act farm income had fallen from $11,200,000,000 in 1929 to $4,700,000,000 in 1932, but that it increased to $7,600,000,000 by 1938, exclusive of benefit payments.

Big Tariff Cut Alleged.

From the Republicans of the committee came charges that under the trade agreements act, Hull had made a 40 per cent general downward revision of the tariff rates, something congress would never have "dared" to do. They also said that Hull, unlike his opponents, has all the governmental statistics-gathering machinery at his disposal in the present fight. The latter factor, said Representative Treadway, was a severe handicap to the opponents of the trade agreements program.

The act under which the program operates was passed in 1943, and unless extended will expire on June 12.

Referee Submits Report on Corn 'Corner' Case.

tracts with Continental Grain company and Uhlmann Grain company. On Aug. 9 Cargill held 8,000,000 bushels, or 41.6 per cent of the total open interest. This was more corn than the total United States visible supply of 7,125,000 bushels on Aug. 7.

This long line on Sept. 24, the day the exchange halted trading and decreed a settlement price of $1.10½ a bushel, amounted to 6,744,000 bushels. Due to closing out of other traders' contracts it had jumped to 84.2 per cent of the total long holdings of corn futures for delivery that month. On Sept. 24 the total United States visible supply of corn available for delivery on contracts was 3,864,000 bushels.

Demand Sale of Corn.

All during September, Maginnis reported, Cargill and exchange officials met day and night, the exchange officials declaring the long line threatened the market and demanding that Cargill sell corn. Cargill refused. Meanwhile the price of corn gyrated wildly as shorts made feverish attempts to cover their commitments.

Cargill bought cash corn in the country all thru September and began to sell on Oct. 1, Maginnis said. In the next 15 days corn dropped 50 cents a bushel.

Contention Held Unreasonable.

"The contention of Cargill that a merchant has more right than a speculator to acquire a long line and sit on it, no matter whether there is enough grain available for delivery on it, is unreasonable," the report said.

It termed "unwarranted" Cargill's contention that the business conduct committee's only proper recourse in the event of a corner being held was to close the market.

Found Guilty by Exchange.

March, 1938—Exchange expels Cargill.

May, 1938—Exchange asks CEA to dismiss Cargill charges.

October, 1938—Dismissal motion denied by CEA.

WHEAT FUTURES LOWER DESPITE BRITISH BUYING

Market Declines 3 Cents from Day's High.

The purchase of 50 to 60 million bushels of Australian cash wheat by England was reported yesterday, following the purchase of 20 to 30 million bushels of Canadian and an undisclosed amount of Argentine grain on Wednesday.

While wheat prices on the Chicago Board of Trade moved up about ¾ cent in the early trading, the buying power gave out later and the market dropped about 3 cents from the early high before short covering checked the decline. Closing trades were at the bottom, with losses of 2 to 2⅛ cents.

Market Lowest in a Month.

The market went into new low ground since the middle of December. Dollar wheat was erased from the market blackboards for the first time in a month.

It was intimated that many speculators turned to the selling side of the market on the belief that the British government purchases had been sufficient to cover most requirements for the balance of the crop year which ends July 31. English import wheat requirements are about 200 million bushels annually.

Other Countries Buy Wheat.

Continental countries purchased 1,500,000 bushels of Canadian cash wheat and exporters are said to have taken a like amount in expectation of being able to dispose of the grain to Holland, Belgium, and Scandinavian countries. Winnipeg wheat futures closed 1 to 1⅛ cents lower.

Corn futures closed ⅛ to ⅞ cent lower, oats unchanged to ¼ cent lower, and rye 1⅝ to 1⅞ cents lower. Soybeans closed ½ to 1½ cents higher.

REVEAL AUSTRALIAN DEAL

LONDON, Jan. 11 (AP).—The ministry of food today announced an agreement with the Australian wheat board for the purchase of 1,650,000 tons of wheat and flour. The ministry said arrangements for shipment are in hand and that loading has started.

Reuter's [British] News Agency, in a Canberra dispatch, said Prime Minister R. G. Menzies is expected to announce soon the sale to the United Kingdom of 50,000,000 bushels of wheat, and that the United Kingdom will arrange for transport of the grain

RESERVE BANK REPORTS

Additional idle funds piled up in American banks in the week ended Jan. 10, the federal reserve board reported yesterday. It said lendable excess reserves of member banks of the federal reserve system increased $110,000,000 to $5,380,000,000.

The excess reserves have been increasing steadily since money spent by Christmas shoppers began flowing back from retailers to the banks.

The board said the 12 federal reserve banks sold $7,000,000 of government securities in the week, reducing these investments to $2,477,000,000. The report follows:

COTTON

Weakness abroad led to general selling of cotton futures yesterday. Houses with Bombay and Liverpool connections sold heavily and found the market rather poorly supported. Closing trades were about the bottom with losses of .07 to .17 cent a pound. New crop deliveries showed the most decline.

Spot cotton closed .19 cent lower to .10 cent higher with New York, 11.26 cents; New Orleans, 11.48 cents; Galveston, 10.98 cents, and Houston at 10.75 cents a pound. Prices follow:

Allotment of Australian Wool Two-thirds Absorbed

Boston, Mass., Jan. 11 (AP).—An Australian trade commissioner's report that American buyers had already taken up nearly two-thirds of the 75,000 bales of Australian wool allocated to them under a plan announced two weeks ago was given the Boston wool trade tonight. Commissioner L. R. MacGregor said the balance of the allotment would probably be acquired within the next 10 days.
